Senate Approves $3,750,000,000 Loan to Britain

LABOR BILL WILL BE TAKEN UP BY SENATE

Senators Decide By 66 to 9 Vote To Begin Debate On Measure Now

Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, Says It Is Time for Congress To Show "Some Guts"

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The Senate voted 66 to 9 today to take up labor legislation immediately despite John L. Lewis's "truce" offer but the trend of debate indicated there would be no action until late next week at the earliest.

In the House, Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) sought immediate consideration of a bill to penalize strikes against public utilities or interstate commerce without sixty days notice but Speaker Rayburn withheld recognition. Members of a House Judiciary subcommittee agreed to support legislation outlawing royalty payments to unions and seek action on the floor next week.

As the Senate plunged into debate which may go for many days, Senators McMahon (D-Conn) and Morse (R-Ore) introduced resolutions calling for investigations. McMahon proposed a Senate-House inquiry into working conditions in the mines. Morse urged "nationwide hearings on the whole problem of labor relations" by a Senate Labor subcommittee.

House Resolution Introduced

A resolution identical with McMahon's was introduced in the House by Rep. Gore (D-Tenn), Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House:

"I congratulate the gentleman on introduction of this resolution and I hope it will be given favorable consideration soon."

Backers of restraints on labor unions left the initial talking largely to those who opposed labor measures until the Senate recessed late in the afternoon until Monday.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) pleaded that "we moderate our passions."

"We are not legislating for John L. Lewis when we pass labor legislation," he said. "We are legislating for all the workers and all the employers."

Senator Revercomb, Republican from the coal mining state of West Virginia, expressed hope the Senate "will not deal with any special legislation for any special industry."

On the other hand, Senator Wiley (R-Wis) asserted it is time for Congress to show "some guts."

"I'm not going to be lulled into sleep by a twelve-day respite," he said.

As soon as the British loan bill passed in midafternoon, Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) moved to take up the labor measure and the Senate approved on a roll call vote of 66 to 9.

The negative votes were cast by Senator Aiken (R-Vt) and eight Democrats—Senators Magnuson

UMBERTO IS NEW ITALIAN KING

Umberto Is New King of Italy; Powers Limited

Rome, May 10. (AP)—The Italian cabinet approved today the assumption of the throne by Crown Prince Umberto, but stipulated that he could rule only with limited powers until June 2, when the Italians will decide whether they want a monarchy or a republic.

The cabinet decided at an extraordinary session that Umberto could approve decrees up until the referendum date with the signature "Umberto II, King of Italy," but ordered eliminated the traditional following phrase, "by the grace of God and the will of the people."

Recognition of Umberto was decided upon over the objection of Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, who declared the abdication of King Vittorio Emanuele was a violation of the truce on the monarchy and would not be accepted by the people.

Earlier the Communists had indicated they would oppose Umberto's succession to the throne, and the Socialist press jeeringly referred to him as only "The King of May." Headlines in the Socialist newspapers said "fascist prince succeeds fascist king for twenty-three days."

Umberto, who has served for two years as lieutenant general of the realm, was designated by his abdicated father to succeed to the throne before the king and queen sailed away last night into exile.

Umberto in a letter to the Italian cabinet today promised to abide by the decision of the referendum on June 2 and thus may serve less than a month as king.

Corruption Cited At Pearl Harbor Base by Admiral

WASHINGTON, May 10—(AP)—Hula girl brassieres, navy-supervised crap games, and a $2,430 kick-back on a carload of cold storage eggs figured today in an official account of wartime corruption at the Navy's Pearl Harbor base.

The report, based on a navy investigation, was delivered to the Senate War Investigating committee by Rear Admiral Austin K. Doyle, deputy navy inspector general, and Marine Col. Iven H. Stickney.

Mead Is Indignant

Expressing indignation over the disclosures, Committee Chairman Mead (D-NY) declared as the hearing recessed:

"The good name of the navy should not be jeopardized by the illegal rascalities of the men behind the line."

Filling in details of testimony begun yesterday, the committee heard first about the navy-sanctioned gambling which Doyle declared was carried on in 1943 and 1944 at the recreation hall of civilian housing area No. 3, adjacent to the navy yard.

The admiral said a chief boatswain's mate was stationed in the gambling hall "to keep order, regulate the gambling and see that only the proper persons were admitted." Proper persons, he explained, were bona fide residents of the housing project which sheltered civilian navy yard workers.

Penny-Ante Permitted

Doyle testified that the responsible navy officials, pestered by complaints of 'round-the-clock gambling in the workers' quarters, decided to permit supervised, penny-ante gambling in the recreation hall. Penny-ante didn't last long, Doyle said, and soon the lid was off on the size of bets.

The senators wanted to know whether anybody got a rake-off from the games. Doyle was reluctant to discuss that angle with the case still in preparation. However, he said one professional gambler had offered $300 a day and ten per cent of the take for an exclusive franchise.

Mead read into the record that Rear Admiral William R. Furlong was commandant of the navy yard at the time and Vice Admiral D. W. Bagley in charge of the Fourteenth (Hawaiian) Naval district.

Directly in charge of the civilian housing area was Capt. (then Lt. Comdr.) John H. Kangeter, now under indictment along with another officer and two civilians for conspiracy to defraud the government.

Concessions In Area Cited

Kangeter and the other three—Lt. John E. Carter, William S. Mitchell and A. L. Kilgo—organized the American Pacific Trading Company and enjoyed some highly profitable dealings with concessions in the housing area, Doyle said.

Kilgo acted on his own hook, however, in a lucrative operation in hula brassieres, Stickney told the committee. He added that Kilgo, as civilian manager of the messing clubs at the housing development, paid one Dorothy Oko 20 or 25 cents apiece for doing the needlework on them. Stickney said Kilgo boosted the price to $1 when he delivered

Vote on Passage Is 46-34; Fate In House Seems To Be Uncertain

Legislation Authorizes Advance of Funds under Agreement Made Last December

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—A fifty-year loan of $3,750,000,000 to prime Great Britain's economic pump was approved by the Senate today and sent to an uncertain fate in the House.

By a 46 to 34 vote the chamber approved without changing any of its terms legislation authorizing the advance of funds under an agreement signed with the British last December.

Passage came after the administration, in full command of the situation, beat down amendments which Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) contended would have forced renegotiation of the agreement with resultant delays.

As approved by the Senate, the loan bill authorized the Treasury to advance up to $3,750,000,000 to the British during the next five years. They would pay no interest during that time, but would begin paying two per cent in 1951.

The British could obtain waiver of interest payments whenever their exports failed to exceed sixty per cent of those of the period immediately before the war.

In return, the British promised to attempt within a year to begin dissolving the wartime currency restrictions under which countries in the so-called "sterling bloc" sold goods to England and received credits they could spend only for British goods and services.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told his colleagues that $2,200,000 would be needed by Britain to meet her immediate financial obligations and $1,300,000,000 to bring British troops back home from all over the world. An opponent of the loan, Taft said that would leave little for long-range financial help.

On the final test, seventeen Republicans joined twenty-nine Democrats in supporting the loan proposal. Registered against it were eighteen Republicans, fifteen Democrats and one Progressive.

Hope for Speedy Action on Draft Act Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — Administration hopes of getting an emergency forty-five day draft extension through the House as speedily as it passed the Senate were shattered today and the fate of the act expiring next Wednesday reverted to uncertainty.

The Military committee quickly approved the resolution and leaders called it up in the House under procedure requiring unanimous consent for its consideration. An objection by Rep. Sheridan (D-Pa) of the Military committee, however, forced a postponement until Monday.

The resolution as passed by the Senate in five minutes yesterday would continue the draft from May 15 to July 1 as it now operates. With the delay in House action, however, several representatives indicated they would offer amendments to

Russia To Yield On Two Points In Italian Pact

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, May 10 (AP)—Russia yielded tonight on two disputed points in the Italian treaty before the four-power foreign ministers council, indicating, American sources said, a possible opening wedge in the week-long stalemate between the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, agreed to give Italy sole trusteeship of her colonies won in pre-fascist days and to consent to an Allied War Criminals Commission inside Italy—two points he previously opposed.

Although, American sources said, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes agreed to both points, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the council he maintained reservations" concerning the colonies.

Molotov previously had disagreed with the proposal—first put forth by the French—for allowing Italy to act as trustee of her former colonies under the United Nations, a demanding that Russia be given a dominant role in Tripolitania in Northern Africa. Observers believed Molotov's surprise move today was tantamount to withdrawing his demand for Tripolitania.

British sources said Bevin consented to designate Italy as sole trustee of Tripolitania and other portions of her former African empire only if the council agreed to name Great Britain as trustee of

25 to 30 Airmen Killed in Crash Of Navy Bombers

MUNSON, Fla., May 10 (AP)—Two big four engined navy bombers crashed in flames in a remote and wooded sector eight miles north of here today, carrying an estimated twenty-five to thirty airmen to their deaths.

The planes, identified as B-24 Liberators, apparently were engaged in maneuvers and accompanied by a pursuit ship when they collided and crashed, said L. C. Cook, dispatcher for the state forest service at Munson.

Navy officers withheld comment other than saying that two ships had crashed and that an announcement would be made when next of kin of the victims had been notified.

Cook said a search party from the naval air training center here went to the scene, and that he was informed by members of the party the death toll ran between twenty-five and thirty.

The dispatcher reported the two bombers, accompanied by the pursuit ship, roared overhead in a northerly direction about 10:30 o'clock this morning. The smaller craft was diving and wheeling about the bombers, apparently in practice, he said.

A few minutes later, Cook reported, he spoted a column of smoke and sent a ranger to investigate. Five miles to the north the ranger came upon the burning wreckage of the big ships, with the bodies of the victims inside, the dispatcher said. The body of one airman, with his parachute unopened, was found nearby.

U. S. Asks Delay In Granting UN Memberships

By LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The United States tonight asked the United Nations Security Council to hold up action on requests for U.N. membership pending a study of qualifications and procedure by a sub-committee.

The request, transmitted to the council by Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., would block any real efforts for action on Albania's application, the only one now on the agenda. The Albanian bid was tabled in the London U.N. meetings at the suggestion of Stettinius and is the only matter on the calendar which has not been discussed at the sessions here.

Iceland, Sweden, Switzerland and Ireland also have been reported interested in membership, but none has filed application.

Under the United States plan, the council would refer for examination all applications on hand up to July 15 to a sub-committee composed of representatives of the eleven nations on the council. A report would then be submitted to the council, which would act in August and make recommendations the next month to the general assembly, which must make final decision.

The proposal was expected to

Operators Accept Two Weeks Truce; Production Is To Start Monday

Truman Tells Owners and Lewis To Reach Accord and Bring in Contract by Wednesday

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The forty-day soft coal strike was temporarily halted tonight as operators accepted John L. Lewis's proposal for a two-weeks' truce.

The White House announced that both sides to the conflict crippling the American economy had agreed to the principle of a health and welfare fund, but they were still far from accord on the details of a new contract. President Truman told them to reach one and bring it to him by next Wednesday.

One jump ahead of expected action by a Congress alarmed over the industrial crisis, Lewis ordered his 400,000 bituminous miners to dig coal until May 25 if the operators would agree to make any pay increase retroactive to today.

The "captive" mines — which are owned by the steel companies and the output of which goes into steel production — quickly agreed.

Expect Price Increases

The spokesmen for the other operators went into a huddle and announced that they accepted also, adding that they had received government assurance of price rises corresponding to the increased costs.

Pledging that they will try to carry out Mr. Truman's mandate for quick peace, the operators' statement said:

"Whether Mr. Lewis' proposal is a sincere effort to solve this tremendously important problem or is a move to appease public opinion and delay impending legislation the next five days will tell."

Plans call for crews to enter mines tomorrow to prepare them for production, which is scheduled to get under way Monday.

Summoned to the White House for a 4 p. m. conference, Lewis and Charles O'Neill, operators' spokesman, told reporters afterward that the president had called upon them to reach a contract in four or five days.

Then Charles G. Ross, presiden-

Termed "Only Potential Curative Agent" for Vivax Malaria

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 10—(AP)—Dr. Nathan L. Drake, head of the University of Maryland's Chemistry Department, has announced development there of a synthetic drug which he terms "the only potential curative agent" for vivax malaria, the relapsing and common form of the disease.

Thousands of servicemen overseas contracted the diseases, which Drake says "none of the antimalarials no wbeing used as suppressives will cure."

The drug, known as SN-13,276, "is the only potential curative agent for vivax malaria which can be used without too great danger of accompanying toxic effects," Drake said. He added that the drug known as SN-7618 would not cure relapsing vivax.

Drake said human tests had been going on for the past seven months at the University of Chicago under the direction of Dr. Alf Alving. Ultimate judgment upon the drug cannot be made for another two years, he added.

"It cannot be established," he said, "that relapses will not occur until the normal period in which the disease burns itself out has elapsed. Neither can we be sure that hemolytic anemia may not develop."

Drake said work on the new drug began at the university laboratories less than a year ago, under a contract between the university and the Federal Office of Scientific research and Development.

He said at one time the experiments required three shifts a day seven days a week.

Drake pointed out that the armed forces had found atabrine superior to quinine, as a suppressive but that it turned the skin yellow, and required a tedious daily dosage over a prolonged period, and was not a cure.

The letters "SN" in the name stand for "survey number," he explained, and the figures denote the number of compounds developed in the study.

Scientists Opposed Using Atomic Bomb in Surprise Attack on Japs

CHICAGO, May 10 (AP) — Two months before the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, a committee of scientists told the secretary of war America should not use it first as a "surprise attack on Japan," the bulletin of the atomic scientists said today.

Instead, the publication said, the scientists proposed as the first step, a demonstration of the bomb to the nations of the world, including Japan, in an uninhabited locality."

The committee's report, which the bulletin said the army has now released for publication, was presented to the secretary of war on June 11, 1945.

Before the first a-bomb was dropped on Japan on August 6, 1945, the bulletin said, a petition signed by sixty-four scientists was sent directly to President Truman and a poll of 150 scientists opposed "all-out" use of the new bomb.

The bulletin, published by the Atomic Scientists of Chicago, said the report to the secretary of war June 11 was "agreed upon unanimously" by the seven members of the "committee on social and political implications," appointed by the director of the Metallurgical Laboratory in Chicago, with Prof. James Franck as chairman.

When the report was made, "the war in Europe had ended and the danger of the enemy countries developing the bomb first had disappeared x x x," the bulletin said.

"The main conclusion reached by the committee was that use of the bomb should be considered as a fateful political decision, and not merely as a matter of military tactics x x x.

The committee felt that America should not first introduce the atomic bomb as a legitimate means of warfare by using it for a surprise attack on Japan."

O'Conor's Candidacy Is Indorsed By CIO Political Action Committee

Governor Asserts Indorsement Was Unsolicited; Stands on Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 10 (AP)—Governor O'Conor had the indorsement in his fight for the Democratic senatorial nomination of the CIO-Political Action Committee today, but said the indorsement was unsolicited.

O'Conor added that he had not been consulted by the CIO-PAC before an announcement in Atlantic City, N. J., last night that the PAC was backing him against Senator George L. Radcliffe, candidate for renomination at the June 24 primaries.

Radcliffe said of the CIO-PAC action:

"If they oppose me, I'm sorry."

In his statement concerning the PAC indorsement, O'Conor said:

"This indorsement was unsolicited and in fact I have not been consulted or contacted by any representative of the organization regarding an indorsement.

Stands on Record

"The only information I have is what I have gathered from the newspapers. I am not the candidate of any one group and stand squarely on my record.

"While believing that for the lasting good of America, all elements must be treated fairly and equitably, I have stated emphatically in public addresses that the interests of the general public must be considered first and must be controlling in any situation."

Radcliffe added that "I have done my duty in voting on such measures in the past and I will continue to do so in the future that is the best I feel I can do. If they oppose me, I'm sorry. If they had backed me I would have been glad."

Meanwhile, W. Preston Lane, Jr., candidate for Democratic gubernatorial nomination, discounted estimates of strength for one of his two opponents, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

Russia To Yield On Two Points In Italian Pact

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, May 10 (AP)—Russia yielded tonight on two disputed points in the Italian treaty before the four-power foreign ministers council, indicating, American sources said, a possible opening wedge in the week-long stalemate between the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, agreed to give Italy sole trusteeship of her colonies won in pre-fascist days and to consent to an Allied War Criminals Commission inside Italy—two points he previously opposed.

Although, American sources said, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes agreed to both points, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the council he maintained reservations" concerning the colonies.

Molotov previously had disagreed with the proposal—first put forth by the French—for allowing Italy to act as trustee of her former colonies under the United Nations, a demanding that Russia be given a dominant role in Tripolitania in Northern Africa. Observers believed Molotov's surprise move today was tantamount to withdrawing his demand for Tripolitania.

British sources said Bevin consented to designate Italy as sole trustee of Tripolitania and other portions of her former African empire only if the council agreed to name Great Britain as trustee of

Senate Passes Pay Increase for Regular Postal Employes

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—Legislation increasing the pay of regular postal employes $400 a year was passed by the Senate today and sent to the White House.

Hourly or parttime employes will receive twenty cents an hour extra.

25 to 30 Airmen Killed in Crash Of Navy Bombers

MUNSON, Fla., May 10 (AP)—Two big four engined navy bombers crashed in flames in a remote and wooded sector eight miles north of here today, carrying an estimated twenty-five to thirty airmen to their deaths.

The planes, identified as B-24 Liberators, apparently were engaged in maneuvers and accompanied by a pursuit ship when they collided and crashed, said L. C. Cook, dispatcher for the state forest service at Munson.

Navy officers withheld comment other than saying that two ships had crashed and that an announcement would be made when next of kin of the victims had been notified.

Cook said a search party from the naval air training center here went to the scene, and that he was informed by members of the party the death toll ran between twenty-five and thirty.

The dispatcher reported the two bombers, accompanied by the pursuit ship, roared overhead in a northerly direction about 10:30 o'clock this morning. The smaller craft was diving and wheeling about the bombers, apparently in practice, he said.

A few minutes later, Cook reported, he spoted a column of smoke and sent a ranger to investigate. Five miles to the north the ranger came upon the burning wreckage of the big ships, with the bodies of the victims inside, the dispatcher said. The body of one airman, with his parachute unopened, was found nearby.

Gustave Fast Dies

READING, Pa., May 10. (AP)—Gustave Fast, 62, Swedish-born engineer and scientist, died last night at a Reading hospital after he was taken ill suddenly at the Wyomissing club.

President of the Fast Bearing Company and the Gustave Fast Engineering Company, of Salisbury, Md., Fast came to this country in 1910 and made his home in Annapolis. He moved to Salisbury in 1942.

U. S. Asks Delay In Granting UN Memberships

By LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The United States tonight asked the United Nations Security Council to hold up action on requests for U.N. membership pending a study of qualifications and procedure by a sub-committee.

The request, transmitted to the council by Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., would block any real efforts for action on Albania's application, the only one now on the agenda. The Albanian bid was tabled in the London U.N. meetings at the suggestion of Stettinius and is the only matter on the calendar which has not been discussed at the sessions here.

Iceland, Sweden, Switzerland and Ireland also have been reported interested in membership, but none has filed application.

Under the United States plan, the council would refer for examination all applications on hand up to July 15 to a sub-committee composed of representatives of the eleven nations on the council. A report would then be submitted to the council, which would act in August and make recommendations the next month to the general assembly, which must make final decision.

The proposal was expected to

Operators Accept Two Weeks Truce; Production Is To Start Monday

Truman Tells Owners and Lewis To Reach Accord and Bring in Contract by Wednesday

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The forty-day soft coal strike was temporarily halted tonight as operators accepted John L. Lewis's proposal for a two-weeks' truce.

The White House announced that both sides to the conflict crippling the American economy had agreed to the principle of a health and welfare fund, but they were still far from accord on the details of a new contract. President Truman told them to reach one and bring it to him by next Wednesday.

One jump ahead of expected action by a Congress alarmed over the industrial crisis, Lewis ordered his 400,000 bituminous miners to dig coal until May 25 if the operators would agree to make any pay increase retroactive to today.

The "captive" mines — which are owned by the steel companies and the output of which goes into steel production — quickly agreed.

Expect Price Increases

The spokesmen for the other operators went into a huddle and announced that they accepted also, adding that they had received government assurance of price rises corresponding to the increased costs.

Pledging that they will try to carry out Mr. Truman's mandate for quick peace, the operators' statement said:

"Whether Mr. Lewis' proposal is a sincere effort to solve this tremendously important problem or is a move to appease public opinion and delay impending legislation the next five days will tell."

Plans call for crews to enter mines tomorrow to prepare them for production, which is scheduled to get under way Monday.

Summoned to the White House for a 4 p. m. conference, Lewis and Charles O'Neill, operators' spokesman, told reporters afterward that the president had called upon them to reach a contract in four or five days.

Then Charles G. Ross, presiden-

Termed "Only Potential Curative Agent" for Vivax Malaria

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 10—(AP)—Dr. Nathan L. Drake, head of the University of Maryland's Chemistry Department, has announced development there of a synthetic drug which he terms "the only potential curative agent" for vivax malaria, the relapsing and common form of the disease.

Thousands of servicemen overseas contracted the diseases, which Drake says "none of the antimalarials no wbeing used as suppressives will cure."

The drug, known as SN-13,276, "is the only potential curative agent for vivax malaria which can be used without too great danger of accompanying toxic effects," Drake said. He added that the drug known as SN-7618 would not cure relapsing vivax.

Drake said human tests had been going on for the past seven months at the University of Chicago under the direction of Dr. Alf Alving. Ultimate judgment upon the drug cannot be made for another two years, he added.

"It cannot be established," he said, "that relapses will not occur until the normal period in which the disease burns itself out has elapsed. Neither can we be sure that hemolytic anemia may not develop."

Drake said work on the new drug began at the university laboratories less than a year ago, under a contract between the university and the Federal Office of Scientific research and Development.

He said at one time the experiments required three shifts a day seven days a week.

Drake pointed out that the armed forces had found atabrine superior to quinine, as a suppressive but that it turned the skin yellow, and required a tedious daily dosage over a prolonged period, and was not a cure.

The letters "SN" in the name stand for "survey number," he explained, and the figures denote the number of compounds developed in the study.

Scientists Opposed Using Atomic Bomb in Surprise Attack on Japs

CHICAGO, May 10 (AP) — Two months before the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, a committee of scientists told the secretary of war America should not use it first as a "surprise attack on Japan," the bulletin of the atomic scientists said today.

Instead, the publication said, the scientists proposed as the first step, a demonstration of the bomb to the nations of the world, including Japan, in an uninhabited locality."

The committee's report, which the bulletin said the army has now released for publication, was presented to the secretary of war on June 11, 1945.

Before the first a-bomb was dropped on Japan on August 6, 1945, the bulletin said, a petition signed by sixty-four scientists was sent directly to President Truman and a poll of 150 scientists opposed "all-out" use of the new bomb.

The bulletin, published by the Atomic Scientists of Chicago, said the report to the secretary of war June 11 was "agreed upon unanimously" by the seven members of the "committee on social and political implications," appointed by the director of the Metallurgical Laboratory in Chicago, with Prof. James Franck as chairman.

When the report was made, "the war in Europe had ended and the danger of the enemy countries developing the bomb first had disappeared x x x," the bulletin said.

"The main conclusion reached by the committee was that use of the bomb should be considered as a fateful political decision, and not merely as a matter of military tactics x x x.

The committee felt that America should not first introduce the atomic bomb as a legitimate means of warfare by using it for a surprise attack on Japan."

O'Conor's Candidacy Is Indorsed By CIO Political Action Committee

Governor Asserts Indorsement Was Unsolicited; Stands on Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 10 (AP)—Governor O'Conor had the indorsement in his fight for the Democratic senatorial nomination of the CIO-Political Action Committee today, but said the indorsement was unsolicited.

O'Conor added that he had not been consulted by the CIO-PAC before an announcement in Atlantic City, N. J., last night that the PAC was backing him against Senator George L. Radcliffe, candidate for renomination at the June 24 primaries.

Radcliffe said of the CIO-PAC action:

"If they oppose me, I'm sorry."

In his statement concerning the PAC indorsement, O'Conor said:

"This indorsement was unsolicited and in fact I have not been consulted or contacted by any representative of the organization regarding an indorsement.

Stands on Record

"The only information I have is what I have gathered from the newspapers. I am not the candidate of any one group and stand squarely on my record.

"While believing that for the lasting good of America, all elements must be treated fairly and equitably, I have stated emphatically in public addresses that the interests of the general public must be considered first and must be controlling in any situation."

Radcliffe added that "I have done my duty in voting on such measures in the past and I will continue to do so in the future that is the best I feel I can do. If they oppose me, I'm sorry. If they had backed me I would have been glad."

Meanwhile, W. Preston Lane, Jr., candidate for Democratic gubernatorial nomination, discounted estimates of strength for one of his two opponents, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

"The ridiculous claims of strength,"

Education May Now Be Received By Eligible Vets

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is it true that a veteran is not entitled to educational benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights unless he can prove that he was under 25 years of age when he entered the service, or that his education was halted? (MRS. H.)

An amendment to the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 states that any eligible veteran now may receive one year of education or training, plus additional education (up to a maximum of four years) for total length of active service. He need not have been under twenty-five years when he entered service, nor need he show that his education was interrupted by war service.

Entitled to Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is in the marines and will be discharged on the first of the month. Am I entitled to my allowance check for the month in which my husband is separated from the service? (MRS.) J. T.

Yes. If a man is discharged on the first of the month, his wife will receive her allowance check for that month sometime during the early part of the following month.

Outfit Is Still Overseas

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Can you tell me if Company "C" Two Hundred and Sixty engineers is enroute to the states? If so, when will it arrive? If not, has a date been set for its sailing? (MRS. C.)

Company "C", of the Two Hundred Sixty engineers is still overseas at this writing. It is scheduled to return but no date for its sailing has been set.

"Hardship," "Dependency" Same

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What is the difference between the words "hardship" and "dependency," when used in connection with a man's discharge from the service? Is he entitled to mustering-out pay in such cases? (D. A. C.)

The terms "hardship" and "dependency" mean the same thing, i.e., cause for discharge in order to provide for dependents. Whether one or the other is used in referring to the reason for a man's discharge, he will receive his mustering-out pay. When a man is separated for his own convenience to accept employment, he will not receive mustering-out pay.

Family Allowance Continues

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is in the regular army and has been assigned to a post outside of the United States. The War department has arranged for me and our children to join him. Does this mean we will lose our family allowance? (M. V. B.)

No. Your family allowance will continue as long as your husband remains on active duty in a pay status, and you and your children remain eligible.

It Does No Good To Blame Lewis

IT HAS BEEN STATED REPEATEDLY in these columns that blame for the coal stoppage, which has paralyzed the industry of the nation, should not be placed personally upon John L. Lewis, head of the coal miners' union, and in view of the fact that there is a growing tendency so to place the blame its correct placement needs further emphasis.

In various quarters this correction is being made. Mark Sullivan, the noted Washington correspondent, again makes it in his dispatch published elsewhere in this issue today. Various newspapers are finding reason to re-emphasize it.

Among the latter is the Charleston, W. Va., "Daily Mail," which declares the blaming of Lewis is neither fair nor very helpful because he is not, for all his belligerence, the evil genius blocking the way to industrial peace. "He is simply the most successful of the labor leaders in exploiting the powers conferred upon him by law and the peculiar sensitivity of the Democratic administration to the loud demands of a well-organized minority," it says.

It being thus futile to "get Mr. Lewis," the "Daily Mail" points out that he has shown conclusively by a series of protracted strikes that he is difficult if not impossible to get, and that legislation, particularly the Wagner Labor Relations act, which established him in his present position of power, also protects him. Wherefore, if this power is excessive, the way to deal with Lewis and other labor leaders who strive to emulate him is to re-examine that law.

"When that is done," says the "Daily Mail," it will be clearly seen that the 'collective bargaining' which Mr. Lewis engages in when he sees fit, is something of a joke. When he refuses to bargain and resorts, as he has in the present strike, to the ultimatum, both management and the administration are powerless to deal with him. Management has no exchange values either in economics or in law to command his respectful attention to the position of management. The administration has no reference in statute by which to judge or temper his demands.

"Mr. Lewis is fully authorized to call and prolong a disastrous strike for any cause or no cause at all. The only limitation upon his demands or his tactics are his conscience, which is justifiably more concerned with the welfare of his miners, and the body of public opinion which begins to squawk a little belatedly only when the fires begin to burn low. Neither, it is clear, is strong enough to halt the steady approach to economic catastrophe."

But, there is no reason to accept the situation as hopeless, the Charleston newspaper says, unless we admit that reprentative government is a failure. There is no reason, either, to forbid labor's right to strike; but there is "plainly a need for a policy declaring that the right to strike must be conditioned upon some consideration of national welfare," and the "Daily Mail" rightly says that revision of the Wagner act would be a step in that direction. Also a realization by the administration that it exists to guard the national interest would be another.

As for the latter, there seems to be more such regard among congressmen than within the administration as shown by the effort to have labor legislation taken up in the Senate immediately after disposal of the British loan vote. The Congress should act at once and among things it should act upon is that of resolving the doubt which President Truman has expressed over the legality of the Lewis demand to impose a tax on coal to finance a health and welfare fund for miners.

Snyder Fails To Impress The Byrd Committee

JOHN W. SNYDER, the reconversion director, recounted to a Senate committee the other day what a splendid job is being done in getting surplus war material back from the Pacific.

But Senator Byrd, of Virginia, who has a hard head for facts, isn't impressed by the Snyder testimony. In fact, he describes the government's handling of surplus property disposal as "a national scandal," and has ordered an investigation by his joint congressional economy committee. The sale of surplus property, says the Virginian, is so snarled in red tape that "it is practically impossible to find out what materials are available and for how much they can be purchased." This, he contends, is a particularly serious matter when the country is "faced with shortages in many types of goods" at a time when the government has "great supplies of surplus goods which the people want and for which the government has no need."

It is to be hoped that some tangible results will come from the building of this fire under this particular segment of the sprawling federal bureaucracy by Senator Byrd's committee. If it can, it will contribute materially toward remedying a supply situation that has been so handicapping in the efforts to reconvert the country to peacetime operation.

Blimps Survive Competition

IF the World War I dirigibles that gave the world a faint hint of what aerial bombing could do to cities did not reappear in the last war, because they had been outdistanced by more efficient carriers of distruction, the airplane did not supersede the airship altogether. The blimps survived the competition of heavier-than-air craft and they made a notable contribution to victory.

Indeed, they deserve considerably more credit than they have been given, judging from a pamphlet made public the other day by Rear Adm. Charles E. Rosendahl. Certainly it is something of an eye-opener to learn that these non-rigid airships escorted 89,000 surface vessels during the war and not one of their charges was lost to enemy action while they were on guard.

When the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, according to Adm. Rosendahl, the United States possessed only six obsolete blimps. Thereafter 134 were produced for actual service, and of that number one was shot down in action when its bomb release failed during a fight with a submarine in the Caribbean. There were no other battle casualties. The record is remarkable in the light of stastics which reveal that eight squadrons of eight ships, operative eighty-seven per cent of the time, flew 550,000 hours from stations ranging from Alaska to Gibraltar.

Adm. Rosendahl spoke with special pride of the Gibraltar patrol. Blimps, he said, guarded the straits in weather so bad that planes could not fly and, after they took over, kept that vital stretch of water free of enemy submarines. From the time they appeared not one got through.

"I believe," he said, "that the United States will neglect an important weapon if lighter-than-air development is not continued." The record of this craft in the recent conflict constitutes a good case.

Veterans' Memorials Take Useful Trend

THAT America may improve the welfare of the living in honoring its dead of World War II is a consumation devoutly to be wished. The American Public Works Association reports that a trend away from "stone-age memorials" has started in many cities, with surveys of veterans' opinion indicating they prefer "useful" memorials to their dead comrades instead of statues.

Such an attitude is no less realistic than constructive in its implications. Through the centuries the world has become littered with solemn symbols of the supreme sacrifices of mankind to better it, yet the trend of history repeatedly has discounted the inspirational value of such memorials, confirming the Shakespearean dictum that "the good that men do is oft interred with their bones." The world may yet come to a realization that wars defeat their own ends in adding to the sum of human misery and making irresparable inroads on the gain of civilization.

The men who gave their all to serve mankind in World War II rate memorials in terms of tangible good, their objective in expending their lives. There is an infinite variety of ways to make the world better, in memory of them. First in order, of course, is the establishment of lasting peace, with justice and freedom for humanity everywhere. No more useful memorial is conceivable in their behalf.

Additionally, the way Americans live, in keeping the peace in their everyday lives, will show their appreciation of the human values these heroes died to perpetuate. Beyond that, a constructive approach to the furtherance of human welfare, in meeting the needs of living veterans and the claims of all fellow men to charity and compassion, will best show the nation's sincerity in commemorating the dead of World War II.

The inventor of the two-pants suit died the other day, unhonored unsung and his invention outlawed by the OPA, thus again showing that fame is fleeting.

It isn't surprising that Gen. Marshall has been unable to bring peace between the warring Chinese factions. Even Patrick Hurley couldn't do it.

Government experts are to study the cause of floods. They may discover in the course of their endeavors that it is rain.

By MARK SULLIVAN

If there is to be clear thinking about Mr. John L. Lewis's coal strike and the whole labor situation, and wise legislation to deal with it, we must go beneath surface views to find essential facts and the principles that go with them.

We are asked to endure deprivation. Not asked, compelled. The administration directs railroads to reduce trains, hence citizens must forego travel. Municipalities call on utilities to curtail electricity and gas, and citizens must do with less light and heat. Industrial plants are forced to shut down, and citizens lose work and income.

For what purpose? Is it to help fight the cause of the deprivation? If that were the purpose, many might endure with cheerfulness, even satisfaction, in the spirit in which the people of England fought and broke a general strike twenty years ago.

Not an Act of God

If not that, for what purpose? President Truman, when he called the strike a "disaster," implied that there is no purpose; that the strike is something like an earthquake or a flood or a fire which come from an unavoidable or inscrutable cause, and which we must endure just be cause we have to. But it is difficult to translate an act of Mr. John L. Lewis into a phenomenon of nature or an act of God.

If we cannot find a purpose, we can find an effect. The effect is, not to resist Mr. Lewis or handicap him, but to further his aim. Prolonging of the strike, and the public deprivation it entails, is part of the process by which Mr. Lewis is to get what he wants. Our deprivation is not battle against Mr. Lewis, it is tribute paid to him. And after paying the tribute of deprivation, we are later to pay another and permanent tribute in the form of higher prices for coal and for goods in the making of which coal is a factor.

But it is utterly misleading to put excessive emphasis on Mr. Lewis and his union. His strike, as a disaster to national recovery, is no worse than the stoppage of the steel industry by the strike last January, or other strikes differing only in magnitude and not in essential effect.

Individual Action Insufficient

It is easy to be indignant against an individual. Congress is even able to legislate about an individual. Last month Congress enacted a restraint directed against a single individual, Mr. James C. Petrillo, and a union in a single industry, radio; and did it by majorities approximating unanimity in both Senate and House. Doubtless Congress would be glad to pass legislation singling out and restraining Mr. John L. Lewis and his union.

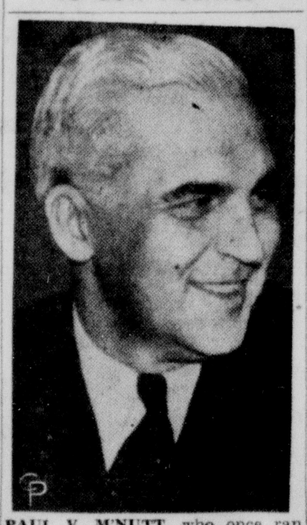
But back of these individual labor leaders is a cause. The cause is the power which they and other labor leaders and unions possess. It is a power to put exactions up on the people, which makes them superior to the people and their special interests superior to the interests of the public as a whole. It is a power even above government, as was proved when, during the war, there were many strikes contrary to the position of President Roosevelt, who said, "I am unalterably opposed to strikes in wartime"; and when, in concrete instances, Mr. Lewis refused to comply with specific directions of a government agency, the War Labor Board.

Four Sources

The sources of this power are four: First, laws passed by Congress, especially the Wagner Labor Relations act. Second, interpretations of that law, and precedents thus set up, by the agency created to administer the Wagner act, the National Labor Relations Board—which interpretations, in the judgment of some, go beyond what Congress intended when it passed the act, and certainly beyond what Congress would be willing to enact now. Third, support of NLRB decisions and policies by courts. Fourth, an attitude toward labor taken by the Roosevelt administration and continued by the Truman one.

The whole question is, is Congress willing to change the law, by amendments or additional legislation or otherwise? If Congress will change the law, administrative agencies and courts will conform, probably they would do so gladly. There have been recent utterances by NLRB as now constituted, and by courts, which convey and implication by saying they are bound by the law as it stands, and that it is the function of Congress to change the law if it desires.

TO QUIT POLITICS



PAUL V. M'NUTT, who once ran for the Democratic presidential nomination, will retire from politics this summer, according to reports in Indianapolis. The former Indiana governor has applied for admission to the New York bar, and his family in Martinsville, Ind., report that he will leave his post as high commissioner in the Philippines immediately after that nation obtains its independence July 4. There are unconfirmed reports that the gray-haired politico will enter a law firm with offices in New York and Washington, D. C.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

John Monroe's Conviction Doesn't Keep Big-Wigs Away from "House on R Street"

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 11 — Three years ago this month, this columnist, laboring under the impression that it was the obligation of newspapers to expose grafters, war profiteers and other bamboozlers of the public, revealed certain strange things that went on in the famous "Red House on R street."

Shortly thereafter, the inmate of that house, one John Monroe, sued this columnist for $1,000,000 with a suit against the Washington Post for $350,000.

The charges I brought against Monroe at first might seem unbelievable; but he was one of the most unbelievable, irrepressible lobbyists ever seen in a city where lobbyists pounce out from the potted palms of every cocktail lounge and where, today, one even occupies a confidential office next to the president.

Monroe had the gall to invite to his Red House on R street the then secretary of the navy, Frank Knox; he invited senators and congressmen, generals and admirals. What's more, he got away with it! They accepted his invitations. He would put his feet up on a chair in the home of Adm. Ernest King, then top commander of the navy, order a Scotch, pick up the phone, and tell one of his cronies:

"I'm up at Adm. King's house. I just wanted to let you know I was working on that contract. The navy thinks it'll be okay."

Rats for Sale

Monroe even offered to sell the entire muskrat production of Louisiana—which obviously he did not control—to a New York fur dealer if the latter would put up $25,000 campaign expenses for Congressman Jimmy Morrison, of Louisiana.

He brought Congressman Compton White, of Idaho, along to a meeting with representatives of New York butchers which turned out to be a discussion of ways and means of black marketeering in meat — a condition of wnich was that the butchers put up $100,000.

Generals, admirals and congressmen flocked to his house despite the fact that shortly before the war, as this column pointed out, Monroe paid an income tax of only $3. He had been sued twenty-two times for debt, was kicked out of West Point, advertised a phoney oil deal in Louisiana which lost money for a lot of poor suckers; he tried to sell munitions to the Greeks, Springfield rifles to the Dominicans, and poked his nose into every war contract where he thought he could rake off a few hundred dollars in commissions.

Much of the above was published by this column — and later proved when the $1,000,000 libel suit came to trial. After two weeks of testimony, the jury required only thirty minutes to decide Monroe was a phoney. It found for the defendant.

Big-Wigs Kept Coming

Even after that, however, senators and congressmen continued to dine at the Red House on R street, and Monroe continued to enjoy the hospitality of Adm. King's home. Not even the facts brought out in the libel suit seemed to hurt the ebullient, irrepressible, unbelievable John Monroe.

Finally, however, the law caught up with him. Monroe was caught by federal authorities for black marketing in textiles to the tune of several hundred thousand dollars. A New York judge gave him a fine of $100,000 and two years in jail to think it over.

And the moral of the story is that almost anything can happen in this war-booming, gullible, lobbyist-ridden, fairy-tale city of Washington. It's sometimes hard even for this case-hardened observer of the Washington Merry-Go-Round to believe all that goes on.

Capital Chaff

The man whom George Allen is pushing for Democratic national chairman to replace Bob Hannegan is Paul Fitzpatrick, New York — a good man, but not as good as Hannegan. . . . Sam Rosenman, who plays cozy with Brother George, is pushing the deal. . . . New York politicoes are holding an important huddle today at a cocktail party given by Boss-of-the-Bronx Ed Flynn. Mayor O'Dwyer, Sen. Mead, Wayne Johnson and five county leaders are putting their heads together as to who will run against Tom Dewey. Mead can have the job it he wants it. . . . Dick Frankensteen, former United Auto official and candidate for mayor of Detroit, applied for a Ford dealership the other day but was turned down. . . . Friends are kidding Attorney General Tom Clark, of Texas, about paying allegiance to two flags, despite the fact that he took an oath to defend only one. He has the Lone Star flag of Texas flying beside his desk. . . . Capt. John Delano, cousin of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and president of the American Pilots Association (marine not air), is spearheading a drive for funds for the Merchant Marine Veterans' Foundation, to begin May 21.

Small Business Protectors

One of the most watchful guardians of small business and the public just before the war was the Justice department's hardhitting anti-trust division. Time after time it exposed co-operation between United States big business and cartels in Germany or Japan which were delaying the American arms program.

It was the anti-trust division which revealed that Standard Oil of New Jersey was in cahoots with Hitler's I. G. Farben to keep synthetic rubber patents away from the United States rubber industry, thus delaying our synthetic rubber program.

It was the anti-trust division which showed up Andy Mellon's Aluminum Corporation of America and its deal with I. G. Farben to limit magnesium—a product essential to airplane manufacture.

It was the anti-trust division which exposed a combine of American electric companies and their co-operation with foreign cartels.

Postwar Need Greater

With the end of the war, President Truman and Attorney General Tom Clark were determined that the anti-trust division be more alert than ever. For the period after the last war was when big business, waving the banner of "Back to Normalcy," entrenched itself firmer than ever.

However they reckoned without pudgy, psalm-singing Congressman Louis Rabaut, of Detroit, chairman of the Subcommittee on Justice Department Appropriations. Louis and his committee whittlers got out their penknives and proceeded to whittle the anti-trust division down to a point lower than during the war.

If the appropriation stands as is, the anti-trust probers, instead of taking on new men, will have to scuttle part of their staff.

Meanwhile, ex-Gov. Harold Stassen says, we require not only a much stronger anti-trust division, but new legislation providing tax penalties on profits taken through monopoly.

Note—Chief whittler of antitrust appropriations during secret committee debates was Republican Rep. Dean Gillespie, of Denver. Chief defender of anti-trust was Republican Karl Steffan, of Nebraska. Other members of the subcommittee were: Hare, S. C., and Kerr, N. C. Democrats; and Jones Ohio, Republican.

World Famine Calls For Strike Ending, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 10 — Six years ago today the world awoke to find that Hitler had ordered the invasion of Belgium and Holland—and the war which had been called "phony" suddenly became total war. That day transformed the whole world situation and caused the United States quickly to begin armament building on an unprecedented scale.

Today the consequences of the sudden and arbitrary act whereby one man could plunge a whole world into total war are by no means ended. They are just beginning. The economic disturbance caused by the war is not confined to the war-torn countries. Nearly every nation is feeling the effects of the war.

The biggest single effect is famine. Food is short and peoples are suffering, not only in former enemy countries but in liberated areas as well. The world cries out for more food. Countries like the United States are being asked to conserve and to help their brethren across the seas. But the necessary aid has not been forthcoming.

On top of the difficulties of getting food without rationing are the complexities due to transportation difficulties growing out of the coal strike.

Millions Lucky

Millions of persons in this world didn't feel the impact of bombs and heard no shots fired. They were the lucky ones. To what extent are they today expressing their gratitude to divine providence by sharing their food supply with the other peoples of the world who were not so fortunate?

The figures show that the United States must give the biggest share from its granary. The coal crisis must be ended soon if food is to be carried to the seaports for shipment.

The mood of the people in America toward these disturbances here and abroad seems strangely indifferent. If there were an aroused public opinion, it would be felt in Congress.

Some members of the House and Senate are vocal, but they are in the minority. The Congress has not been told by the people that there must be greater attention given to the economic problems resulting from war and that it is the business of the legislators to tackle rather than to avoid these questions.

Task of Congress

One major problem is the reconversion from wartime to civilian production. In this, there have been interjected labor controversies. The nation has no constructive labor policy. The politicians know the country wants justice done to the workers and a fair return on capital for management, and the average man feels that somehow this is something Congress should work out.

Under a system of representative government the people are not the ones to figure out solutions. They hold this to be the task of their chosen delegates in the Congress. If the members fail, then there is little else to do but change representatives at the polls.

The present Congress has an enormous responsibility, and it shares with the president the blame for the failure to achieve for the country an orderly reconversion. The coal strike is not the first one on the list. Damaging strikes have caused staggering losses in the automotive industry and in the electrical business, to say nothing of dozens of other related categories of production.

No Occasion for Surprise

The people do not want anyone's rights taken away but, on the other hand, they don't want to see the public interest damaged by any group. The present picture in the coal strike should occasion no surprise. For several weeks the "creeping paralysis" now prevalent in the whole economic system was foreseeh. Pressure on the operators as well as upon the union for a projection of the issues should have been exerted by government. The policy seems to have been to allow the public to suffer and then use the dilemma to compel a compromise. This is not the way to settle labor disputes or to bring about the production of necessary articles. The transportation facilities of the nation rest on coal. In the midst of a world-wide famine freight embargoes have had to be imposed.

Where was the statesmanship to prevent this from happening, and where is the sense of responsibility for the public welfare? The people turn to their government to demand that leadership. But if they are disturbed, Congress hasn't felt it as yet. Maybe next week will see an avalanche of protests.

Books That Have Lived

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I recently attended a gathering of book lovers whose committee had selected one hundred American books that had been of the greatest influence upon the people. There were a notable lot, and were shown in cases in their first editions, gathered from many sources.

Sixty-one of these books were familiar to me, and many of them, books that have brought great joy to me over the years. No one, of course, would select the same ones, but nearly every well read person would have selected many that were in the list.

I paused before the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, the Federalist presented by Hamilton to George Washington and autographed by him., Walden, which Thoreau had inscribed to his mother, Irving's Sketch Book, which I read and re-read in my youth, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, the Emancipation Proclamation, Melville's Moby Dick, New England Primer, Bellamy's Looking Backward, Bay Psalm Book and the entire list comprising books that have lived—and which will always live!

Here were books published in America as long ago as 1644. Beautifully printed books—books that had been handled, read and re-read, and most of them since reprinted, again and again. There was the tiny Montgomery Ward mail order catalog, first printed in 1872, that you could easily put into your inside coat pocket, without anyone knowing about it! The millions of others now so familiar to people in every quarter of the world, certainly have had their influence on the lives of as many millions, even though a commercial book.

Strange that many of these great books along intellectual lines, were so greatly neglected when first published. The books of Poe, Melville, Stephen Crane, and Thoreau, for example, but which have since become classics.

Anything that is written that is worth while, and which enters into the hearts of people, lives on. It may take a little time, but great writing and thinking never dies. Who can estimate the influence, for instance, of the McGuffey Readers?

Should all the great books of the world be suddenly destroyed, still would they live on in the hearts and minds of those influenced by them. Great books are immortal!

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Of all the holidays in the year Mother's day is my favorite. I guess it's because of the kids in our family. I was Mother's pet for years—then she finnally saved up enough to buy a cocker spaniel.

But when it comes to enduring love, devotion and sacrifice a mother is really swell. In fact I think every fellow should have one. Since I have been in the film capital the dear lady has become quite a celebrity. The way I operate around Hollywood and Vine she is now known as "Whistler's Mother".

Of course mothers are different today from what they used to be. They're more modern. Now it's silver threads among the henna.

But Mother's day is different out here—in fact in Hollywood they celebrate Mother's day and Father's day together. They have to since they invented slacks; you can't tell them apart.

But I really feel sorry for the movie actresses, poor mothers—after all it's not easy balancing a baby on one knee and a leading man on the other.

In various quarters this correction is being made. Mark Sullivan, the noted Washington correspondent, again makes it in his dispatch published elsewhere in this issue today. Various newspapers are finding reason to re-emphasize it.

Among the latter is the Charleston, W. "He is simply the most successful of the labor leaders in exploiting the powers conferred upon him by law and the peculiar sensitivity of the Democratic administration to the loud demands of a well-organized minority," it says.

It being thus futile to "get Mr. Lewis," the "Daily Mail" points out that he has shown conclusively by a series of protracted strikes that he is difficult if not impossible to get, and that legislation, particularly the Wagner Labor Relations act, which established him in his present position of power, also protects him. Wherefore, if this power is excessive, the way to deal with Lewis and other labor leaders who strive to emulate him is to re-examine that law.

"When that is done," says the "Daily Mail," it will be clearly seen that the 'collective bargaining' which Mr. Lewis engages in when he sees fit, is something of a joke. When he refuses to bargain and resorts, as he has in the present strike, to the ultimatum, both management and the administration are powerless to deal with him. Management has no exchange values either in economics or in law to command his respectful attention to the position of management. The administration has no reference in statute by which to judge or temper his demands.

"Mr. Lewis is fully authorized to call and prolong a disastrous strike for any cause or no cause at all. The only limitation upon his demands or his tactics are his conscience, which is justifiably more concerned with the welfare of his miners, and the body of public opinion which begins to squawk a little belatedly only when the fires begin to burn low. Neither, it is clear, is strong enough to halt the steady approach to economic catastrophe."

But, there is no reason to accept the situation as hopeless, the Charleston newspaper says, unless we admit that reprentative government is a failure. There is no reason, either, to forbid labor's right to strike; but there is "plainly a need for a policy declaring that the right to strike must be conditioned upon some consideration of national welfare," and the "Daily Mail" rightly says that revision of the Wagner act would be a step in that direction. Also a realization by the administration that it exists to guard the national interest would be another.

As for the latter, there seems to be more such regard among congressmen than within the administration as shown by the effort to have labor legislation taken up in the Senate immediately after disposal of the British loan vote. The Congress should act at once and among things it should act upon is that of resolving the doubt which President Truman has expressed over the legality of the Lewis demand to impose a tax on coal to finance a health and welfare fund for miners.

Snyder Fails To Impress The Byrd Committee

JOHN W. SNYDER, the reconversion director, recounted to a Senate committee the other day what a splendid job is being done in getting surplus war material back from the Pacific.

But Senator Byrd, of Virginia, who has a hard head for facts, isn't impressed by the Snyder testimony. In fact, he describes the government's handling of surplus property disposal as "a national scandal," and has ordered an investigation by his joint congressional economy committee. The sale of surplus property, says the Virginian, is so snarled in red tape that "it is practically impossible to find out what materials are available and for how much they can be purchased." This, he contends, is a particularly serious matter when the country is "faced with shortages in many types of goods" at a time when the government has "great supplies of surplus goods which the people want and for which the government has no need."

It is to be hoped that some tangible results will come from the building of this fire under this particular segment of the sprawling federal bureaucracy by Senator Byrd's committee. If it can, it will contribute materially toward remedying a supply situation that has been so handicapping in the efforts to reconvert the country to peacetime operation.

Blimps Survive Competition

IF the World War I dirigibles that gave the world a faint hint of what aerial bombing could do to cities did not reappear in the last war, because they had been outdistanced by more efficient carriers of distruction, the airplane did not supersede the airship altogether. The blimps survived the competition of heavier-than-air craft and they made a notable contribution to victory.

Indeed, they deserve considerably more credit than they have been given, judging from a pamphlet made public the other day by Rear Adm. Charles E. Rosendahl. Certainly it is something of an eye-opener to learn that these non-rigid airships escorted 89,000 surface vessels during the war and not one of their charges was lost to enemy action while they were on guard.

When the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, according to Adm. Rosendahl, the United States possessed only six obsolete blimps. Thereafter 134 were produced for actual service, and of that number one was shot down in action when its bomb release failed during a fight with a submarine in the Caribbean. There were no other battle casualties. The record is remarkable in the light of stastics which reveal that eight squadrons of eight ships, operative eighty-seven per cent of the time, flew 550,000 hours from stations ranging from Alaska to Gibraltar.

Adm. Rosendahl spoke with special pride of the Gibraltar patrol. Blimps, he said, guarded the straits in weather so bad that planes could not fly and, after they took over, kept that vital stretch of water free of enemy submarines. From the time they appeared not one got through.

"I believe," he said, "that the United States will neglect an important weapon if lighter-than-air development is not continued." The record of this craft in the recent conflict constitutes a good case.

Veterans' Memorials Take Useful Trend

THAT America may improve the welfare of the living in honoring its dead of World War II is a consumation devoutly to be wished. The American Public Works Association reports that a trend away from "stone-age memorials" has started in many cities, with surveys of veterans' opinion indicating they prefer "useful" memorials to their dead comrades instead of statues.

Such an attitude is no less realistic than constructive in its implications. Through the centuries the world has become littered with solemn symbols of the supreme sacrifices of mankind to better it, yet the trend of history repeatedly has discounted the inspirational value of such memorials, confirming the Shakespearean dictum that "the good that men do is oft interred with their bones." The world may yet come to a realization that wars defeat their own ends in adding to the sum of human misery and making irresparable inroads on the gain of civilization.

The men who gave their all to serve mankind in World War II rate memorials in terms of tangible good, their objective in expending their lives. There is an infinite variety of ways to make the world better, in memory of them. First in order, of course, is the establishment of lasting peace, with justice and freedom for humanity everywhere. No more useful memorial is conceivable in their behalf.

Additionally, the way Americans live, in keeping the peace in their everyday lives, will show their appreciation of the human values these heroes died to perpetuate. Beyond that, a constructive approach to the furtherance of human welfare, in meeting the needs of living veterans and the claims of all fellow men to charity and compassion, will best show the nation's sincerity in commemorating the dead of World War II.

The inventor of the two-pants suit died the other day, unhonored unsung and his invention outlawed by the OPA, thus again showing that fame is fleeting.

It isn't surprising that Gen. Marshall has been unable to bring peace between the warring Chinese factions. Even Patrick Hurley couldn't do it.

Government experts are to study the cause of floods. They may discover in the course of their endeavors that it is rain.

By MARK SULLIVAN

If there is to be clear thinking about Mr. John L. Lewis's coal strike and the whole labor situation, and wise legislation to deal with it, we must go beneath surface views to find essential facts and the principles that go with them.

We are asked to endure deprivation. Not asked, compelled. The administration directs railroads to reduce trains, hence citizens must forego travel. Municipalities call on utilities to curtail electricity and gas, and citizens must do with less light and heat. Industrial plants are forced to shut down, and citizens lose work and income.

For what purpose? Is it to help fight the cause of the deprivation? If that were the purpose, many might endure with cheerfulness, even satisfaction, in the spirit in which the people of England fought and broke a general strike twenty years ago.

Not an Act of God

If not that, for what purpose? President Truman, when he called the strike a "disaster," implied that there is no purpose; that the strike is something like an earthquake or a flood or a fire which come from an unavoidable or inscrutable cause, and which we must endure just because we have to. But it is difficult to translate an act of Mr. John L. Lewis into a phenomenon of nature or an act of God.

If we cannot find a purpose, we can find an effect. The effect is, not to resist Mr. Lewis or handicap him, but to further his aim. Prolonging of the strike, and the public deprivation it entails, is part of the process by which Mr. Lewis is to get what he wants. Our deprivation is not battle against Mr. Lewis, it is tribute paid to him. And after paying the tribute of deprivation, we are later to pay another and permanent tribute in the form of higher prices for coal and for goods in the making of which coal is a factor.

But it is utterly misleading to put excessive emphasis on Mr. Lewis and his union. His strike, as a disaster to national recovery, is no worse than the stoppage of the steel industry by the strike last January, or other strikes differing only in magnitude and not in essential effect.

Individual Action Insufficient

It is easy to be indignant against an individual. Congress is even able to legislate about an individual. Last month Congress enacted a restraint directed against a single individual, Mr. James C. Petrillo, and a union in a single industry, radio; and did it by majorities approximating unanimity in both Senate and House. Doubtless Congress would be glad to pass legislation singling out and restraining Mr. John L. Lewis and his union.

But back of these individual labor leaders is a cause. The cause is the power which they and other labor leaders and unions possess. It is a power to put exactions up on the people, which makes them superior to the people and their special interests superior to the interests of the public as a whole. It is a power even above government, as was proved when, during the war, there were many strikes contrary to the position of President Roosevelt, who said, "I am unalterably opposed to strikes in wartime"; and when, in concrete instances, Mr. Lewis refused to comply with specific directions of a government agency, the War Labor Board.

Four Sources

The sources of this power are four: First, laws passed by Congress, especially the Wagner Labor Relations act. Second, interpretations of that law, and precedents thus set up, by the agency created to administer the Wagner act, the National Labor Relations Board—which interpretations, in the judgment of some, go beyond what Congress intended when it passed the act, and certainly beyond what Congress would be willing to enact now. Third, support of NLRB decisions and policies by courts. Fourth, an attitude toward labor taken by the Roosevelt administration and continued by the Truman one.

The whole question is, is Congress willing to change the law, by amendments or additional legislation or otherwise? If Congress will change the law, administrative agencies and courts will conform, probably they would do so gladly. There have been recent utterances by NLRB as now constituted, and by courts, which convey and implication by saying they are bound by the law as it stands, and that it is the function of Congress to change the law if it desires.

TO QUIT POLITICS

PAUL V. M'NUTT, who once ran for the Democratic presidential nomination, will retire from politics this summer, according to reports in Indianapolis. The former Indiana governor has applied for admission to the New York bar, and his family in Martinsville, Ind., report that he will leave his post as high commissioner in the Philippines immediately after that nation obtains its independence July 4. There are unconfirmed reports that the gray-haired politico will enter a law firm with offices in New York and Washington, D. C.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

John Monroe's Conviction Doesn't Keep Big-Wigs Away from "House on R Street"

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 11 — Three years ago this month, this columnist, laboring under the impression that it was the obligation of newspapers to expose grafters, war profiteers and other bamboozlers of the public, revealed certain strange things that went on in the famous "Red House on R street."

Shortly thereafter, the inmate of that house, one John Monroe, sued this columnist for $1,000,000 with a suit against the Washington Post for $350,000.

The charges I brought against Monroe at first might seem unbelievable; but he was one of the most unbelievable, irrepressible lobbyists ever seen in a city where lobbyists pounce out from the potted palms of every cocktail lounge and where, today, one even occupies a confidential office next to the president.

Monroe had the gall to invite to his Red House on R street the then secretary of the navy, Frank Knox; he invited senators and congressmen, generals and admirals. What's more, he got away with it! They accepted his invitations. He would put his feet up on a chair in the home of Adm. Ernest King, then top commander of the navy, order a Scotch, pick up the phone, and tell one of his cronies:

"I'm up at Adm. King's house. I just wanted to let you know I was working on that contract. The navy thinks it'll be okay."

Rats for Sale

Monroe even offered to sell the entire muskrat production of Louisiana—which obviously he did not control—to a New York fur dealer if the latter would put up $25,000 campaign expenses for Congressman Jimmy Morrison, of Louisiana.

He brought Congressman Compton White, of Idaho, along to a meeting with representatives of New York butchers which turned out to be a discussion of ways and means of black marketeering in meat — a condition of which was that the butchers put up $100,000.

Generals, admirals and congressmen flocked to his house despite the fact that shortly before the war, as this column pointed out, Monroe paid an income tax of only $3. He had been sued twenty-two times for debt, was kicked out of West Point, advertised a phoney oil deal in Louisiana which lost money for a lot of poor suckers; he tried to sell munitions to the Greeks, Springfield rifles to the Dominicans, and poked his nose into every war contract where he thought he could rake off a few hundred dollars in commissions.

Much of the above was published by this column — and later proved when the $1,000,000 libel suit came to trial. After two weeks of testimony, the jury required only thirty minutes to decide Monroe was a phoney. It found for the defendant.

Big-Wigs Kept Coming

Even after that, however, senators and congressmen continued to dine at the Red House on R street, and Monroe continued to enjoy the hospitality of Adm. King's home. Not even the facts brought out in the libel suit seemed to hurt the ebullient, irrepressible, unbelievable John Monroe.

Finally, however, the law caught up with him. Monroe was caught by federal authorities for black marketing in textiles to the tune of several hundred thousand dollars. A New York judge gave him a fine of $100,000 and two years in jail to think it over.

And the moral of the story is that almost anything can happen in this war-booming, gullible, lobbyist-ridden, fairy-tale city of Washington. It's sometimes hard even for this case-hardened observer of the Washington Merry-Go-Round to believe all that goes on.

Capital Chaff

The man whom George Allen is pushing for Democratic national chairman to replace Bob Hannegan is Paul Fitzpatrick, New York — a good man, but not as good as Hannegan. . . . Sam Rosenman, who plays cozy with Brother George, is pushing the deal. . . . New York politicoes are holding an important huddle today at a cocktail party given by Boss-of-the-Bronx Ed Flynn. Mayor O'Dwyer, Sen. Mead, Wayne Johnson and five county leaders are putting their heads together as to who will run against Tom Dewey. Mead can have the job if he wants it. . . . Dick Frankensteen, former United Auto official and candidate for mayor of Detroit, applied for a Ford dealership the other day but was turned down. . . . Friends are kidding Attorney General Tom Clark, of Texas, about paying allegiance to two flags, despite the fact that he took an oath to defend only one. He has the Lone Star flag of Texas flying beside his desk. . . . Capt. John Delano, cousin of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and president of the American Pilots Association (marine not air), is spearheading a drive for funds for the Merchant Marine Veterans' Foundation, to begin May 21.

Small Business Protectors

One of the most watchful guardians of small business and the public just before the war was the Justice department's hardhitting anti-trust division. Time after time it exposed co-operation between United States big business and cartels in Germany or Japan which were delaying the American arms program.

It was the anti-trust division which revealed that Standard Oil of New Jersey was in cahoots with Hitler's I. G. Farben to keep synthetic rubber patents away from the United States rubber industry, thus delaying our synthetic rubber program.

It was the anti-trust division which showed up Andy Mellon's Aluminum Corporation of America and its deal with I. G. Farben to limit magnesium—a product essential to airplane manufacture.

It was the anti-trust division which exposed a combine of American electric companies and their co-operation with foreign cartels.

Postwar Need Greater

With the end of the war, President Truman and Attorney General Tom Clark were determined that the anti-trust division be more alert than ever. For the period after the last war was when big business, waving the banner of "Back to Normalcy," entrenched itself firmer than ever.

However they reckoned without pudgy, psalm-singing Congressman Louis Rabaut, of Detroit, chairman of the Subcommittee on Justice Department Appropriations. Louis and his committee whittlers got out their penknives and proceeded to whittle the anti-trust division down to a point lower than during the war.

If the appropriation stands as is, the anti-trust probers, instead of taking on new men, will have to scuttle part of their staff.

Meanwhile, ex-Gov. Harold Stassen says, we require not only a much stronger anti-trust division, but new legislation providing tax penalties on profits taken through monopoly.

Note—Chief whittler of antitrust appropriations during secret committee debates was Republican Rep. Dean Gillespie, of Denver. Chief defender of anti-trust was Republican Karl Steffan, of Nebraska. Other members of the subcommittee were: Hare, S. C., and Kerr, N. C. Democrats; and Jones Ohio, Republican.

World Famine Calls For Strike Ending, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 10 — Six years ago today the world awoke to find that Hitler had ordered the invasion of Belgium and Holland—and the war which had been called "phony" suddenly became total war. That day transformed the whole world situation and caused the United States quickly to begin armament building on an unprecedented scale.

Today the consequences of the sudden and arbitrary act whereby one man could plunge a whole world into total war are by no means ended. They are just beginning. The economic disturbance caused by the war is not confined to the war-torn countries. Nearly every nation is feeling the effects of the war.

The biggest single effect is famine. Food is short and peoples are suffering, not only in former enemy countries but in liberated areas as well. The world cries out for more food. Countries like the United States are being asked to conserve and to help their brethren across the seas. But the necessary aid has not been forthcoming.

On top of the difficulties of getting food without rationing are the complexities due to transportation difficulties growing out of the coal strike.

Millions Lucky

Millions of persons in this world didn't feel the impact of bombs and heard no shots fired. They were the lucky ones. To what extent are they today expressing their gratitude to divine providence by sharing their food supply with the other peoples of the world who were not so fortunate?

The figures show that the United States must give the biggest share from its granary. The coal crisis must be ended soon if food is to be carried to the seaports for shipment.

The mood of the people in America toward these disturbances here and abroad seems strangely indifferent. If there were an aroused public opinion, it would be felt in Congress.

Some members of the House and Senate are vocal, but they are in the minority. The Congress has not been told by the people that there must be greater attention given to the economic problems resulting from war and that it is the business of the legislators to tackle rather than to avoid these questions.

Task of Congress

One major problem is the reconversion from wartime to civilian production. In this, there have been interjected labor controversies. The nation has no constructive labor policy. The politicians know the country wants justice done to the workers and a fair return on capital for management, and the average man feels that somehow this is something Congress should work out.

Under a system of representative government the people are not the ones to figure out solutions. They hold this to be the task of their chosen delegates in the Congress. If the members fail, then there is little else to do but change representatives at the polls.

The present Congress has an enormous responsibility, and it shares with the president the blame for the failure to achieve for the country an orderly reconversion. The coal strike is not the first one on the list. Damaging strikes have caused staggering losses in the automotive industry and in the electrical business, to say nothing of dozens of other related categories of production.

No Occasion for Surprise

The people do not want anyone's rights taken away but, on the other hand, they don't want to see the public interest damaged by any group. The present picture in the coal strike should occasion no surprise. For several weeks the "creeping paralysis" now prevalent in the whole economic system was foreseen. Pressure on the operators as well as upon the union for a projection of the issues should have been exerted by government. The policy seems to have been to allow the public to suffer and then use the dilemma to compel a compromise. This is not the way to settle labor disputes or to bring about the production of necessary articles. The transportation facilities of the nation rest on coal. In the midst of a world-wide famine freight embargoes have had to be imposed.

Where was the statesmanship to prevent this from happening, and where is the sense of responsibility for the public welfare? The people turn to their government to demand that leadership. But if they are disturbed, Congress hasn't felt it as yet. Maybe next week will see an avalanche of protests.

Books That Have Lived

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I recently attended a gathering of book lovers whose committee had selected one hundred American books that had been of the greatest influence upon the people. There were a notable lot, and were shown in cases in their first editions, gathered from many sources.

Sixty-one of these books were familiar to me, and many of them, books that have brought great joy to me over the years. No one, of course, would select the same ones, but nearly every well read person would have selected many that were in the list.

I paused before the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, the Federalist presented by Hamilton to George Washington and autographed by him., Walden, which Thoreau had inscribed to his mother, Irving's Sketch Book, which I read and re-read in my youth, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, the Emancipation Proclamation, Melville's Moby Dick, New England Primer, Bellamy's Looking Backward, Bay Psalm Book and the entire list comprising books that have lived—and which will always live!

Here were books published in America as long ago as 1644. Beautifully printed books—books that had been handled, read and re-read, and most of them since reprinted, again and again. There was the tiny Montgomery Ward mail order catalog, first printed in 1872, that you could easily put into your inside coat pocket, without anyone knowing about it! The millions of others now so familiar to people in every quarter of the world, certainly have had their influence on the lives of as many millions, even though a commercial book.

Strange that many of these great books along intellectual lines, were so greatly neglected when first published. The books of Poe, Melville, Stephen Crane, and Thoreau, for example, but which have since become classics.

Anything that is written that is worth while, and which enters into the hearts of people, lives on. It may take a little time, but great writing and thinking never dies. Who can estimate the influence, for instance, of the McGuffey Readers?

Should all the great books of the world be suddenly destroyed, still would they live on in the hearts and minds of those influenced by them. Great books are immortal!

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Of all the holidays in the year Mother's day is my favorite. I guess it's because of the kids in our family. I was Mother's pet for years—then she finnally saved up enough to buy a cocker spaniel.

But when it comes to enduring love, devotion and sacrifice a mother is really swell. In fact I think every fellow should have one. Since I have been in the film capital the dear lady has become quite a celebrity. The way I operate around Hollywood and Vine she is now known as "Whistler's Mother".

Of course mothers are different today from what they used to be. They're more modern. Now it's silver threads among the henna.

But Mother's day is different out here—in fact in Hollywood they celebrate Mother's day and Father's day together. They have to since they invented slacks; you can't tell them apart.

But I really feel sorry for the movie actresses, poor mothers—after all it's not easy balancing a baby on one knee and a leading man on the other.

Vets Are Asked To Back Randolph In Hospital Move

Veterans organizations in Western and Southern Maryland have received an appeal from William F. Carlin, president of the Service Aid Council of eastern Montgomery county, to support Rep. Jennings Randolph in his efforts to have the United States Veterans Administration take over Newton D. Baker general hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va.

The appeal has also been sent to Sen. Millard E. Tydings and Sen. George L. Radcliffe and to all representatives from Maryland.

Carlin believes the hospital and its facilities should be used by the Veterans Administration for disabled veterans of World War II. In his appeal he states:

"It has come to our attention that the equipment of Newton D. Baker general hospital at Martinsburg, W. Va., is to be taken over by the Veterans Administration, which would ultimately mean the abandonment of that plant.

"The government has an investment of over $5,000,000 at Martinsburg, and with the very limited facilities for the care of disabled veterans of World War II (Mt. Alto hospital and private institutions) it is strongly urged that you give to Rep. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, vigorous support in his effort to have Newton D. Baker general hospital taken over and maintained by the Veterans Administration as a hospital for the care of all veterans, and more especially those from Southern and Western Maryland, Eastern West Virginia and Northeastern Virginia.

"With the shortage of building materials available for the erection of much needed hospitals, it would be very unwise to overlook this site for the possible use of veterans, after it has served its wonderful purpose as a military hospital. Your immediate support to this movement would be appreciated."

William O'Baker Receives Discharge From Navy Service

William L. O'Baker, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. O'Baker, RFD No. 1, Locust Grove, who participated in fifteen major Pacific engagements as a crew member aboard the destroyer escort Weaver, received his honorable discharge from the navy at the Jacksonville, Fla., naval personnel separation center May 4.

O'Baker, a seaman first class, went aboard the destroyer escort Weaver in December 1943, and saw his first action in the initial assaults on the Gilbert Islands. He also participated in engagements at the Marshall Islands, the Marianas, Peleliu, Leyte, Mindanao and Luzon in the Philippines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, the attacks on the China coast and in final raids on the Japanese home islands.

His ship served with occupation forces in Tokyo for several weeks and was one of the first ships to enter the Kuri Islands to liberate American prisoners held there.

O'Baker returned to the states late in April and was detached from the Weaver at San Diego, Calif.

He wears four campaign ribbons, the American theater ribbon, the Asiatic-Pacific with eight battle stars, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star and the Victory ribbon. He now plans to take an apprentice training course in mechanics under the GI Bill of Rights.

JOY RIDE RESULTS IN ARREST OF YOUTH AND SAILOR HERE

A local sailor and a 16-year-old local boy who police said admitted taking a panel truck for joy rides on three occasions and were arrested by police early yesterday morning after a chase from Valley and North Centre to Franklin street are being "held for investigation" in the city jail.

Police identified the sailor as Gleason Porter, Route 1, this city, but said the name of the 400 block Columbia street youth could not be used because of his age.

Uniontown Man Fined On Speeding Charge

Lawrence Sutton Semans, Uniontown, Pa., was fined $10.75 in trial magistrates court Thursday on a charge of exceeding fifty miles per hour in a thirty-mile zone. Semans was arrested on Route 40, about four miles east of this city by State Trooper William McElfish. He entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

Marvin Lilliman, Miltonville, Kas., forfeited $11.45 bond in trial magistrates court, when he failed to appear in answer to a charge of failing to stop to identify himself after killing a dog with his car, on Route 40 in LaVale. Trooper McElfish made the arrest.

Vets Are Asked To Back Randolph In Hospital Move

Veterans organizations in Western and Southern Maryland have received an appeal from William F. Carlin, president of the Service Aid Council of eastern Montgomery county, to support Rep. Jennings Randolph in his efforts to have the United States Veterans Administration take over Newton D. Baker general hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va.

The appeal has also been sent to Sen. Millard E. Tydings and Sen. George L. Radcliffe and to all representatives from Maryland.

Carlin believes the hospital and its facilities should be used by the Veterans Administration for disabled veterans of World War II. In his appeal he states:

"It has come to our attention that the equipment of Newton D. Baker general hospital at Martinsburg, W. Va., is to be taken over by the Veterans Administration, which would ultimately mean the abandonment of that plant.

"The government has an investment of over $5,000,000 at Martinsburg, and with the very limited facilities for the care of disabled veterans of World War II (Mt. Alto hospital and private institutions) it is strongly urged that you give to Rep. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, vigorous support in his effort to have Newton D. Baker general hospital taken over and maintained by the Veterans Administration as a hospital for the care of all veterans, and more especially those from Southern and Western Maryland, Eastern West Virginia and Northeastern Virginia.

"With the shortage of building materials available for the erection of much needed hospitals, it would be very unwise to overlook this site for the possible use of veterans, after it has served its wonderful purpose as a military hospital. Your immediate support to this movement would be appreciated."

William O'Baker Receives Discharge From Navy Service

William L. O'Baker, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. O'Baker, RFD No. 1, Locust Grove, who participated in fifteen major Pacific engagements as a crew member aboard the destroyer escort Weaver, received his honorable discharge from the navy at the Jacksonville, Fla., naval personnel separation center May 4.

O'Baker, a seaman first class, went aboard the destroyer escort Weaver in December 1943, and saw his first action in the initial assaults on the Gilbert Islands. He also participated in engagements at the Marshall Islands, the Marianas, Peleliu, Leyte, Mindanao and Luzon in the Philippines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, the attacks on the China coast and in final raids on the Japanese home islands.

His ship served with occupation forces in Tokyo for several weeks and was one of the first ships to enter the Kuri Islands to liberate American prisoners held there.

O'Baker returned to the states late in April and was detached from the Weaver at San Diego, Calif.

He wears four campaign ribbons, the American theater ribbon, the Asiatic-Pacific with eight battle stars, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star and the Victory ribbon. He now plans to take an apprentice training course in mechanics under the GI Bill of Rights.

LOCAL SOCIAL WORKERS STUDY CASE WORK

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—A resolution calling for machinery to take action on health and social welfare issues was passed by the Maryland State Conference of Social Welfare in its closing session.

The resolution noted that, until now, the state group has refrained from action on such measures, with the result that a serious situation had been allowed to come into existence both locally and nationally.

Miss Ann Geddes, of the Bureau of Public Assistance of the Federal Social Security Board, told nearly 600 social workers assembled at the meeting that welfare work would depend on the future more and more on fact-finding and appraisal, if it was to continue to succeed.

She called better provision for support and general assistance to the needy an important new objective, advocating also a study by social agencies of salaries and retirement provisions.

New officers elected at the session included.

Clark L. Mock, president; Esther Lazarus, first vice president; Gustave Bisgyer, second vice president; Estella P. Baughmann, treasurer; and Judge Charles E. Moylan, Harry W. Schwartz, and Esther C. Stamats, members at large for the term expiring in 1949.

Mrs. Faye Hersch, Miss Elma Shipway, Mrs. Frances Driver, Miss Eileen Brock, Mrs. Eleanor Valentine, Miss Betty Greenya and Miss Mary Margaret Robb, junior and senior case workers from Allegany County Welfare Board, attended the conference and today will visit Montrose, Maryland Training School for Boys and St. Mary's Industrial school, in order to acquaint themselves with the institutions and be better qualified to discuss them with the parents of the children to be placed in them.

The bridegroom is a former student at Allegany high school and has recently been discharged from the army after being stationed two of his three and one-half years of service, in the European theater of operations. He was with the Third armored division and took part in the battle of the Belgium Bulge; the campaigns for Northern France and the Rhineland. LOCAL SOCIAL WORKERS STUDY CASE WORK

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—A resolution calling for machinery to take action on health and social welfare issues was passed by the Maryland State Conference of Social Welfare in its closing session.

The resolution noted that, until now, the state group has refrained from action on such measures, with the result that a serious situation had been allowed to come into existence both locally and nationally.

Miss Ann Geddes, of the Bureau of Public Assistance of the Federal Social Security Board, told nearly 600 social workers assembled at the meeting that welfare work would depend on the future more and more on fact-finding and appraisal, if it was to continue to succeed.

She called better provision for support and general assistance to the needy an important new objective, advocating also a study by social agencies of salaries and retirement provisions.

New officers elected at the session included.

Clark L. Mock, president; Esther Lazarus, first vice president; Gustave Bisgyer, second vice president; Estella P. Baughmann, treasurer; and Judge Charles E. Moylan, Harry W. Schwartz, and Esther C. Stamats, members at large for the term expiring in 1949.

Mrs. Faye Hersch, Miss Elma Shipway, Mrs. Frances Driver, Miss Eileen Brock, Mrs. Eleanor Valentine, Miss Betty Greenya and Miss Mary Margaret Robb, junior and senior case workers from Allegany County Welfare Board, attended the conference and today will visit Montrose, Maryland Training School for Boys and St. Mary's Industrial school, in order to acquaint themselves with the institutions and be better qualified to discuss them with the parents of the children to be placed in them.

Here's How Duck Can Make A Zestful Meat Substitute

ALL SET FOR THE TABLE

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Even if meat isn't short, a properly cooked duck is a delicious substitute. It's especially fine for these fat-saving times, as it's such a fat bird that it doesn't need a bit of extra fat added.

Another important point to make about duck is that it needn't be cooked the same way every time. We all roast duck, with or without oranges—and it's good! But there are many other things to do with it—as, for instance, in warm weather, to do it on top of the stove.

First you need a Dutch oven, an almost indispensable utensil in any household where good food is cooked. If you are purchasing one now, try hard to get one of the ovens with a triple-thick bottom. It's light and well-balanced to handle, and its thickness distributes the heat beautifully.

Braised Duck with Vegetables

5-6 pound duck
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup stock (made from giblets)
8 small white turnips
1½ pounds peas

Remove pin feathers, wash and tie up duck. Use a wooden skewer, if necessary, to hold legs close to body of bird. If duck is too large for the pot, cut it into quarters, or have the butcher do this when you buy it.

Rub duck inside and out with a cut onion. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Heat a little fat in a large Dutch oven. Place duck in this and brown to a rich hue, turning to brown all sides. During this browning most of the fat will be drawn from the duck. Remove duck and pour off all but a tablespoonful of the fat. Stir in the flour and brown over low heat. Add one cup of stock made from the giblets. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Season to taste. Put the duck back into the sauce, cover pot and cook over low heat forty-five minutes.

Parboil the turnips, which should be young and tender. Shell peas. Add to pot fifteen minutes before duck is done. Arrange duck on hot platter with a border of peas and turnips and any remaining sauce poured over the duck.

Czech Duck

5 pound duck
1 carrot
1 leek
1 onion
1 tomato
2 cups stock
1 teaspoon caraway seed
1 medium cabbage
½ pint sour cream

Melt a little fat in Dutch oven. Put duck in this and brown on all sides. Pour off all but two tablespoons of fat. Set duck aside. Brown carrot, leek, onion and tomato in this about five minutes. Return duck to pot, add stock cover, and cook two hours over very low heat. Remove duck, strain stock, and return it to pot. (There should be about a cupful. Add water if necessary.) Add coarsely chopped cabbage, the duck, and the caraway seed. Cook fifteen minutes longer. Add sour cream and allow it to heat through. Put duck in center of platter, surrounded by cabbage in sour cream.

Tonsillectomy Is Unique; Vitamin K Prevents Bleeding

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A large part of the job of any medical man is to protect and to prevent. Thus, a surgeon who performs an operation is exceedingly careful to close the wound as a protection against both infection and bleeding.

This is an iron-clad rule of surgical procedure, and yet it, too, has its exception. When tonsils and adenoids are removed, two or three broad, open wounds are left without protection. There is no choice in the matter, the very nature of the structures simply makes closing impossible. This alone would make a tonsillectomy unique, for it never happens in any operation elsewhere in the body.

Unable To Eat

Furthermore, after an operation on the tonsils, the patient is unable to eat very much for two or three days because of the pain. In order to overcome this pain, it is common practice to give pain-relieving drugs such as aspirin. According to Dr. Harry Neivert, New York, this practice of giving large doses of aspirin after tonsil operation may be a factor in causing bleeding or hemorrhage from the wounds, particularly late hemorrhages occuring a week or ten days after the operation.

In a series of patients operated on who were not given any aspirin, bleeding did not occur. Other surgeons have found that giving injections of vitamin K also may be helpful in preventing bleeding. Vitamin K is needed for proper clotting of the blood. It has been shown that salicylates, even just one dose, may slow down the clotting time of blood in animals who are not receiving enough vitamin K.

The animals could be protected against this action of the aspirin by giving them a preparation of vitamin K. Thus, Dr. Neivert believes that aspirin interferes with the clotting of the blood, and its effect on vitamin K may be an important factor in producing bleeding following tonsil operations.

Vitamin K

If aspirin is to be employed the patient also should get a vitamin K compound either by mouth or by injection into a muscle. In this way the effect of the aspirin on the clotting of the blood may be overcome and normal blood clotting can then take place. It may be possible to substitute other pain-relieving preparations for the aspirin in some instances.

It might also be advisable to test the clotting time of the blood before operation and if it is too slow, to give vitamin K in the proper dose.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Even if meat isn't short, a properly cooked duck is a delicious substitute. It's especially fine for these fat-saving times, as it's such a fat bird that it doesn't need a bit of extra fat added.

Another important point to make about duck is that it needn't be cooked the same way every time. We all roast duck, with or without oranges—and it's good! But there are many other things to do with it—as, for instance, in warm weather, to do it on top of the stove.

First you need a Dutch oven, an almost indispensable utensil in any household where good food is cooked. If you are purchasing one now, try hard to get one of the ovens with a triple-thick bottom. It's light and well-balanced to handle, and its thickness distributes the heat beautifully.

Braised Duck with Vegetables

5-6 pound duck	8 small white turnips
1 tablespoon flour	1½ pounds peas
1 cup stock (made from giblets)

Remove pin feathers, wash and tie up duck. Use a wooden skewer, if necessary, to hold legs close to body of bird. If duck is too large for the pot, cut it into quarters, or have the butcher do this when you buy it.

Rub duck inside and out with a cut onion. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Heat a little fat in a large Dutch oven. Place duck in this and brown to a rich hue, turning to brown all sides. During this browning most of the fat will be drawn from the duck. Remove duck and pour off all but a tablespoonful of the fat. Stir in the flour and brown over low heat. Add one cup of stock made from the giblets. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Season to taste. Put the duck back into the sauce, cover pot and cook over low heat forty-five minutes.

Parboil the turnips, which should be young and tender. Shell peas. Add to pot fifteen minutes before duck is done. Arrange duck on hot platter with a border of peas and turnips and any remaining sauce poured over the duck.

Czech Duck

5 pound duck	2 cups stock
1 carrot	1 teaspoon caraway seed
1 leek	1 medium cabbage
1 onion	½ pint sour cream
1 tomato

Melt a little fat in Dutch oven. Put duck in this and brown on all sides. Pour off all but two tablespoons of fat. Set duck aside. Brown carrot, leek, onion and tomato in this about five minutes. Return duck to pot, add stock cover, and cook two hours over very low heat. Remove duck, strain stock, and return it to pot. (There should be about a cupful. Add water if necessary.) Add coarsely chopped cabbage, the duck, and the caraway seed. Cook fifteen minutes longer. Add sour cream and allow it to heat through. Put duck in center of platter, surrounded by cabbage in sour cream.

Tonsillectomy Is Unique; Vitamin K Prevents Bleeding

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A large part of the job of any medical man is to protect and to prevent. Thus, a surgeon who performs an operation is exceedingly careful to close the wound as a protection against both infection and bleeding.

This is an iron-clad rule of surgical procedure, and yet it, too, has its exception. When tonsils and adenoids are removed, two or three broad, open wounds are left without protection. There is no choice in the matter, the very nature of the structures simply makes closing impossible. This alone would make a tonsillectomy unique, for it never happens in any operation elsewhere in the body.

Unable To Eat

Furthermore, after an operation on the tonsils, the patient is unable to eat very much for two or three days because of the pain. In order to overcome this pain, it is common practice to give pain-relieving drugs such as aspirin. According to Dr. Harry Neivert, New York, this practice of giving large doses of aspirin after tonsil operation may be a factor in causing bleeding or hemorrhage from the wounds, particularly late hemorrhages occuring a week or ten days after the operation.

In a series of patients operated on who were not given any aspirin, bleeding did not occur. Other surgeons have found that giving injections of vitamin K also may be helpful in preventing bleeding. Vitamin K is needed for proper clotting of the blood. It has been shown that salicylates, even just one dose, may slow down the clotting time of blood in animals who are not receiving enough vitamin K.

The animals could be protected against this action of the aspirin by giving them a preparation of vitamin K. Thus, Dr. Neivert believes that aspirin interferes with the clotting of the blood, and its effect on vitamin K may be an important factor in producing bleeding following tonsil operations.

Vitamin K

If aspirin is to be employed the patient also should get a vitamin K compound either by mouth or by injection into a muscle. In this way the effect of the aspirin on the clotting of the blood may be overcome and normal blood clotting can then take place. It may be possible to substitute other pain-relieving preparations for the aspirin in some instances.

It might also be advisable to test the clotting time of the blood before operation and if it is too slow, to give vitamin K in the proper dose.

Dr. H. E. Turney Dies Suddenly In Indianapolis

President of Indiana Lutheran Church Synod Was Native of Accident

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., May 10 — The Rev. Homer E. Turney, 54, D. D., president of the Indiana Synod of the United Lutheran church, died suddenly of a heart attack, at Indianapolis, Ind., where he had resided for the past several years. Death occurred there Tuesday, according to word received by relatives here. He had not been well in recent months but his death came as a distinct shock.

Dr. Turney was born November 26, 1891, at Accident, this county, a son of the late Thomas M. and Margaret Turney. He received his early education in the schools at Accident and Oakland, and prepared for the practice of law at Cumberland university in Tennessee. He studied for the ministry at Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio, and received his Doctor's degree from that institution.

He was pastor of the Lutheran church at Columbus, Ind., for some years and was then elected president of the Indiana Synod, moving to Indianapolis shortly thereafter. He was serving the third term as president of that body which was preparing to hold its annual session.

Surviving are his widow, two adopted children, Robert and Mary E. Turney; and the following brothers and sisters; Truman Turney, in Wyoming; Mrs. F. O. Glotfelty, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. James J. Glotfelty, McHenry; Oscar Turney, Mrs. James Fazzalari, and Mrs. Alma Hansen, all of Oakland.

Funeral services were conducted this morning from the First Lutheran church in Indianapolis. Among those who attended are Mrs. James Fazzalari and son Frank, Oscar Turney and John Hansen, of Oakland; Mrs. James Glotfelty, McHenry, and F. O. Glotfelty, of Spokane, who left Oakland yesterday by automobile for Indianapolis.

Tax Rate Unchanged

Oakland's city tax rate for 1946 will remain at 70 cents on each $100 of assessable property, it was announced following a meeting of the Mayor and City Council this week. In the estimated budget it was assumed that receipts would total $31,050 with $17,825 coming from taxes, $11,225 from water, and $2,000 from gasoline tax. This added to $5,467.71, cash on hand at the start of the fiscal year, would total $36,517.71. Estimated expenses included $14,785 for streets, $10,067 for water department, and $6,490 for general expenses. The town's assessable basis is over two million dollars. Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, is now at work preparing the tax bills for the year.

Council also voted that street employes would be given 70 cents per hour on all work including garbage collection. Previously it was 60 cents for regular work and 75 cents for garbage collection.

At a special meeting last night the council decided to stand on its original action in requesting Ray Teets to remove as much of his new addition to his garage on Oak street as was on town property. The building is 6 feet 3 inches on town property.

Teets had asked permission to lease the ground involved. At last night's meeting the council heard the city attorney Lewis R. Jones, state that the city had no right to lease any part of a street to any person, and then voted unanimously to take no further action other than their original decision.

Mrs. Moreland Dies

Eulalia Ellen Moreland, 81, died at her home in Loch Lynn Heights on Tuesday evening, May 7. She was a daughter of the late Jonathan M. and Elizabeth Lower White and was born in Preston county, W. Va., March 5, 1865.

Surviving are two sisters and one brother, Mrs. U. G. Ford, Mrs. Emma Lish and Floyd White, all of Loch Lynn; also a foster son, Orval Lish, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Moreland was a member of the Loch Lynn Baptist church from which place funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of the Rev. James MacLeod, pastor. Interment was in the White cemetery.

Miller Services Held

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon for Moses Cleveland Miller, 61, who died in Allegany hospital, Cumberland, on May 3, after on extended illness. He was a son of the late Charles Andrew Miller and of Mary Ann Miller, of Thayerville. He was born in Allegany county January 5, 1885. Surviving are his wife, two children, Anna May and Moses Cleveland, Jr., his mother, two sisters and six brothers, Mrs. Harry Speicher, Deer Park; Mrs. Herbert Groves, Mt. Lake Park; Edward Miller, Fayette City, Pa.; John William Miller, Oakland; Andrew and Zeddock Miller, Deer Park; Jacob Miller, Cresaptown; and Harvey Miller, Oakland.

Mr. Miller was a member of the Deep Creek Baptist church from which place the services were conducted by the Rev. George H. Coker, pastor, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Orndorff, Westernport, a former pastor here. Interment was in Thayerville cemetery.

Riley Rites Held

Final rites were conducted last Sunday for Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Riley, 74, widow of the late William G. Riley, who died on May 3 at her home in Ryan's Glade. She was born in this county February 26, 1872, a daughter of the late Jack and Martha Bowers.

Dr. H. E. Turney Dies Suddenly In Indianapolis

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., May 10 — The Rev. Homer E. Turney, 54, D. D., president of the Indiana Synod of the United Lutheran church, died suddenly of a heart attack, at Indianapolis, Ind., where he had resided for the past several years. Death occurred there Tuesday, according to word received by relatives here. He had not been well in recent months but his death came as a distinct shock.

Dr. Turney was born November 26, 1891, at Accident, this county, a son of the late Thomas M. and Margaret Turney. He received his early education in the schools at Accident and Oakland, and prepared for the practice of law at Cumberland university in Tennessee. He studied for the ministry at Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio, and received his Doctor's degree from that institution.

He was pastor of the Lutheran church at Columbus, Ind., for some years and was then elected president of the Indiana Synod, moving to Indianapolis shortly thereafter. He was serving the third term as president of that body which was preparing to hold its annual session.

Surviving are his widow, two adopted children, Robert and Mary E. Turney; and the following brothers and sisters; Truman Turney, in Wyoming; Mrs. F. O. Glotfelty, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. James J. Glotfelty, McHenry; Oscar Turney, Mrs. James Fazzalari, and Mrs. Alma Hansen, all of Oakland.

Funeral services were conducted this morning from the First Lutheran church in Indianapolis. Among those who attended are Mrs. James Fazzalari and son Frank, Oscar Turney and John Hansen, of Oakland; Mrs. James Glotfelty, McHenry, and F. O. Glotfelty, of Spokane, who left Oakland yesterday by automobile for Indianapolis.

Tax Rate Unchanged

Oakland's city tax rate for 1946 will remain at 70 cents on each $100 of assessable property, it was announced following a meeting of the Mayor and City Council this week. In the estimated budget it was assumed that receipts would total $31,050 with $17,825 coming from taxes, $11,225 from water, and $2,000 from gasoline tax. This added to $5,467.71, cash on hand at the start of the fiscal year, would total $36,517.71. Estimated expenses included $14,785 for streets, $10,067 for water department, and $6,490 for general expenses. The town's assessable basis is over two million dollars. Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, is now at work preparing the tax bills for the year.

Council also voted that street employes would be given 70 cents per hour on all work including garbage collection. Previously it was 60 cents for regular work and 75 cents for garbage collection.

At a special meeting last night the council decided to stand on its original action in requesting Ray Teets to remove as much of his new addition to his garage on Oak street as was on town property. The building is 6 feet 3 inches on town property.

Teets had asked permission to lease the ground involved. At last night's meeting the council heard the city attorney Lewis R. Jones, state that the city had no right to lease any part of a street to any person, and then voted unanimously to take no further action other than their original decision.

Mrs. Moreland Dies

Eulalia Ellen Moreland, 81, died at her home in Loch Lynn Heights on Tuesday evening, May 7. She was a daughter of the late Jonathan M. and Elizabeth Lower White and was born in Preston county, W. Va., March 5, 1865.

Mrs. Moreland was a member of the Loch Lynn Baptist church from which place funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of the Rev. James MacLeod, pastor. Interment was in the White cemetery.

Miller Services held

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon for Moses Cleveland Miller, 61, who died in Allegany hospital, Cumberland, on May 3, after on extended illness. He was a son of the late Charles Andrew Miller and of Mary Ann Miller, of Thayerville. He was born in Allegany county January 5, 1885. Lake Park; Edward Miller, Fayette City, Pa.; John William Miller, Oakland; Andrew and Zeddock Miller, Deer Park; Jacob Miller, Cresaptown; and Harvey Miller, Oakland.

Stocks Climb Rapidly in Final Hour of Trading in New York

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Stocks climbed at a rapid rate in the tail-end of today's market following the announcement of a proposed twelve-day truce in the national coal strike.

The real bulge came in the final hour when favorites climbed one to more than four points and the ticker tape, for nearly half an hour, was as much as three minutes behind actual floor transactions. Transfers expanded to 1,820,000 shares, largest since April 4. They compared with 1,070,000 Thursday.

Prominent on the forward swing were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Texas Company.

National Distillers mounted four to $84 on reports that a split was under consideration. Other front liners were Emerson Radio, up 3⅝ at $39.50; Burlington Mills 3½ at $57.50; Certain-Teed 1½ at $24.87; Texas Pacific Land Trust 1⅜ at $25.75; Armour 1½ at $16.37 and Wilson & Company 1⅛ at $18.50.

Profit cashing cut down Paramount Pictures 2¼ at $82.50. The lately strong Pfizer also lost a point at $78 despite the doubling of the dividend on the stock. Small declines were attached to Standard Oil (NJ), Consolidated Edison and Electric Power and Light.

Holding plus signs of one to three or so in the Curb were Franklin Stores, Hearn Department, Howard Stores, Pharis Tire and Diana Stores. Turnover here was 670,000 shares versus 460,000 yesterday.

Selected rail issues veered upward in the bond market with gains ranging to more than two points, although several pivotal carriers eased.

Volume expanded to $4,430,000 from $3,535,000 Thursday.

OPA Lists Four Produce Changes

More fresh fruits and vegetables will appear in local markets now as warmer weather is approaching, and naturally the ceiling prices will drop.

This week snap beans and onions are down two and a half cents a pound; peas three cents a pound and spinach a half a cent. A new crop of California oranges is being shipped into local markets and they command a slightly higher price—14 cents a pound

The remaining fresh fruits and vegetables community priced retain the same ceilings as last week, however, the four changes noted will leave added pennies in the consumer's purse.

Other prices are as follows: northwestern and eastern appies, 15½ cents a pound; Central American bananas, 12 cents a pound; white Florida or Texas grapefruit, nine cents a pound; pink grapefruit, 10½ cents a pound; lemons, size 360 or larger, 14 cents a pound; size 432 or smaller, 12 cents a pound.

Florida oranges, 10½ cents a pound; Temple oranges, 12 cents a pound; Oregon, Washington and California pears, 19 cents a pound; carrots, ten cents a bunch and seven and a half cents a pound for loose carrots without tops.

Lettuce costs 11 cents for the small head, 13 for medium sizes and 17 for large size heads; sweet potatoes and yams, 13½ cents a pound and spinach, 13 cents a pound.

Stocks Climb Rapidly in Final Hour of Trading in New York

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Stocks climbed at a rapid rate in the tail-end of today's market following the announcement of a proposed twelve-day truce in the national coal strike.

The real bulge came in the final hour when favorites climbed one to more than four points and the ticker tape, for nearly half an hour, was as much as three minutes behind actual floor transactions. Transfers expanded to 1,820,000 shares, largest since April 4. They compared with 1,070,000 Thursday.

Prominent on the forward swing were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Texas Company.

National Distillers mounted four to $84 on reports that a split was under consideration. Other front liners were Emerson Radio, up 3⅜ at $39.50; Burlington Mills 3½ at $57.50; Certain-Teed 1½ at $24.87; Texas Pacific Land Trust 1⅜ at $25.75; Armour 1⅛ at $16.37 and Wilson & Company 1⅛ at $18.50.

Profit cashing cut down Paramount Pictures 2¼ at $82.50. The lately strong Pfizer also lost a point at $78 despite the doubling of the dividend on the stock. Small declines were attached to Standard Oil (NJ), Consolidated Edison and Electric Power and Light.

Holding plus signs of one to three or so in the Curb were Franklin Stores, Hearn Department, Howard Stores, Pharis Tire and Diana Stores. Turnover here was 670,000 shares versus 460,000 yesterday.

Selected rail issues veered upward in the bond market with gains ranging to more than two points, although several pivotal carriers eased.

Volume expanded to $4,430,000 from $3,535,000 Thursday.

United States governments held steady in the over-the-counter market. Stock exchange prices were trimmed a little.

More fresh fruits and vegetables will appear in local markets now as warmer weather is approaching, and naturally the ceiling prices will drop.

This week snap beans and onions are down two and a half cents a pound; peas three cents a pound and spinach a half a cent. A new crop of California oranges is being shipped into local markets and they command a slightly higher price—14 cents a pound.

The remaining fresh fruits and vegetables community priced retain the same ceilings as last week, however, the four changes noted will leave added pennies in the consumer's purse.

Other prices are as follows: northwestern and eastern apples, 15½ cents a pound; Central American bananas, 12 cents a pound; white Florida or Texas grapefruit, nine cents a pound; pink grapefruit, 10½ cents a pound; lemons, size 360 or larger, 14 cents a pound; size 432 or smaller, 12 cents a pound.

Florida oranges, 10½ cents a pound; Temple oranges, 12 cents a pound; Oregon, Washington and California pears, 19 cents a pound; carrots, ten cents a bunch and seven and a half cents a pound for loose carrots without tops.

tial secretary, informed the newsmen that Lewis and O'Neill had agreed, in the presence of the chief executive, to the principle of a welfare fund. They agreed also, Ross added, "as to the necessity for safety provisions in mining."

Lewis has stressed his demand for a health and welfare fund. Operators have said he wants a union-controlled fund financed by a royalty on each ton of coal.

Today's reported agreement on it was only in principle. Ross said Lewis and O'Neill differed as to how the money should be raised and how it should be administered.

Ross pictured the White House conference as one in which both sides laid their differences on the table, after which the president told them to get together and come back to him with a contract next Wednesday.

Ross quoted the chief executive as saying "there wasn't any sense in the whole economic system of the country being tied up by those differences."

Differences Discussed

O'Neill said:

"We discussed — the president, rather, discussed with us — the extreme necessity of making a contract and getting coal moving and production restored. He wanted us to have that done in four or five days."

The recriminations that have marked the long, stalemated negotiations cropped out again as Lewis and O'Neill talked with reporters.

Asked whether it would be possible to arrive at a contract in four or five days, Lewis said:

"That depends entirely on Mr. O'Neill and his associates."

"And on Mr. Lewis and his," O'Neill shot in.

Lewis observed that it was worthy of attention that with "the country suffering from a lack of coal, Mr. O'Neill hesitates to advise whether he'll work his mines."

Lewis said no compromise plan to end the strike had been proposed by any government official. Earlier there had been reports that Mr. Truman would propose a peace plan involving an eighteen and a half cent hourly pay increase and the establishment of a commission-controlled health and welfare fund.

Freight Embargo Stands

When the newsmen finished questioning them, Lewis and O'Neill walked out of the White House lobby, went across the street to Lafayette park, sat down on a bench and entered an earnest conversation for twenty minutes.

The freight embargo, brownouts and other measures to conserve coal remain in effect, for the time being at least, despite the truce offer.

The surprise truce moved by Lewis came a couple hours before the Senate, by a vote of 66 to 9, decided to take up the subject of labor legislation. However, it adjourned in late afternoon and indications were that no action would be taken before late next week, at the earliest.

Describes "Egg Case"

While Mitchell was on the mainland, drawing $460 a month as purchasing agent, there developed what Mead referred to as "the case of the eggs—and it smells a little."

"The eggs were supposed to be fresh," the chairman added, "but I think the only fresh eggs in the case were Mitchell and his associates."

The story as told by Mead and by the report: Mitchell bought a carload of cold storage eggs from William Richard Perry, Los Angeles, for 43½ cents a dozen. He came back later, had Perry change the invoice to read 57 cents a dozen and specify strictly fresh eggs, and got Perry to give him a check for the difference, $2,430.

"A chiseling, kick-back performance," Mead called it.

Veteran, Patriotic Groups To March In Parade May 30

Conlon Will Act as Parade Marshal; Memorial Service Planned

Invitations have been mailed by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to numerous veteran and patriotic organizations in this section, to participate in Cumberland's annual Memorial day parade and memorial service, Thursday, May 30, according to Samuel A. Graham, post commander.

The parade units will form at the Maryland State armory, South Centre street, at 10 a. m., and will move at 10:30 a. m. The route of march will be north on Centre street to Baltimore street, to Cumberland street, to Allegany street, to Fayette street, to Rose Hill cemetery. All organizations are requested to return via the same route and disband at the armory.

Conlon Is Chairman

Thomas F. Conlon is chairman of the parade committee and will marshal the parade. John T. Fey is chairman of the Memorial day program. Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland will deliver the Memorial day address at the soldiers' monument in the cemetery and Raymond T. Farrell, post chaplain, will recite the Legion's eloquent tribute to "those who died that others might live."

The Grand Army of the Republic, a couple of years ago, relinquished its time-honored claim on arranging the annual Memorial day programs throughout the nation, and formally requested the American Legion to sponsor the annual event.

Memorial day will be observed this year by many residents of this county and in many Cumberland homes. Many will make the traditional pilgrimage to cemeteries, but others will observe the day quietly within the confines of their own dwellings, where once familiar footsteps trod.

In 322 homes, 183 in this city and 139 in other towns in the county, memories will cling to not-too-distant days, when these homes were brighter because a young man or young woman helped make them so. Now those who remain, do not even have a mound of earth where they can go to place a floral tribute or utter a silent prayer. Memorial services in cemeteries probably hold no attraction for them.

But their comrades who survive, and their friends, will go and pay a tribute to all soldier-dead who rest in this country, and those who rest under the graceful palms of far-flung islands, amid the quiet sands of desert wastes, where foreign but liberated feet trod, and where ships now sail in peace.

Organizations Listed

Organizations expected to partipate in the annual observance here include Howard Hartsock Post No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans; Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion; American Legion and VFW Auxiliary units; Fort Cumberland Squadron, Sons of the Legion; Forty and Eight Society; Eight and Forty Society; Fulton Meyers Post No. 153, American Legion and auxiliary; John Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets.

Senators Decide

Amendments Are Prepared

The bill technically before the Senate is one approved by its Labor committee as a substitute for the far-reaching bill by Rep. Case (R-SD) which the House has passed. It would merely strengthen the Federal Conciliation Service and ban union interference with farmers delivering their produce to market.

But senators were ready with numerous amendments designed to impose stricter regulations upon unions and their sponsors demanded action.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss), who had forced the leadership to bring up the labor legislation after the British loan, told reporters the truce offer in the coal strike merely "gives the American people a temporary reprieve from death."

"The fight must go on to curb John L. Lewis and his kind," he added.

As the Senate turned to the subject, it got a major new proposal from Senator Byrd (D-Va). He offered an amendment which would require unions to incorporate and register with the Securities commission. As corporations they would be subjected to suit for violations of contracts and would come under many laws from which they are now exempt.

In addition Byrd has an amendment which would outlaw royalty payments to unions by employers.

prevent the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds.

If the House makes any changes, the measure would have to return to the Senate for further consideration and it might not be enacted before the present law expires.

Sheridan told the House he questions the motives behind the stopgap proposal. He wonders, he said, whether the administration intends to use the draft law as a club against striking coal miners.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky declared that thep resident's power to seize strike-bound plants hinges on extension of the draft law, since the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act, under which the seizure power was extended, is an amendment to the Draft act.

However, Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va questioned that interpretation during today's House Debate. While the Smith-Connally act amended the draft law in some respects, he said, the plant seizure provision is a separate law expiring six months after the official end of the war.

he said, "emanating from the supporters of Mr. Tawes are only evidence of continued desperation. My own information about the counties, and Baltimore City, as well, is directly to the contrary."

Yesterday, Senator Tydings (D-Md), a Tawes supporter, said the comptroller would get more votes in the counties than his two chief opponents, Lane and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, of Hydes, put together.

Howard Group for Lane

Lane said, "the people of Maryland, I know, will no more submit to political domination than they will to any other yoke. I am confident that I will not only be nominated in June but that I will be elected in November."

At his Baltimore headquarters, Lane announced today that the Democratic organization in Howard county had indorsed him. He said he had been informed of the indorsement by "State Senator Joshua Warfield, leader of the Democratic organization of the county."

British Visitor Praises Cerebral Palsy Clinic Here

Miss Marjorie I. Dunston, who came to this country from England to make a survey of cerebral palsy clinics in all parts of the United States, is visiting the local clinic being conducted at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, according to Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary.

For the past eight and a half weeks, Miss Dunston has been visiting major cities throughout the country, from New York to Los Angeles, Calif., to gather information on cerebral palsy work being done in similar clinics.

Praises Co-operation

Stating that this is her first visit to the United States, Miss Dunston praised the friendly co-operation and assistance given her by Americans with whom she had come in contact. She said that the local clinic is "doing awfully good work."

Her trip is sponsored jointly by the ministry of education in London and the National Foundation for Educational Research in England and Wales. After returning to England early in June, she will organize a research institute on cerebral palsy near Croydon for children up to 16 or 18 years of age.

An occupational therapist, a physiotherapist and a medical officer are expected to arrive from England soon to make a similar inspection trip before they form a unit to start work with Miss Dunston on organizing the institute.

Miss Dunston said she plans to make a return visit to the Children's Research Institute near Baltimore, as well as another trip to New York to study neurological work being done there, before going back to England.

Dr. Winthrop Phelps, who is conducting the local clinic, is in charge of the institute, and invited Miss Dunston to come to Cumberland to observe clinic work here.

Another visitor to the clinic is Mrs. Helen Nelson, Columbus, O., who represents the Ohio Society for Crippled Children. Mrs. Nelson, who is state co-ordinator for the cerebral palsy project in Ohio, accompanied Dr. Phelps and Miss Dunston here from the institute near Baltimore, where she has been observing the work done there. Dr. Phelps is state consultant for the Ohio project.

Mrs. Annan reported yesterday that sixty-two children have been examined at the clinic during the past two days, ten of them from Garrett county. Approximately twenty-four children are scheduled for examination on the closing day of the clinic today. Clinic hours will be from 9 to 11:30 a. m.

tial secretary, informed the newsmen that Lewis and O'Neill had agreed, in the presence of the chief executive, to the principle of a welfare fund. They agreed also, Ross added, "as to the necessity for safety provisions in mining."

Lewis has stressed his demand for a health and welfare fund. Operators have said he wants a union-controlled fund financed by a royalty on each ton of coal.

Today's reported agreement on it was only in principle. Ross said Lewis and O'Neill differed as to how the money should be raised and how it should be administered.

Ross pictured the White House conference as one in which both sides laid their differences on the table, after which the president told them to get together and come back to him with a contract next Wednesday.

Ross quoted the chief executive as saying "there wasn't any sense in the whole economic system of the country being tied up by those differences."

Differences Discussed

O'Neill said:

"We discussed — the president, rather, discussed with us — the extreme necessity of making a contract and getting coal moving and production restored. He wanted us to have that done in four or five days."

The recriminations that have marked the long, stalemated negotiations cropped out again as Lewis and O'Neill talked with reporters.

Asked whether it would be possible to arrive at a contract in four or five days, Lewis said:

"That depends entirely on Mr. O'Neill and his associates."

"And on Mr. Lewis and his," O'Neill shot in.

Lewis observed that it was worthy of attention that with "the country suffering from a lack of coal, Mr. O'Neill hesitates to advise whether he'll work his mines."

Lewis said no compromise plan to end the strike had been proposed by any government official. Earlier there had been reports that Mr. Truman would propose a peace plan involving an eighteen and a half cent hourly pay increase and the establishment of a commission-controlled health and welfare fund.

Freight Embargo Stands

When the newsmen finished questioning them, Lewis and O'Neill walked out of the White House lobby, went across the street to Lafayette park, sat down on a bench and entered an earnest conversation for twenty minutes.

The freight embargo, brownouts and other measures to conserve coal remain in effect, for the time being at least, despite the truce offer.

The surprise truce moved by Lewis came a couple hours before the Senate, by a vote of 66 to 9, decided to take up the subject of labor legislation. However, it adjourned in late afternoon and indications were that no action would be taken before late next week, at the earliest.

Describes "Egg Case"

While Mitchell was on the mainland, drawing $460 a month as purchasing agent, there developed what Mead referred to as "the case of the eggs—and it smells a little."

"The eggs were supposed to be fresh," the chairman added, "but I think the only fresh eggs in the case were Mitchell and his associates."

The story as told by Mead and by the report: Mitchell bought a carload of cold storage eggs from William Richard Perry, Los Angeles, for 43½ cents a dozen. He came back later, had Perry change the invoice to read 57 cents a dozen and specify strictly fresh eggs, and got Perry to give him a check for the difference, $2,430.

"A chiseling, kick-back performance," Mead called it.

Veteran, Patriotic Groups To March In Parade May 30

Conlon Will Act as Parade Marshal; Memorial Service Planned

Invitations have been mailed by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to numerous veteran and patriotic organizations in this section, to participate in Cumberland's annual Memorial day parade and memorial service, Thursday, May 30, according to Samuel A. Graham, post commander.

The parade units will form at the Maryland State armory, South Centre street, at 10 a. m., and will move at 10:30 a. m. The route of march will be north on Centre street to Baltimore street, to Cumberland street, to Allegany street, to Fayette street, to Rose Hill cemetery. All organizations are requested to return via the same route and disband at the armory.

Conlon Is Chairman

Thomas F. Conlon is chairman of the parade committee and will marshal the parade. John T. Fey is chairman of the Memorial day program. Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland will deliver the Memorial day address at the soldiers' monument in the cemetery and Raymond T. Farrell, post chaplain, will recite the Legion's eloquent tribute to "those who died that others might live."

The Grand Army of the Republic, a couple of years ago, relinquished its time-honored claim on arranging the annual Memorial day programs throughout the nation, and formally requested the American Legion to sponsor the annual event.

Memorial day will be observed this year by many residents of this county and in many Cumberland homes. Many will make the traditional pilgrimage to cemeteries, but others will observe the day quietly within the confines of their own dwellings, where once familiar footsteps trod.

In 322 homes, 183 in this city and 139 in other towns in the county, memories will cling to not-too-distant days, when these homes were brighter because a young man or young woman helped make them so. Now those who remain, do not even have a mound of earth where they can go to place a floral tribute or utter a silent prayer. Memorial services in cemeteries probably hold no attraction for them.

But their comrades who survive, and their friends, will go and pay a tribute to all soldier-dead who rest in this country, and those who rest under the graceful palms of far-flung islands, amid the quiet sands of desert wastes, where foreign but liberated feet trod, and where ships now sail in peace.

Organizations Listed

Amendments Are Prepared

The bill technically before the Senate is one approved by its Labor committee as a substitute for the far-reaching bill by Rep. Case (R-SD) which the House has passed. It would merely strengthen the Federal Conciliation Service and ban union interference with farmers delivering their produce to market.

But senators were ready with numerous amendments designed to impose stricter regulations upon unions and their sponsors demanded action.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss), who had forced the leadership to bring up the labor legislation after the British loan, told reporters the truce offer in the coal strike merely "gives the American people a temporary reprieve from death."

"The fight must go on to curb John L. Lewis and his kind," he added.

As the Senate turned to the subject, it got a major new proposal from Senator Byrd (D-Va). He offered an amendment which would require unions to incorporate and register with the Securities commission. As corporations they would be subjected to suit for violations of contracts and would come under many laws from which they are now exempt.

In addition Byrd has an amendment which would outlaw royalty payments to unions by employers.

prevent the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds.

If the House makes any changes, the measure would have to return to the Senate for further consideration and it might not be enacted before the present law expires.

Sheridan told the House he questions the motives behind the stopgap proposal. He wonders, he said, whether the administration intends to use the draft law as a club against striking coal miners.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky declared that thep resident's power to seize strike-bound plants hinges on extension of the draft law, since the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act, under which the seizure power was extended, is an amendment to the Draft act.

However, Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va questioned that interpretation during today's House Debate. While the Smith-Connally act amended the draft law in some respects, he said, the plant seizure provision is a separate law expiring six months after the official end of the war.

he said, "emanating from the supporters of Mr. Tawes are only evidence of continued desperation. My own information about the counties, and Baltimore City, as well, is directly to the contrary."

Yesterday, Senator Tydings (D-Md), a Tawes supporter, said the comptroller would get more votes in the counties than his two chief opponents, Lane and Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, of Hydes, put together.

Howard Group for Lane

Lane said, "the people of Maryland, I know, will no more submit to political domination than they will to any other yoke. I am confident that I will not only be nominated in June but that I will be elected in November."

At his Baltimore headquarters, Lane announced today that the Democratic organization in Howard county had indorsed him. He said he had been informed of the indorsement by "State Senator Joshua Warfield, leader of the Democratic organization of the county."

British Visitor Praises Cerebral Palsy Clinic Here

Miss Marjorie I. Dunston, who came to this country from England to make a survey of cerebral palsy clinics in all parts of the United States, is visiting the local clinic being conducted at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, according to Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary.

For the past eight and a half weeks, Miss Dunston has been visiting major cities throughout the country, from New York to Los Angeles, Calif., to gather information on cerebral palsy work being done in similar clinics.

Praises Co-operation

Stating that this is her first visit to the United States, Miss Dunston praised the friendly co-operation and assistance given her by Americans with whom she had come in contact. She said that the local clinic is "doing awfully good work."

Her trip is sponsored jointly by the ministry of education in London and the National Foundation for Educational Research in England and Wales. After returning to England early in June, she will organize a research institute on cerebral palsy near Croydon for children up to 16 or 18 years of age.

An occupational therapist, a physiotherapist and a medical officer are expected to arrive from England soon to make a similar inspection trip before they form a unit to start work with Miss Dunston on organizing the institute.

Miss Dunston said she plans to make a return visit to the Children's Research Institute near Baltimore, as well as another trip to New York to study neurological work being done there, before going back to England.

Dr. Winthrop Phelps, who is conducting the local clinic, is in charge of the institute, and invited Miss Dunston to come to Cumberland to observe clinic work here.

Another visitor to the clinic is Mrs. Helen Nelson, Columbus, O., who represents the Ohio Society for Crippled Children. Mrs. Nelson, who is state co-ordinator for the cerebral palsy project in Ohio, accompanied Dr. Phelps and Miss Dunston here from the institute near Baltimore, where she has been observing the work done there. Dr. Phelps is state consultant for the Ohio project.

Mrs. Annan reported yesterday that sixty-two children have been examined at the clinic during the past two days, ten of them from Garrett county. Approximately twenty-four children are scheduled for examination on the closing day of the clinic today. Clinic hours will be from 9 to 11:30 a. m.

Frostburg Groups Get Fund Appeal From Arion Band

Fraternal Organizations Respond to Request for Donations

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 10—The Arion band, Frostburg's oldest musical organization, has sent a letter over the signature of Ralph Bender, secretary, to local civic and fraternal groups seeking donations to aid the band to have a number of its instruments reconditioned and to replenish its supply of music.

The band receives $300 annually from the city, but since the cost of music and instrument repairing has greatly increased, the city's appropriation, which is usually paid in July, is not sufficient to meet expenses.

In past years the band secured many paid engagements which helped to maintain the organization, but in recent years the services of the organization have been given without charge.

It was reported today that substantial donations have already been received in response to the appeal for funds, particularly from fraternal groups.

Hospital Survey Committee Visits Garrett County

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, May 10—Herbert G. Fritz, Baltimore, director of the hospital survey committee of the state, was in Oakland this week to make a survey of hospital needs of the county.

This committee was appointed by Governor O'Conor several weeks ago and operates under the hospital facilities division of the state planning commission. Members of the committee are to make a survey of each county in the state and make a report to the governor on the needs in the different areas.

Should federal funds become available for hospital construction, the funds would be expended in areas where there is most need. A bill now in Congress, already passed by the Senate, would provide matching funds to the extent of forty-two per cent as an outright gift, to be administered under state supervision, for hospitals.

Mr. Fritz met with the county commissioners and the executors of the will of the late George W. Loar, and discussed the outlook for the hospital here and the possibility of obtaining funds to add to the amount set aside by the will.

With the need of a hospital here being realized by state officials, the state planning commission promised Senator B. I. Gonder some time ago that when the state survey started, the start would be made in this county, and this visit of Mr. Fritz was for that purpose.

Dairymen To Meet

All dairymen from the southern section of the county are being urged to attend a meeting called by John H. Carter, county agent, for Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock, at the Sunnyside Grange hall.

The meeting is for the purpose of explaining in detail the set-up and facilities available for dairymen to establish an artificial breeding circuit and for the possible formation of a dairy herd improvement association. The meeting will be similar to the one held recently at Grantsville for dairymen of the northern section of the county.

Carter said a breeding circuit among dairymen would be possible with a total of from 1,000 to 1,500 cows.

Lions Will Meet

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, acting health officer for this county, will address members of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions club at their meeting on Monday night, May 13, on the Medical Care program now in effect here.

The dinner will be at Fike's at 6:15. Members of the county health staff will be guests of the club.

Roloson, Baltimore, candidate for comptroller, will visit the county on Monday, May 13. William R. Browning, chairman o. the Tawes for Governor committee for Garrett county, made the announcement.

The group will arrive in Grantsville at 10 a. m., where they will be met by Grover C. Stemple, chairman of the Democratic committee, and other persons. The party will spend the morning in Grantsville and Accident. The afternoon will be spent in other parts of the county, concluding at Oakland for a public reception at the William-James hotel at 7:30 p. m.

Browning announced that Clarence Spear, Oakland, was named political agent for Tawes in this county.

Erection of Community Hospital At Meyersdale Is Authorized

Authorization Is Granted by the Civilian Production Administration

By W. A. SHOEMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., May 10—Official authorization for the construction of the Meyersdale Community hospital was received by S. S. Susser, secretary of the hospital project board of directors, from the Civilian Production Administration, which is the final go-ahead signal for the beginning of immediate construction.

W. D. Baker, president of the board and his board assistants, have spent hours of painstaking labor compiling the necessary papers of application to the CPA, showing that immediate construction is justified. The fact that the hospital project had gotten started as early as 1944 also had some bearing on the consideration and granting of the application.

Already contracts have been let for materials, and some materials have already been ordered. The building operations will now proceed as rapidly as it is possible to get supplies.

Club Elects Officers

At a joint luncheon-meeting on Wednesday evening at Amity Hall with the Meyersdale Flower Club, the Federated Women's Club of Meyersdale elected Mrs. D. Guy Floto, president; Mrs. Nat S. Friedline, first vice presilent; Mrs. E. K. Cockley, second vice president; Mrs. Frances L. Imler, secretary, and Mrs. Lylia Snyder, treasurer.

Mrs. Walter Campbell, retiring president, served as toastmaster. The program included a duet by Jean and Joan Rosenberger, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, High street, and a musical reading by Mrs. Campbell.

The club voted to donate a cash prize of $10 each to the valedictorian of the Meyersdale high school graduating class. Reports on the activities of the club during the past year were submitted.

New Stations Opened

Meyersdale now has an army recruiting substation, which was opened yesterday in the local post office building under the supervision of the Johnstown army recruiting station. A sub-station was also opened at Nanty Glo, while the sub-stations at Somerset and Central City were closed.

The Nanty Glo recruiting office will be in charge of Sgt. John M. Barrett, formerly stationed at Somerset, and Cpl. Joseph J. Katynski, formerly at Central City, is in charge of the Meyersdale office. Both stations will be operated from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. (DST) Monday through Saturday.

Civic Group Reorganized

The reorganization of the Meyersdale Chamber of Sommerce took place at the C of C rooms in the Second National Bank building. The organization had been inactive for the past six months.

Frostburg Groups Get Fund Appeal From Arion Band

Fraternal Organizations Respond to Request for Donations

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 10—The Arion band, Frostburg's oldest musical organization, has sent a letter over the signature of Ralph Bender, secretary, to local civic and fraternal groups seeking donations to aid the band to have a number of its instruments reconditioned and to replenish its supply of music.

The band receives $300 annually from the city, but since the cost of music and instrument repairing has greatly increased, the city's appropriation, which is usually paid in July, is not sufficient to meet expenses.

In past years the band secured many paid engagements which helped to maintain the organization, but in recent years the services of the organization have been given without charge.

It was reported today that substantial donations have already been received in response to the appeal for funds, particularly from fraternal groups.

Hospital Survey Committee Visits Garrett County

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, May 10—Herbert G. Fritz, Baltimore, director of the hospital survey committee of the state, was in Oakland this week to make a survey of hospital needs of the county.

This committee was appointed by Governor O'Conor several weeks ago and operates under the hospital facilities division of the state planning commission. Members of the committee are to make a survey of each county in the state and make a report to the governor on the needs in the different areas.

Should federal funds become available for hospital construction, the funds would be expended in areas where there is most need. A bill now in Congress, already passed by the Senate, would provide matching funds to the extent of forty-two per cent as an outright gift, to be administered under state supervision, for hospitals.

Mr. Fritz met with the county commissioners and the executors of the will of the late George W. Loar, and discussed the outlook for the hospital here and the possibility of obtaining funds to add to the amount set aside by the will.

With the need of a hospital here being realized by state officials, the state planning commission promised Senator B. I. Gonder some time ago that when the state survey started, the start would be made in this county, and this visit of Mr. Fritz was for that purpose.

Dairymen To Meet

All dairymen from the southern section of the county are being urged to attend a meeting called by John H. Carter, county agent, for Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock, at the Sunnyside Grange hall.

The meeting will be similar to the one held recently at Grantsville for dairymen of the northern section of the county.

Carter said a breeding circuit among dairymen would be possible with a total of from 1,000 to 1,500 cows.

Erection of Community Hospital At Meyersdale Is Authorized

By W. A. SHOEMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., May 10—Official authorization for the construction of the Meyersdale Community hospital was received by S. S. Susser, secretary of the hospital project board of directors, from the Civilian Production Administration, which is the final go-ahead signal for the beginning of immediate construction.

W. D. Baker, president of the board and his board assistants, have spent hours of painstaking labor compiling the necessary papers of application to the CPA, showing that immediate construction is justified. The fact that the hospital project had gotten started as early as 1944 also had some bearing on the consideration and granting of the application.

Already contracts have been let for materials, and some materials have already been ordered. The building operations will now proceed as rapidly as it is possible to get supplies.

Club Elects Officers

At a joint luncheon-meeting on Wednesday evening at Amity Hall with the Meyersdale Flower Club, the Federated Women's Club of Meyersdale elected Mrs. D. Guy Floto, president; Mrs. Nat S. Friedline, first vice presilent; Mrs. E. K. Cockley, second vice president; Mrs. Frances L. Imler, secretary, and Mrs. Lylia Snyder, treasurer.

Mrs. Walter Campbell, retiring president, served as toastmaster. The program included a duet by Jean and Joan Rosenberger, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, High street, and a musical reading by Mrs. Campbell.

The club voted to donate a cash prize of $10 each to the valedictorian of the Meyersdale high school graduating class. Reports on the activities of the club during the past year were submitted.

New Stations Opened

Meyersdale now has an army recruiting substation, which was opened yesterday in the local post office building under the supervision of the Johnstown army recruiting station. A sub-station was also opened at Nanty Glo, while the sub-stations at Somerset and Central City were closed.

The Nanty Glo recruiting office will be in charge of Sgt. John M. Barrett, formerly stationed at Somerset, and Cpl. Joseph J. Katynski, formerly at Central City, is in charge of the Meyersdale office. Both stations will be operated from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. (DST) Monday through Saturday.

Civic Group Reorganized

The reorganization of the Meyersdale Chamber of Sommerce took place at the C of C rooms in the Second National Bank building. The organization had been inactive for the past six months.

MOTHERS ARE PEOPLE

Mothers' day—

And you and I will be wearing carnations, sending presents, remembering with tears or laughter, each of us paying tender tribute to some mother. But I wish we could give motherhood a better and more understanding tribute than we do.

I wish we might realize, not for a day but for always, what a true mother is really like, how she actually feels, what she honestly deserves.

We don't realize this. Sometimes I think we know less about mothers than about any other living creature. We have so glamorized the mother with legend, so exalted her with tradition, so sugar coated her with sentimentality that she has lost almost all resemblance to a human being.

In your desire to honor mothers we have dishonored them. In praising their character we have belittled them. In picturing the mother as a spotless saint we have robbed her of the solid, earthly characteristics which are her greatest honor.

Mothers are not gilded puppets with automatic virtue. Mothers are people, flesh and blood people with a normal ratio of human weakness. Mothers are not miraculously endowed with super-natural wisdom and devotion. They are exactly as ignorant, selfish and vain as other women. And this adds to rather than detracts from their glory.

For there is no great merit in being good because you can't help yourself or immune to temptation because you were made that way. But there is everlasting glory in rising above the common weakness, in living nobly in spite of yourself.

Real mothers are not colorless good-goodies. They are spunky fighters whose struggles far outshine our namby-pamby notions. Yes, they are brave and generous, loyal, patient and gentle—but they learn in the hard way.

Mothers make magnificent sacrifices—but it's as difficult for them to put their own desires behind them as it is for other mortals.

Mothers have no "instinctive knowledge" of what's best for their children. They must study, experiment, try and fail, worry their way through as other people do. And therein lies their wonder.

Bring your flowers—sing your praises of your mother—but while you do so pay her a far greater tribute. Not such as you'd pay a plaster saint or a paper doll, but a tribute to the courage and beauty of a great, fighting human who has dared to live above herself—for you.

MOTHERS ARE PEOPLE

Mothers' day—

And you and I will be wearing carnations, sending presents, remembering with tears or laughter, each of us paying tender tribute to some mother. But I wish we could give motherhood a better and more understanding tribute than we do.

I wish we might realize, not for a day but for always, what a true mother is really like, how she actually feels, what she honestly deserves.

We don't realize this. Sometimes I think we know less about mothers than about any other living creature. We have so glamorized the mother with legend, so exalted her with tradition, so sugar coated her with sentimentality that she has lost almost all resemblance to a human being.

In your desire to honor mothers we have dishonored them. In praising their character we have belittled them. In picturing the mother as a spotless saint we have robbed her of the solid, earthly characteristics which are her greatest honor.

Mothers are not gilded puppets with automatic virtue. Mothers are people, flesh and blood people with a normal ratio of human weakness. Mothers are not miraculously endowed with super-natural wisdom and devotion. They are exactly as ignorant, selfish and vain as other women. And this adds to rather than detracts from their glory.

For there is no great merit in being good because you can't help yourself or immune to temptation because you were made that way. But there is everlasting glory in rising above the common weakness, in living nobly in spite of yourself.

Real mothers are not colorless good-goodies. They are spunky fighters whose struggles far outshine our namby-pamby notions. Yes, they are brave and generous, loyal, patient and gentle—but they learn in the hard way.

Mothers make magnificent sacrifices—but it's as difficult for them to put their own desires behind them as it is for other mortals.

Mothers have no "instinctive knowledge" of what's best for their children. They must study, experiment, try and fail, worry their way through as other people do. And therein lies their wonder.

Bring your flowers—sing your praises of your mother—but while you do so pay her a far greater tribute. Not such as you'd pay a plaster saint or a paper doll, but a tribute to the courage and beauty of a great, fighting human who has dared to live above herself—for you.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

THE Mothers OF MEN

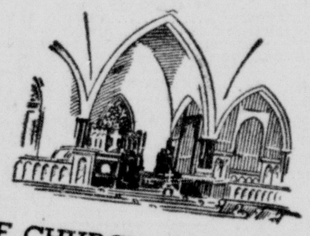
THE ideal of motherhood has not varied greatly from age to age nor from land to land. Always she is the center of the home, the focal point of the family life. She carries that life on from generation to generation, and is the indispensable human link between man's yesterdays and his tomorrows.

In a large measure she molds the lives and characters of her children. Many great men have attributed their achievements to her, and one of them said, "All that I am and ever hope to be I owe to my angel mother." She is the most sublime and ineffable character in human history.

Mothers live closer to God than most other people. In the process of bearing and rearing children; in meeting the countless human problems that arise in a home; in all her toil and tears and gladness, she realizes better than most of us man's final dependance upon a higher power.

We pay her tribute on this Mother's Day, and lay our hearts at her feet. We love her for herself and all that she is. We love her for her toil and travail and endurance. We love her for her faith, which looks beyond the shadows of life's darkest hour and sees the light of God.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

Allegany high school kept its record unblemished in the Tri-State Baseball Conference yesterday by scoring its fourth straight victory over Fort Hill high school's Sentinels on the latter's field by the score of 9 to 2.

Coach Hubert Radcliffe's outfit solved the offerings of Paul Judy, Fort Hill's ace, for eleven safeties, including doubles by Tommy Powers and "Sonny" Lease and a triple by Fred Willison while Sid "Lefty" Weinbach let the Hilltoppers down with five singles and marked up eleven strikeouts in the seven inning contest played before approximately 300 spectators.

AHS was leading 2-0 going into the fourth in what had all the earmarks of a pitchers' duel but Judy brought about his downfall when he made the fatal mistake of electing to toss out Johnny Bachman at first base instead of throwing home for a force out and a possible double play which would have retired the side without any damage.

Allegany had loaded the bases with one down when Bachman tapped to Judy. The Fort Hill twirler wheeled around and threw wildly to first base and Perrell and Lease romped home. Jimmie Radcliffe walked to load the bags again and Tommy Powers blasted a single to knock in two more runs. Radcliffe scored the fifth run of the inning when Frye threw wildly trying to pick the AHS catcher off third base.

The Campers scored their first run in the opening frame when Bachman scratched an infield hit which bounded over Judy's head and Powers rifled a two-bagger to right. Roy Perrell's infield hit, Weinbach's sacrifice and Charley Baker's base knock to center gave AHS a 2-0 lead in the second.

Willison Belts Triple

Lease's double over the embankment in left and Weinbach's single to right produced run No. 8 in the fifth and Allegany made it 9-0 in the sixth when Powers got a life on Doman's third error of the game, pilfered second, and trotted home when Willison got the longest hit of the game—a triple far over the embankment in left field.

Larry Hansrote then took over the pitching duties for Fort Hill and finished up by retiring the last five batters to face him. He closed out the sixth by fanning Perrell and Lease.

Fort Hill averted a shutout defeat by scoring twice in the sixth. Frey walked, Freeland singled and Jim Mangus walked to fill the bags. Then Irvin Mangus drove in two runs with a single to right. Weinbach settled down and struck out Doman and Dean, ending the rally.

Perrell, who played second for AHS, in place of the injured Wertz, starred afield for the victors handling six chances without a slipup. He retired the side single-handed in the fourth by snaring three fly balls, one being a nifty one-handed stab of Irvin Mangus's fly in short right.

Beall Beats Hyndman

Beall high school, of Frostburg, stayed on Allegany's heels in the conference race, by defeating Hyndman on the latter's field, 15 to 6.

Each team was credited with ten hits. Max Stowell, Beall hurler, struck out ten. Blank led the Beall attack with a triple and double while Scott hit safely three times. Miller and Bryant got four of Hyndman's safeties.

LaSalle Wins, 18 to 3

LaSalle went on the warpath at Paw Paw and defeated the Mountaineers by the decisive score of 18 to 3, behind the five-hit pitching of Norman Sell, who struck out ten.

Jimmie Collins, LaSalle, left fielder, had a field day with four hits in as many trips to the plate. He helped himself to two triples and two singles. Close, Esposito, Steiner and Deffenbaugh collected two hits each.

Robertson, Paw Paw pitcher struck out eleven. The scores:

Substitute Steals Show
* * * *
Idleman's Jump Is Tops
* * * *
Bucky Walters Is Hero

By C. V. BURNS

As a general rule, substitutes in boxing matches turn out to be duds but such was not the case in "Vic" Ricker's last show here when Jimmy Richards, New York Negro light heavy-weight, pinch-hitting for his stablemate, Warren Peterson, who suffered a hand injury in training, knocked out Ira Hughes of Pittsburgh, in fifty-nine seconds of the third round.

In fact, Richards was so good that he "stole the show" with his display of clever boxing and terrific punching and the fans would like to see him in action again in the near future.

Promoter Leonard "Chick" Little reports that he about "broke even" on his second fistic venture of the season and he assures the fans that they will continue to receive the best for their money if they continue to suport the pro shows.

The show, which was featured by five knockouts in as many bouts, pleased the patrons.

The average fight fan of today likes to see knockouts in preference to the old style monotonous clinching infighters, who used to stall around for ten rounds, making it difficult to figure out whether they had engaged in a waltz contest or a boxing match.

Richard T. Norris, deputy chief warden of the Maryland State Game and Inland Fish Commission, cites the case of a certain Frostburger, who paid two fines last month for violating both the fish and game laws.

This man, according to Norris, was fined $10 on April 16 for having a loaded shotgun in his car and a Grantsville magistrate fined the same man $10 on April 22 for having black bass in his possession. Ted Thoerig made the arrests.

The "Fancy Dan" of local baseball players is Sid Weinbach, clever southpaw of Allegany high school's team. He has the best form of any pitcher we've seen this season. You want to get a load of that youngster the next time he toes the slab.

When Johnny Idleman, of Keyser high school, cleared the bar at 5-feet-10 in the Mineral county track meet at Keyser April 26 he equalled the best mark for that event in the Mountain State this year.

Cooper, of Oak Hill, is also credited with high jumping 5-feet-10, while Carey, of Follansbee, went over the top at 5-feet-8.

Idleman's jump last Saturday in the PVC meet was 5-feet-1 but he was greatly handicapped by rain and a slippery underfooting.

How would you like to be scorer of the Hagerstown team of the Interstate League and have to handle names like Matarazzo, Zydowsky, Kornonay, Nerino and Ancherico? And think of the poor linotype operators!

When J. R. Basco, the Barberton, Ohio, fight manager came here last week with Lee Sheppard, who was liquidated by Jimmy Richards, he revealed that Lloyd Pine is now tending bar in Akron, Ohio, and Cleo McNeal, the Negro welterweight, who fought four main bouts here in the past, had one of his eyes removed during an operation and is now leading a hot Negro orchestra. Pine will be remembered for his close battles with Billy Miller, Pittsburgh boxer, at the state armory.

Proof that they're going for high school baseball in a big way in Western Pennsylvania this year was given last week in Johnstown when 3,000 persons at Point stadium saw Johnstown high defeat Windber by the score of 7-1.

Bucky Walters, Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, is a great guy in the opinion of Glen Sprouse, of the South Charleston (W.Va.) high school nine.

Sprouse went to Cincinnati to see a few ball games and made it a point to see Walters to talk baseball and ask questions about pitching.

Bucky invited the lad to come out to the park the next morning (Sunday) and said he'd look him over and give him a few pointers. Bucky was scheduled to pitch the second game of a double-header that afternoon but he showed up in the morning as scheduled.

Walters outfitted the high school boy in a Reds' uniform and spent an hour on the field with him. The only real change Walters made in Sprouse's delivery was his grip of the ball.

Sprouse is now known as "Bucky" and his hero is one William H. Walters, of the Reds, known to all as a great guy.

Recently a boy from Philadelphia, who stands 6 feet 8 visited Morgantown and a 6-10 lad from Cleveland also is on the list.

Lacy Cifala's Delicatets took over possession of first place in the City Softball League yesterday when they marked up their third straight triumph at the expense of the Maccabees on Taylor field by the score of 14 to 3.

Albert "Bunny" Saum, pitching ace of last year's championship team, worked the first three innings and shut out the opposition. Roby finished the game. "Pooch" Orndorff hit for the circuit with one aboard while Hawse connected for three hits in five trips. Breedlove obtained two of the Maccabees' five blows.

Legion Is Winner

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, rallied for three runs in the sixth to break at 2-2 tie and defeated the Shamrocks at Campobello by the score of 5 to 2. Ralph Twigg and Roy Taylor reached first on errors by Lou Riehl and "Red" Boyer and each advanced a base on a passed ball. Kemp then rifled a long fly to left scoring Twigg. "Doc" Dougherty got a life when Cleggett booted his infield smash, then stole second. Howie Wilson's single scored Taylor and Dougherty.

The game was marred by an accident in the seventh inning. Allen Sheetz and Ray Skidmore, Shamrocks' pitcher and catcher, collided when chasing a fly ball off Kemp's bat between first base and home plate. Both players were stunned and had to leave the game. Skidmore was removed to the hospital with a possible broken nose.

Bill Underdonk's timely single scoring Algieri from second base in the last of the seventh enabled Williams Street to turn back East Side on the Rolling Mill field, 4 to 3.

Algieri had hit safely and moved to second on Porter's walk before Underdonk drove over the winning marker.

Jupers Get 22 Hits

Keegan's Jupers garnered twenty-two hits in crushing the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Community Park by the score of 18 to 0.

William "Shad" Hunt hit two homers, each coming with a runner aboard. Bob Ziler, Ronald Palmer, Ted Rowan and Hunt banged out four hits each, accounting for 16 of the 22 blows credited to the Jupers. Nicholson obtained two of the Vets' five safeties. The scores:

Mountain City Teachers Crushed by Pennsy Outfit, 19-0

FROSTBURG, May 10—California (Pa.) State Teachers college defeated Frostburg State Teachers college baseball team here today by the decisive score of 19 to 0. It was the third successive setback of the season for the locals.

Cathcart, who started on the mound for Frostburg, became ill and was forced to retire in the second inning. Sonnenberg, his successor, struck out an even dozen California batters in the last seven frames but was given ragged support by his mates.

California banged out a total of 12 hits while J. Roodhouse limited the home team to three safeties.

Bosox Extend String to 15 Games At Expense of New York Yankees

64,183 Fans Pack Stadium and See Cronin's Men Win, 5-4

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The greatest crowd of the young season, 64,183 hot-eyed enthusiasts packed Yankee stadium today to watch the Boston Red Sox edge out the New York Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opener of their vital three-game series and extend their winning streak to 15 straight, within two of the American league record.

Murray Wins Bout

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—With a rousing finish that kept the spectators standing, Lee Q. Murray, 208½, of South Norwalk, Conn., won a unanimous decision tonight in his ten-round fight with Verne Escoe, 183½, of Toronto, at the Arena.

Assault, Derby Winner, Is Choice in Preakness

Richest Race in Turf History Will Be Run Today at 4:55 p. m., at Pimlico Track

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP) — The richest race in turf history—tomorrow's fifty-sixth running of the Preakness Stakes—drew a field of eleven three-year-olds, with Assault the horse to beat and three of the four gallopers closest to him in the Kentucky Derby the only ones who might do it.

Actually, of course, there was nothing very close to the Texas Terror last week in the run for the roses, because he was eight lengths in front at the wire.

And since he has the same number of legs now as then—and there's been nothing to indicate any of the others has been equipped with a new motor in the meantime—he was a loud choice to hit the jackpot again here at Pimlico and repeat the triumphs his daddy, Bold Venture, racked up ten years ago.

Post Time Is 4:55 EST

The main difference is that where Old-Bold collected just $27,325 for his Preakness, Assault will be shooting at the big end of a $140,620 bankroll—largest pot of gold ever put up for a horse race. The gallopers go to the post at 4:55 p. m. (EST) before an expected crowd of 40,000.

There'll be more than $100,000 of this waiting at the wire for the gee-gee who gets home quickest in the mile-and-three-sixteenths scramble. It will be precisely $100,120 if it's Assault, Hampden, Marine Victory or Wee Admiral.

They were made supplemental nominees at $3,000 per head after the regular eligibility deadline was passed. First money will be $102,985 if it's any of the others.

Tonight the betting was very little better than even money that Assault would make his derby decision stick.

And it wasn't going to make any difference to the wrizz-bang from the wide open spaces that the crystal ball showed scattered showers which might take the fast edge off the track. The Lone Star Sizzler doesn't care if it comes up mud, fast or vegetable soup.

Arcaro To Pilot Hampden

Hampden was rated best of these mostly because he'll be piloted by heady Eddie Arcaro, who moves over from Lord Boswell's saddle. Hampden was a humming third in the derby, and would have been second if his jockey hadn't forgotten where the finish line was and pulled him up before the end.

The Maine Chance duo was dropped into the entry box this morning by the stable's agent, Ralph Kercheval, and if they start running like Ralph used to carry the ball in the University of Kentucky and Brooklyn Pro Dodgers back fields they'll take a lot of beating.

Lord Boswell will be ridden this time by Doug Dodson, the hot-potato from Idaho, and Knockdown will have Bobby Permane in the drivers' seat.

Maryland-born Knockdown, a giant of a colt who cost $2,000 and has won $113,945 to date came home fifth behind Assault last Saturday.

Gilbert Gets Natchez

Back of these four, it is strictly bargain day. There is some local support for Natchez, a two-out-of-three winner this spring from the barn of Mrs. Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia who's been trying to win a Preakness since 1919.

He will be piloted by the strong-handed Syrian from Kansas, Johnny Gilbert, who also is trying to chill a long Preakness jinx of his own, he's been shooting at the black-eyed susans since 1932 without ringing the bell.

Then there are three others from the derby field—Alamond, owned by Cleveland accountant Al Ernst, who was sixth last Saturday and Marine Victory, from the barn of Robert Bruce Livie, of Baltimore, and Wee Admiral, the Canadian campaigner, who were fifteenth and sixteenth.

Rounding out the field are Billy Bumps, from the Bomar Stable of Charles P. Bohn, P. A. Markey of Detroit; Tidy Bid, owned by New Orleans oil man William Helis, and Lovemenow, an $8,000 yearling buy who has earned $21,600 for Mr. and Mrs. John Bromley of Philadelphia's textile family. Lovemenow definitely will not go the post if the track is muddy.

TUESDAY GAMES
Beall at LaSalle
Allegany at Hyndman
Fort Hill at Paw Paw

Allegany high school kept its record unblemished in the Tri-State Baseball Conference yesterday by scoring its fourth straight victory over Fort Hill high school's Sentinels on the latter's field by the score of 9 to 2.

Coach Hubert Radcliffe's outfit solved the offerings of Paul Judy, Fort Hill's ace, for eleven safeties, including doubles by Tommy Powers and "Sonny" Lease and a triple by Fred Willison while Sid "Lefty" Weinbach let the Hilltoppers down with five singles and marked up eleven strikeouts in the seven inning contest played before approximately 300 spectators.

AHS was leading 2-0 going into the fourth in what had all the earmarks of a pitchers' duel but Judy brought about his downfall when he made the fatal mistake of electing to toss out Johnny Bachman at first base instead of throwing home for a force out and a possible double play which would have retired the side without any damage.

Allegany had loaded the bases with one down when Bachman tapped to Judy. The Fort Hill twirler wheeled around and threw wildly to first base and Perrell and Lease romped home. Jimmie Radcliffe walked to load the bags again and Tommy Powers blasted a single to knock in two more runs. Radcliffe scored the fifth run of the inning when Frye threw wildly trying to pick the AHS catcher off third base.

The Campers scored their first run in the opening frame when Bachman scratched an infield hit which bounded over Judy's head and Powers rifled a two-bagger to right. Roy Perrell's infield hit, Weinbach's sacrifice and Charley Baker's base knock to center gave AHS a 2-0 lead in the second.

Willison Belts Triple

Lease's double over the embankment in left and Weinbach's single to right produced run No. 8 in the fifth and Allegany made it 9-0 in the sixth when Powers got a life on Doman's third error of the game, pilfered second, and trotted home when Willison got the longest hit of the game—a triple far over the embankment in left field.

Larry Hansrote then took over the pitching duties for Fort Hill and finished up by retiring the last five batters to face him. He closed out the sixth by fanning Perrell and Lease.

Fort Hill averted a shutout defeat by scoring twice in the sixth. Frey walked, Freeland singled and Jim Mangus walked to fill the bags. Then Irvin Mangus drove in two runs with a single to right. Weinbach settled down and struck out Doman and Dean, ending the rally.

Perrell, who played second for AHS, in place of the injured Wertz, starred afield for the victors handling six chances without a slipup. He retired the side single-handed in the fourth by snaring three fly balls, one being a nifty one-handed stab of Irvin Mangus's fly in short right.

Beall Beats Hyndman

Beall high school, of Frostburg, stayed on Allegany's heels in the conference race, by defeating Hyndman on the latter's field, 15 to 6.

Each team was credited with ten hits. Max Stowell, Beall hurler, struck out ten. Blank led the Beall attack with a triple and double while Scott hit safely three times. Miller and Bryant got four of Hyndman's safeties.

LaSalle Wins, 18 to 3

LaSalle went on the warpath at Paw Paw and defeated the Mountaineers by the decisive score of 18 to 3, behind the five-hit pitching of Norman Sell, who struck out ten.

Jimmie Collins, LaSalle, left fielder, had a field day with four hits in as many trips to the plate. He helped himself to two triples and two singles. Close, Esposito, Steiner and Deffenbaugh collected two hits each.

Substitute Steals Show
* * * *

Bucky Walters Is Hero

By C. V. BURNS

As a general rule, substitutes in boxing matches turn out to be duds but such was not the case in "Vic" Ricker's last show here when Jimmy Richards, New York Negro light heavy-weight, pinch-hitting for his stablemate, Warren Peterson, who suffered a hand injury in training, knocked out Ira Hughes of Pittsburgh, in fifty-nine seconds of the third round.

In fact, Richards was so good that he "stole the show" with his display of clever boxing and terrific punching and the fans would like to see him in action again in the near future.

Promoter Leonard "Chick" Little reports that he about "broke even" on his second fistic venture of the season and he assures the fans that they will continue to receive the best for their money if they continue to suport the pro shows.

The show, which was featured by five knockouts in as many bouts, pleased the patrons.

The average fight fan of today likes to see knockouts in preference to the old style monotonous clinching infighters, who used to stall around for ten rounds, making it difficult to figure out whether they had engaged in a waltz contest or a boxing match.

Richard T. Norris, deputy chief warden of the Maryland State Game and Inland Fish Commission, cites the case of a certain Frostburger, who paid two fines last month for violating both the fish and game laws.

This man, according to Norris, was fined $10 on April 16 for having a loaded shotgun in his car and a Grantsville magistrate fined the same man $10 on April 22 for having black bass in his possession. Ted Thoerig made the arrests.

The "Fancy Dan" of local baseball players is Sid Weinbach, clever southpaw of Allegany high school's team. He has the best form of any pitcher we've seen this season. You want to get a load of that youngster the next time he toes the slab.

When Johnny Idleman, of Keyser high school, cleared the bar at 5-feet-10 in the Mineral county track meet at Keyser April 26 he equalled the best mark for that event in the Mountain State this year.

Cooper, of Oak Hill, is also credited with high jumping 5-feet-10, while Carey, of Follansbee, went over the top at 5-feet-8.

Idleman's jump last Saturday in the PVC meet was 5-feet-1 but he was greatly handicapped by rain and a slippery underfooting.

How would you like to be scorer of the Hagerstown team of the Interstate League and have to handle names like Matarazzo, Zydowsky, Kornonay, Nerino and Ancherico? And think of the poor linotype operators!

When J. R. Basco, the Barberton, Ohio, fight manager came here last week with Lee Sheppard, who was liquidated by Jimmy Richards, he revealed that Lloyd Pine is now tending bar in Akron, Ohio, and Cleo McNeal, the Negro welterweight, who fought four main bouts here in the past, had one of his eyes removed during an operation and is now leading a hot Negro orchestra. Pine will be remembered for his close battles with Billy Miller, Pittsburgh boxer, at the state armory.

Proof that they're going for high school baseball in a big way in Western Pennsylvania this year was given last week in Johnstown when 3,000 persons at Point stadium saw Johnstown high defeat Windber by the score of 7-1.

Bucky Walters, Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, is a great guy in the opinion of Glen Sprouse, of the South Charleston (W.Va.) high school nine.

Sprouse went to Cincinnati to see a few ball games and made it a point to see Walters to talk baseball and ask questions about pitching.

Bucky invited the lad to come out to the park the next morning (Sunday) and said he'd look him over and give him a few pointers. Bucky was scheduled to pitch the second game of a double-header that afternoon but he showed up in the morning as scheduled.

Walters outfitted the high school boy in a Reds' uniform and spent an hour on the field with him. The only real change Walters made in Sprouse's delivery was his grip of the ball.

Recently a boy from Philadelphia, who stands 6 feet 8 visited Morgantown and a 6-10 lad from Cleveland also is on the list.

Maccabees at Williams Street

Lacy Cifala's Delicatets took over possession of first place in the City Softball League yesterday when they marked up their third straight triumph at the expense of the Maccabees on Taylor field by the score of 14 to 3.

Albert "Bunny" Saum, pitching ace of last year's championship team, worked the first three innings and shut out the opposition. Roby finished the game. "Pooch" Orndorff hit for the circuit with one aboard while Hawse connected for three hits in five trips. Breedlove obtained two of the Maccabees' five blows.

Legion Is Winner

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, rallied for three runs in the sixth to break at 2-2 tie and defeated the Shamrocks at Campobello by the score of 5 to 2. Ralph Twigg and Roy Taylor reached first on errors by Lou Riehl and "Red" Boyer and each advanced a base on a passed ball. Kemp then rifled a long fly to left scoring Twigg. "Doc" Dougherty got a life when Cleggett booted his infield smash, then stole second. Howie Wilson's single scored Taylor and Dougherty.

The game was marred by an accident in the seventh inning. Allen Sheetz and Ray Skidmore, Shamrocks' pitcher and catcher, collided when chasing a fly ball off Kemp's bat between first base and home plate. Both players were stunned and had to leave the game. Skidmore was removed to the hospital with a possible broken nose.

Bill Underdonk's timely single scoring Algieri from second base in the last of the seventh enabled Williams Street to turn back East Side on the Rolling Mill field, 4 to 3.

Algieri had hit safely and moved to second on Porter's walk before Underdonk drove over the winning marker.

Jupers Get 22 Hits

Keegan's Jupers garnered twenty-two hits in crushing the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Community Park by the score of 18 to 0.

William "Shad" Hunt hit two homers, each coming with a runner aboard. Bob Ziler, Ronald Palmer, Ted Rowan and Hunt banged out four hits each, accounting for 16 of the 22 blows credited to the Jupers. Nicholson obtained two of the Vets' five safeties. The scores:

California Nine Trims Frostburg

Mountain City Teachers Crushed by Pennsy Outfit, 19-0

FROSTBURG, May 10—California (Pa.) State Teachers college defeated Frostburg State Teachers college baseball team here today by the decisive score of 19 to 0. It was the third successive setback of the season for the locals.

Cathcart, who started on the mound for Frostburg, became ill and was forced to retire in the second inning. Sonnenberg, his successor, struck out an even dozen California batters in the last seven frames but was given ragged support by his mates.

California banged out a total of 12 hits while J. Roodhouse limited the home team to three safeties.

64,183 Fans Pack Stadium and See Cronin's Men Win, 5-4

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The greatest crowd of the young season, 64,183 hot-eyed enthusiasts packed Yankee stadium today to watch the Boston Red Sox edge out the New York Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opener of their vital three-game series and extend their winning streak to 15 straight, within two of the American league record.

Assault, Derby Winner, Is Choice in Preakness

Richest Race in Turf History Will Be Run Today at 4:55 p. m., at Pimlico Track

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP) — The richest race in turf history—tomorrow's fifty-sixth running of the Preakness Stakes—drew a field of eleven three-year-olds, with Assault the horse to beat and three of the four gallopers closest to him in the Kentucky Derby the only ones who might do it.

Actually, of course, there was nothing very close to the Texas Terror last week in the run for the roses, because he was eight lengths in front at the wire.

And since he has the same number of legs now as then—and there's been nothing to indicate any of the others has been equipped with a new motor in the meantime—he was a loud choice to hit the jackpot again here at Pimlico and repeat the triumphs his daddy, Bold Venture, racked up ten years ago.

Post Time Is 4:55 EST

The main difference is that where Old-Bold collected just $27,325 for his Preakness, Assault will be shooting at the big end of a $140,620 bankroll—largest pot of gold ever put up for a horse race. The gallopers go to the post at 4:55 p. m. (EST) before an expected crowd of 40,000.

There'll be more than $100,000 of this waiting at the wire for the gee-gee who gets home quickest in the mile-and-three-sixteenths scramble. It will be precisely $100,120 if it's Assault, Hampden, Marine Victory or Wee Admiral.

They were made supplemental nominees at $3,000 per head after the regular eligibility deadline was passed. First money will be $102,985 if it's any of the others.

Tonight the betting was very little better than even money that Assault would make his derby decision stick.

And it wasn't going to make any difference to the wrizz-bang from the wide open spaces that the crystal ball showed scattered showers which might take the fast edge off the track. The Lone Star Sizzler doesn't care if it comes up mud, fast or vegetable soup.

Arcaro To Pilot Hampden

Hampden was rated best of these mostly because he'll be piloted by heady Eddie Arcaro, who moves over from Lord Boswell's saddle. Hampden was a humming third in the derby, and would have been second if his jockey hadn't forgotten where the finish line was and pulled him up before the end.

The Maine Chance duo was dropped into the entry box this morning by the stable's agent, Ralph Kercheval, and if they start running like Ralph used to carry the ball in the University of Kentucky and Brooklyn Pro Dodgers back fields they'll take a lot of beating.

Lord Boswell will be ridden this time by Doug Dodson, the hot-pota-to from Idaho, and Knockdown will have Bobby Permane in the drivers' seat.

Maryland-born Knockdown, a giant of a colt who cost $2,000 and has won $113,945 to date came home fifth behind Assault last Saturday.

Gilbert Gets Natchez

Back of these four, it is strictly bargain day. There is some local support for Natchez, a two-out-of-three winner this spring from the barn of Mrs. Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia who's been trying to win a Preakness since 1919.

He will be piloted by the strong-handed Syrian from Kansas, Johnny Gilbert, who also is trying to chill a long Preakness jinx of his own, he's been shooting at the black-eyed susans since 1932 without ringing the bell.

Then there are three others from the derby field—Alamond, owned by Cleveland accountant Al Ernst, who was sixth last Saturday and Marine Victory, from the barn of Robert Bruce Livie, of Baltimore, and Wee Admiral, the Canadian campaigner, who were fifteenth and sixteenth.

Rounding out the field are Billy Bumps, from the Bomar Stable of Charles P. Bohn, P. A. Markey of Detroit; Tidy Bid, owned by New Orleans oil man William Helis, and Lovemenow, an $8,000 yearling buy who has earned $21,600 for Mr. and Mrs. John Bromley of Philadelphia's textile family. Lovemenow definitely will not go the post if the track is muddy.

Armed Is Winner By Four Lengths In Dixie Handicap

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—They loaded a milk-wagon on Armed's back today and sent him out against his mightiest rival for racing's handicap honors, stretch-sizzling Stymie, and Armed laughed his way home by nearly four lengths.

It was the forty-second running of the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico and the race for the 1946 handicap championship might as well be closed right now. For, the husky brown son of Bull Lea showed today that he can give away weight to the best.

Stymie gave it his usual stretch scorcher coming for the wire, but although he came from next to last place and he had all the best of the weights,—he carried only 124 to Armed's 130—he couldn't gain an inch on Warren Wright's whizzer.

About the only satisfaction Stymie got out of the chase was that the $5,000 second money moved him up to twelfth on the all-time winning list, with $313,860 for his four years of racing.

The win was worth $25,700 to Armed and boosted his four-year bankroll to $227,800. The ten percent rider's cut gave Jockey Doug Dodson a total of $2,995 for two days of riding—he booted home Jet Pilot in the nursery stakes yesterday—and left him with a good chance to wind up with more than $13,000 for old hill top's big weekend if he can steer Lord Boswell to victory in the Preakness tomorrow.

Armed was a $3.30 for $2 choice and won like a 1 to 10 shot as he led Stymie to the wire by an official 3½ lengths, with Trymenow, from the barn of Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia, taking the show slot another 2½ lengths farther back.

Rounding the first turn, K. A. O'Connor's front-running Statesman banged into Armed but he recovered, caught up with the pace-setting Statesman before they'd gone half away from the backstretch and then just galloped home.

Although coasting in the last eighth, he clicked off the mile and three sixteenth in the good time of 1.58 4-5.

YMCA Develops 104 Swimmers

120 Completed Lessons, 16 Failed in "Learn to Swim" Program

The "Learn to Swim" campaign that was just completed at the Central Y.M.C.A. produced 104 more swimmers to the community, according to C. Van Roby, Physical Director at the "Y."

There were 208 enrolled in this free instruction course and there were one hundred and twenty that completed every lesson, with one hundred and four passing and sixteen failing. There were forty-four students that failed to appear for instruction after enrolling and thirty-eight persons appeared for only one class. However, all of these pupils knew how to swim and needed no further beginners' training. There were six sent out of class because of disciplinary reasons.

Preakness Is Marked By Many Traditions

One of the oldest is the "chameleon" which is the weather vane located atop the Pimlico clubhouse. Since the 1870's it has been the custom to decorate this weather vane immediately after the running of the Preakness with the colors of the last winner.

Another tradition at Pimlico is the case of champagne which the Maryland Jockey Club sends to the barn of the winner after the running of the race. It is one of the sights of the racetrack to see the owners and trainers of the losing horses lifting their glasses in a toast to the winner.

Armed Is Winner By Four Lengths In Dixie Handicap

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—They loaded a milk-wagon on Armed's back today and sent him out against his mightiest rival for racing's handicap honors, stretch-sizzling Stymie, and Armed laughed his way home by nearly four lengths.

It was the forty-second running of the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico and the race for the 1946 handicap championship might as well be closed right now. For, the husky brown son of Bull Lea showed today that he can give away weight to the best.

Stymie gave it his usual stretch scorcher coming for the wire, but although he came from next to last place and he had all the best of the weights,—he carried only 124 to Armed's 130—he couldn't gain an inch on Warren Wright's whizzer.

It was practically a repeat performance of the finish in the Pimlico Special last fall, when Armed beat Stymie to win the year's handicap championship.

About the only satisfaction Stymie got out of the chase was that the $5,000 second money moved him up to twelfth on the all-time winning list, with $313,860 for his four years of racing.

The win was worth $25,700 to Armed and boosted his four-year bankroll to $227,800. The ten percent rider's cut gave Jockey Doug Dodson a total of $2,995 for two days of riding—he booted home Jet Pilot in the nursery stakes yesterday—and left him with a good chance to wind up with more than $13,000 for old hill top's big weekend if he can steer Lord Boswell to victory in the Preakness tomorrow.

Armed was a $3.30 for $2 choice and won like a 1 to 10 shot as he led Stymie to the wire by an official 3½ lengths, with Trymenow, from the barn of Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia, taking the show slot another 2½ lengths farther back.

Rounding the first turn, K. A. O'Connor's front-running Statesman banged into Armed but he recovered, caught up with the pace-setting Statesman before they'd gone half away from the backstretch and then just galloped home.

Although coasting in the last eighth, he clicked off the mile and three sixteenth in the good time of 1.58 4-5.

YMCA Develops 104 Swimmers

120 Completed Lessons, 16 Failed in "Learn to Swim" Program

The "Learn to Swim" campaign that was just completed at the Central Y.M.C.A. produced 104 more swimmers to the community, according to C. Van Roby, Physical Director at the "Y."

There were 208 enrolled in this free instruction course and there were one hundred and twenty that completed every lesson, with one hundred and four passing and sixteen failing. There were forty-four students that failed to appear for instruction after enrolling and thirty-eight persons appeared for only one class. However, all of these pupils knew how to swim and needed no further beginners' training. There were six sent out of class because of disciplinary reasons.

This marked the first "Learn to Swim" campaign held in Cumberland and it is hoped for by "Y" officials to make it an annual event. Those passing their beginners' tests were:

Preakness Is Marked By Many Traditions

There are many traditions centered around old Pimlico and the Preakness.

One of the oldest is the "chameleon" which is the weather vane located atop the Pimlico clubhouse. Since the 1870's it has been the custom to decorate this weather vane immediately after the running of the Preakness with the colors of the last winner.

Another tradition at Pimlico is the case of champagne which the Maryland Jockey Club sends to the barn of the winner after the running of the race. It is one of the sights of the racetrack to see the owners and trainers of the losing horses lifting their glasses in a toast to the winner.

Talk by Truman At University Is Listed by Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—President Truman is to be heard on all networks Saturday afternoon when he speaks at the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Fordham university in New York. At that time he will receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws. The broadcast is scheduled for fifteen minutes, and in addition NBC will televise the ceremonies. The program starting at 3:45 also will include Cardinal Spellman.

The Pimlico track's annual Preakness, a major horse event, will be described for NBC listeners in two periods. First at 1:45 comes a preview, followed at 4:45 by the running of the race. Clem McCarthy, Bill Stern and Bob Stanton will be at any necessary microphones.

Announced as his farewell broadcast, a talk by Lord Halifax, retiring British ambassador, is to be carried from Washington by CBS at 9:45. . . . In the afternoon at 1 NBC has scheduled a "People's Lobby" luncheon at which the topic is to be "What Major Parties Offer Unorganized Labor."

A special for MBS at 3 is to be thirteenth annual radio choral festival of the University of Wisconsin, coming from the campus at Madison. It is a part of the observance of national music week.

The dancing matinee, an hour variety program, is starting another series on CBS. It will be played by Vaughn Monroe's band. Ordinarily this program is to be at 4 for an hour, but because of President Truman's broadcast the opener is not scheduled until 4:15.

Besides the Preakness there will be other horse racing, the Metropolitan handicap at Belmont track, N. Y., as described by MBS and CBS at 3:30.

Celanese Offers Union Equivalent To 8-cent Raise

Company Proposes Arbitration To Settle Method of Distribution

Fred T. Small, plant manager, in a statement last evening, disclosed that the Celanese Corporation of America has offered to give the equivalent of an eight cent hourly increase to employes of the Amcelle plant with the proviso that the increase be distributed on the percentage basis.

Small added that the only disagreement between the company and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, is one of interpretation of the clause involving the method of distributing the increase, and that the company is willing to submit the issue to arbitration.

Will Meet Tuesday

A meeting was held Friday afternoon between the company and the union with United States Conciliator James A. Holden present and the company was officially advised of the union's rejection of its proposal as already reported in the press. The meeting adjourned until Tuesday afternoon with one issue to be resolved.

The union has demanded an eight cent increase for all employes. The company has agreed to give the equivalent of an eight cent increase with the proviso that it be distributed as a percentage over the present wage scale with no further wage adjustment for the period of one year.

This represents an increase of approximately six, seven, eight, nine and ten cents, according to the rate earned, the largest increase going to more skilled jobs.

It is pointed out that the present increase equivalent to eight cents per hour, with the ten cent increase of September last, make a total of eighteen cents per hour which is comparable to the present national wage policy.

The company's proposal is intended to insure the present wage relationships as agreed to in the negotiations of September, 1945, which provides that any further increase during the life of the present contract would be on a percentage basis. This condition was made a part of the present contract in the following clause:

"In accepting an increase in wages of ten cents per hour to all hourly paid employes, the union recognizes the fact that lower rates for less skilled jobs will receive a higher percentage increase than higher rates established for more skilled jobs and thus change by several per cent the spread now in effect between the higher and the lower rates.

Other Provisions Cited

"This will largely modify the relationship in rates of pay which have been established by negotiations through past years.

"The union agrees that no wage demands will be made during the life of the contract which would seek to readjust the relationships between the rates now fixed by the application of this ten cents per hour general increase."

Since the only disagreement be-

CONFERENCE FAILS TO END DISPUTE AT PESKIN'S STORE

Officials of Local 664, Retail Clerks Protective Association, said yesterday that the union will continue to picket Peskin's Shoe Store, 145 Baltimore street, until the management of the store agrees to an election for union representation and the reinstatement of four employes of the store.

One of the clerks, according to Morton W. Peskin, store manager, was discharged for insulting a customer and the other three were clerks hired for the Easter season and no longer needed.

The store manager said last evening that the store was operated yesterday by department heads and added that a conference held yesterday afternoon between union representatives and the company attorney failed to bring an agreement.

William R. McGinnis, international representative, said the union is also demanding a union shop and an approximate weekly increase of $5 in wages.

Disabled Veterans Open Second State Convention Here

Delegates Register Today; Executive Cites Work Policy at Celanese

The Disabled American Veterans second annual Maryland Department convention opened here last night with a meeting of the executive committee at the Fort Cumberland hotel and a large number of delegates arriving for the first registration this morning.

Department Commander Adolph C. Winkler, Sr., of Baltimore, presided at the executive session and said last night that routine business and several matters to come before the convention were discussed.

The executive committee decided to make an award to the Celanese Corporation of America, in the form of a citation and a banner, for the excellent manner the company has co-operated in placing veterans and especially disabled veterans in permanent employment.

Commander Winkler declared "the Celanese here has done a noble job in giving consideration to men with disability caused by their military service, and the company has done everything possible to make it easier for these disabled veterans to become self-sufficient and be gainfully and productively employed."

Resolutions Discussed

The executive committee discussed resolutions designed to bring about immediate action in Congress on measures of benefit to disabled veterans. One of the major issues at present, Winkler declared, is the government's policy of reducing or cutting off disability allowances to veterans when they are hospitalized. The DAV intends to have this practice changed by encouraging the necessary legislation, Winkler said, and views the practice as "unfair, inhuman and decidely a burden upon the veteran and his family."

Among those already here for the conclave are David R. Wolverton, of Chevy Chase, senior vice-commander; John J. Vodak, of Annapolis, chaplain; Frederick H. Strohecker, of Baltimore, treasurer; Jacob Bondi, of Baltimore, officer of the day; Fraser S. Gardner, of Silver Springs, historian; Balster Herman, of Baltimore, adjutant and George A. Keyser, of Chevy Chase, judge advocate.

Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, is the host unit for the convention, and David S. McMillan, local commander, was on hand at the Fort Cumberland and the chapter dugout, South Centre street, to greet visiting officers and delegates.

McMillan said last night a program has been arranged to keep delegates busy, and there is considerable business to come before the convention. The parade, he said, is expected to attract quite a lot of attention, and numerous organizations of this area will participate. The parade is scheduled for 6:45 p. m. today in downtown Cumberland.

Registrations Open Today

Registrations will be open today from 9 a. m. until 10 a. m. The opening meeting will be held in the ballroom of Fort Cumberland hotel at 10 a. m. Recess will be called at 12:30 p. m. and the convention will reconvene at 1:30 p. m. when a number of distinguished guests will be presented.

Among the invited convention speakers are Dow V. Walker, national commander; Vivian D. Corbly, national adjutant; William E. Tate, past national commander and national director of claims; Millard

Smith Takes Steps Toward Cleaning Downtown Streets

The first step toward cleaning up the streets in downtown Cumberland was taken Thursday by Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to all downtown merchants.

Smith discussed the problem of refuse, dirt and dust on the city streets with Street Commissioner Myers G. Light, and the two are co-operating to improve the condition.

In his letter, Smith calls attention to the fact that streets in the business section are swept each night by the city, and at 8 a. m. are usually free of refuse. But by 9 a. m., after merchants or their porters, janitors or other employes sweep the stores and sidewalks, they are again cluttered with dirt, paper and refuse.

Smith says in his letter, "Let's be frank about it." "A little care in individual sweeping and disposal of refuse will serve to eliminate a fair degree of this obvious nuisance," his letter states.

The chamber of commerce secretary reminds the merchants that dust and dirt is not only a nuisance, but when it blows into stores damages merchandise and accumulates, only to be swept out again.

Smith also calls attention to the fact that there is a stiff penalty under an exising city ordinance for the sweeping procedure now being followed by local business peo-

State Convention Of K. of C. Will Open Here Today

Father Culhane To Be Principal Speaker at Banquet Tonight

Delegates to the forty-eighth annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus, the fourth to be held in Cumberland, were arriving in this city last night for business and social events scheduled for today and tomorrow.

Cumberland Council, No. 586, the host organization, expects more than 130 delegates and visitors to be on hand for the sessions.

Registration of delegates and visitors will take place at the Algonquin hotel today from 2 to 6 p. m., with a banquet scheduled to be held in Queen City hotel at 6:30 p. m.

Walsh is Toastmaster

The Rev. William F. Culhane, vice president of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. William C. Walsh, past grand knight of the local council and former attorney general of Maryland, will be toastmaster. The Rev. Maurice Roche, state chaplain, will give the invocation.

The first business session of the convention will take place at 8:30 p. m. following the banquet.

On Sunday morning a memorial mass will be held in St. Patrick's Catholic church at 8:30 o'clock, and breakfast will be served in Queen City hotel an hour later. The second business session will get underway in the local council's home, North Mechanic street, at 11:30 a. m. and will be followed by luncheon at the Queen City hotel at 1 p. m.

Will Elect Officers

At 2:30 p. m., the state council will convene to discuss new business and elect state officers and representatives. A dinner will be held in the Queen City hotel at 6:30 p. m.

The Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, D. D., Baltimore, has been named honorary chairman of the convention committee, and Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor has been named honorary vice chairman. Stanley R. Fretwell, grand knight of Cumberland council, is general chairman.

Present state officers are Lewis A. List, Catonsville, state deputy; John J. Schwarz, Baltimore, secretary; Walter G. Gies, Annapolis, treasurer; Emil H. Nocke, Elkton, advocate; Andrew J. Stegman, Overlea, warden; Joseph G. Loeffler, Baltimore, past state deputy, and the Rev. Father Roche, chaplain.

The Maryland State Council of the Knights of Columbus was organized in 1899, and F. A. Wolfhope, this city, is the only local member to serve as state deputy. He was elected in 1913.

Beall Wants VA To Take Over Baker Hospital

Representative J. Glenn Beall is much interested in the Veterans administration maintaining Newton D. Baker General hospital at Martinsburg, W. Va., and has petitioned Gen. Omar Bradley, administrator of the VA to take over the hospital when the War department releases it.

Other official business in which Beall participated this week includes attending a District of Columbia committee meeting at which time his bill to amend the adoption law of the District of Columbia was approved. He also attended hearings of that committee relative to rent control on commercial buildings.

Beall has also been in touch with the Navy department and the Veterans Administration in trying to have the Navy department inaugurate "on the job training" for veterans in some of their agencies. The Sixth Maryland district representative has protested to the commandant at the Navy yard the method of dismissing men with long service records and excellent efficiency ratings. He feels that the method being used is most unfair and very discriminatory.

The representative has been advised by the Federal Works Agency that $1,600 has been allocated to the mayor and commissioners of Barton to prepare plans for a combined firehouse meeting place.

Kiwanians Hear Address In Washington, D. C., By International Head

A delegation of Cumberland Kiwanians, who attended a meeting of the Washington, D. C. Club in the Mayflower hotel Thursday heard Hamilton Holt, president of Kiwanis International of Macon, Ga., tell representatives of Kiwanis clubs from Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia that the nation needs a "new set of rules of conduct" to bring about unity between labor and capital.

Holt declared that because of the lack of such rules, there now is "nothing to stop that shaggy brow of collossal conceit" from paralyzing industry.

Twenty-two members of the Cumberland club made the trip to Washington in a chartered bus. This was the largest delegation of any club at the meeting, with the exception, of course, of the host club, Washington. Following the Kiwanis meeting, the Cumberlanders attended the Washington-Detroit baseball game and then returned home.

Nelson M. Files Reenlists in Navy

Seaman First Class Nelson M. Files, who has been spending a sixty-day furlough with his mother Mrs. Edythe Dietz, 420 North Centre street, will report to Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., Monday for reassignment.

Files has reenlisted for two years after spending two years in the navy with seventeen months in the Pacific.

His brother, Pvt. Gene T. Files, is serving in the European Theater [illegible] tank corps.

Red Cross Chairmen Submit Annual Reports to Board of Directors

The Junior Red Cross program is now in operation in all public schools and all parochial schools in the county except one, according to the annual report of Miss Lillian C. Compton, chairman, to the board of directors of Allegany county chapter, American Red Cross.

Miss Compton said that approximately 12,000 pupils in forty-three elementary county schools participated in the program during the year, and that $238.50 in dues and $392.04 in contributions to the Red Cross service fund were raised last year.

The service fund is used to buy necessary articles for children in Europe as the articles are requested by the International Red Cross. Children taking part in the county program also sent gift boxes overseas as well as letters and scrapbooks to children in foreign lands.

Miss Jane Botsford, supervisor for the county board of education and co-chairman with Miss Compton, read the report at the recent board of directors' meeting.

Conference Planned

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the chapter, said yesterday that George F. Carrington, Junior Red Cross representative for this area, will come to Cumberland Monday from eastern area headquarters, Alexandria, Va.

Carrington will hold conferences with staff members of the local chapter regarding the postwar Junior Red Cross program in county schools next week.

In her annual report on production activities of Red Cross sewing groups, Mrs. Jim McQuown, chairman, said that articles made from July, 1945, to the present include 402 women's cotton dresses, sixty women's woolen dresses, 227 boys' cotton shirts, thirty-three boys' woolen tweed coats, 307 pairs of boys' shorts, 201 girls' woolen capes, sixteen pairs of overalls and five woolen snowsuits. In addition, 1,467 shirts for babies and 131 layettes were made.

Mrs. L. R. Meyers, surgical dressings chairman, read the report of Mrs. Peter Collins, chairman of nurses' aides. Although that group is now inactive, Mrs. Collins said that between August, 1942, and August, 1945, the nurses' aides worked a total of 21,909 hours in local hospitals and at the Red Cross blood donor center. Total hours worked until April 1 of this year amount to 23,753, she added.

In her own report on the activities of the surgical dressings group, Mrs. Meyers said that 563,700 surgical dressings were made by 450 county women in the period between August, 1942, and December, 1944. In April, 1945, Newton D. Baker General hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., requested further supplies of the dressings until the following October. In that time approximately 35,541 dressings were made by 204 women and sent to the hospital.

H. Lee Silcox, first aid chairman, reported that sixteen persons between 12 and 14 were certified in junior first aid courses last year; 189 persons completed the standard first aid course for persons 15 and older; twelve completed the advanced course; twenty-nine finished the junior lifesaving course, and fifteen completed the senior lifesaving course.

Silcox also reported that there are nineteen first aid instructors and two water safety instructors in the county at the present time.

Mrs. Hammond Amick, camp and hospital council chairman, recommended that the group be continued despite the imminent closing of Newton D. Baker General hospital. The last meeting of the group at the hospital will be held May 28.

Mrs. Amick reported that articles such as books, records, comic books, T-shirts, playing cards and harmonicas have been sent to patients at the hospital, and added that Oscar Parrish, local magician, who entertained the patients in April, will make a return visit May 18 to the hospital.

Miss Eleanor Sloan, Lonaconing branch chairman, reported that twenty-seven home service cases were handled in her area in April, and that four English war brides have arrived, with another war bride from Wales expected soon. Eleven persons completed a class in Red Cross home nursing last week, she added.

Blind Baltimore Stand Operators To Support O'Neal

Two blind men who operate news vending stands in federal buildings in Baltimore, made a surprise visit yesterday to James O'Neal operator of the news stand in the post office lobby, and pledged their support and co-operation in his fight to keep his stand without signing a contract with the Maryland Workshop for the Blind.

Paul E. Meeks, who operates a stand in the Social Security building in Baltimore, and has been there since 1937, told O'Neal his fight against the workshop has aroused great interest in Baltimore.

Ben L. Bond, who runs the stand in the main post office building in Baltimore, where he has operated since 1933, said each time anything appears in the newspapers about the efforts of the workshop to have the stands "operated as chain stores under agency jurisdiction and control, people ask so many questions and offer us so much encouragement, I feel like hiring an assistant just to talk with them."

Meeks and Bond both say they have refused to sign a contract which the Maryland Workshop has tried to get O'Neal to sign and that they "do not intend to come under the control of any agency, or of any representative of any agency, which would arbitrarily require them to pay a percentage of receipts to provide a salary or a job for some individual."

The two men are quite vehement in their comments and maintain that numerous Baltimore lawyers, business and professional people, and hundreds of their customers are aroused over the situation and have urged them to assist O'Neal in his campaign, or "face the same thing."

Meeks said yesterday he is writing the speech in Braille and will read it himself over the air, at 6:15 o'clock this evening.

Coal Truce Causes No Change in Plans For B. & O. Furloughs

H. F. Wyatt, superintendent of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said last night that the two-week truce in the coal mine strike has caused no change in the railroad's plan to furlough more than 1,500 workers on Monday.

Wyatt said the furloughs will begin as scheduled unless he receives orders to the contrary.

Catholics Back Appeal for Food To Aid Children

A nationwide appeal for canned foods for the children of Europe and the Far East will be sponsored by all Catholic archdioceses and dioceses of the United States, in co-operation with the War Relief Services, National Catholic Welfare Conference, during the week of May 12 to May 14.

The Rev. Francis McKeown, of St. Patrick's church, is chairman of the drive for the district including Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, and is an assistant to the Rev. E. Jerome Winters, St. Stephens church, Washington, D. C., who is chairman for the Archdiocese of Baltimore and Washington.

The Food for the Children campaign is a direct response to urgent appeals on the world food crisis recently made by Pope Pius XII, President Truman, Herbert Hoover, head of President Truman's Famine Emergency committee, and Fiorello LaGuardia, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Goal Is 20,000,000 Cans

Catholics of America will be asked to contribute at least 20,000,000 cans of food. During a similar campaign in 1945, the parishes collected 24,600,000 cans of food. The appeal will be made in 15,000 parishes throughout the United States and the food will be brought to the parish churches by those who wish to contribute. Contributions will be sent to the warehouses of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in New York, Chicago, or San Francisco for processing, packing and shipping.

Canned goods of all kinds and food packed in jars will be accepted in the campaign. In the last drive the majority of the items consisted of evaporated, condensed and powdered milk, milk formula for infants, chocolate milk powders, cocoa, strained or chopped fruits and canned vegetables. The list suggested for the present campaign also includes canned meat, fish, peanut butter, soups and baby foods of all types.

The campaign will be conducted in all Catholic churches in the area, including the three local Catholic parishes. Father McKeown stated that Protestant ministers had contacted him, asking that their congregations be allowed to participate in the collection. Father McKeown said that the Catholic church will welcome contributions from anyone desiring to participate, and, that where Protestant churches want to take part in the collection, the minister of the church should contact the priest at the Catholic parish in his community for further details.

All foods received in the campaign will be distributed solely on the basis of need, without regard to race, color or creed. The slogan of the drive is "Spare — Share — and Save a Life."

Retiring Pastor, Wife Are Honored By Congregation

The Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Wittig were honored by members and friends of Emmanuel Methodist church with a Fellowship supper in recognition of the former's retirement, which will become effective at the conference in Westminster, May 29.

A native of Galvaston, Texas, the Rev. Mr. Wittig first came to Cumberland thirty-five years ago as physical director of Central YMCA, from which he went into the ministry, at the Southern church of the Baltimore Conference and received his license in 1911 at Central Methodist church, South George street, this city. He was ordained in the ministry by Bishop Kilgo in Alexandria, Va.

His pastorates were in Virginia, Eastern Shore of Maryland and Baltimore city. He came to Cumberland in 1939 from a charge in Laurel. A graduate of Springfield college, Mass., Mr. Wittig married Mrs. Ella Kauffman, Baltimore, in May 1940.

While the Rev. Mr. Wittig was pastor of Emmanuel church the past seven years he liquidated the church debt of several thousand dollars; made about $3,000 worth of improvements; had the parsonage redecorated and remodeled, and increased the membership of the church approximately 100, according to the report he made at his last quarterly conference held following the supper.

The Rev. Dr. William F. Wright, superintendent of the Hagerstown district of the Baltimore Conference, was the principal speaker at the supper, paying special recognition to the fact that the Rev. Mr Wittig began and completed his ministerial work in Cumberland, he also congratulated him on the success of his work.

Mrs. Walter Trout, in behalf of the Dorcas Bible class and Mrs. Regina Sulser, for the WSCS, presented the Rev. and Mrs. Wittig with gifts, in recognition of their work here. Approximately sixty-five guests attended the party honoring the pastor and his wife.

rour Miners Will Face Arraignment On Attack Charges

Burnwell Coal Mine Will Remain Closed, Graves Says in Statement

Two miners from Garrett county and two from nearby West Virginia will be arraigned in trial magistrates court at Oakland this morning on charges of assault with intent to kill John C. Keister, president and general manager of the Burnwell Coal Company, New Germany road, as a result of an alleged attack on Keister Wednesday by members of a band of 150 striking miners, Sheriff George E. Coddington, of Garrett county, said last night.

In the meantime, J. Fred Graves, vice president of the company, issued a statement in which he said the mine will not operate as long as union mines of the country are closed.

Graves said this decision was reached because the company realized the location of its mining operation makes it extremely difficult for the county or state to furnish adequate protection to the employes.

Warrants Obtained by Keister

Sheriff Coddington said the warrants charging assault and battery with intent to kill were obtained Wednesday by Keister from Magistrate J. U. Stanton, Grantsville, following the alleged assault on him and Ray G. Jenkins, 28, farmer and war veteran, who lives along the New Germany road.

Named as the attackers in the warrants, Coddington said, are Woodrow Wilson, Kitzmiller; "Ed" Helmick, who lives in West Virginia but near Shallmar, Md.; "Hip" Whitefield, who lives between Oakland and Kitzmiller, and Robert Smith, Blaine, W. Va.

The sheriff said the four men have been notified to appear before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch at Oakland at 10 o'clock this morning that bond will be set by the magistrate.

Graves, in his statement made yesterday afternoon, declared that the Burnwell Coal Company "believes that every American citizen has a right to work if he can find an employer who is willing to hire him, and it also believes that every American citizen has a right to join or not to join a union.

"Where the employes of a company are not unionized, it would seem clear that no one has a right to prevent their working, and certainly no one has any right to assault and injure them because they try to work. It is also clear that the president and general manager of a company should not be subjected to a brutal assault because he agreed to give employment to men who asked him for work, and obviously a man who has never been employed by a company should not be assaulted on the highways.

Protection Difficult

"Despite the unquestioned soundness of these views, the Burnwell Coal Company realizes that the location of its mining operation, which is in the woods of Garrett county about three and one-half miles from the National pike, renders it extremely difficult for the county or the state to have its employes assume the risk of bodily harm because they want to work, and perhaps have some of them actually killed, it has decided not to operate the mine while the union mines of the country are closed."

Prior to making that statement, Graves declared, "Our employes are residents of Garrett county, and they have never joined the union, though the company has never made any effort to prevent their doing so. As a matter of fact, Mr. John C. Keister, who is president of the company, and general manager of its mining operations, was at one time a union official in District 16, United Mine Workers of America, and I understand that he only left the union when he went into business for himself.

"When the coal strike started on April 1 we closed down our operations, and remained closed for two or three weeks. Then a few of our employes asked us to give them some work and we did so. However, within a few days Mr. John T. Jones, president of District 16, United Mine Workers of America, and some other union officials, called at the mine and suggested that we close down again, and we did so. Last Monday a number of the men again asked Mr. Keister to give them work, stating that their families were suffering and they needed employment, and as the men were not members of the union, and the company had no contract with the union, we decided to comply with our employes' request and to give them some work.

Employes Went Home

"On Wednesday morning, a large number of men, traveling in cars and a truck, visited the mine and asked to talk to the men who were working, and Mr. (Robert) Ewing, Corriganville and Barton units, are two of eighteen new posts to receive American Legion charters in Maryland, according to Samuel A. Graham, commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13.

The charters were issued by the executive committee of the Department of Maryland, American Legion at a meeting this week in Baltimore.

Graham said it was announced that the Mountain District is the first area in the state to double its membership over last year.

At the meeting, the committee also ratified action of vice commanders in naming Martin Iverson, vice-commander of the Southern District, to succeed Joseph C. Cantrell, who resigned to become a candidate for Maryland State Senate.

C. W. Gilchrist Is Reappointed To Welfare Board

The Rev. B. Ralph Mark Also Is Named to Six-year Term

C. William Gilichrist, Cumberland attorney and chairman of the Allegany County Welfare Board, was reappointed to a six-year term on the board yesterday by the count commissioners.

The Rev. B. Ralph Mark, pastor of Central Methodist church, also was appointed to the board for a six-year term. He succeeds Robert Young.

Gilchrist first was appointed to the board to fill the unexpired term of Thomas B. Finan when the latter was inducted into the armed forces in 1941. Finan has been reappointed since his separation from service.

Order Howitzer

In another act by the commissioners yesterday, an order was passed unanimously to order an artillery field piece to be placed on the court house lawn as a World War II memorial.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, in response to a request of the commissioners several weeks ago asking that a trophy be obtained to replace the World War I German field piece, informed the board that a 155 mm. howitzer was available at the Anniston, Ala., ordnance depot, according to Maj. Gen. E. S. Hughes.

Board Chairman Simeon W. Green yesterday signed the necessary papers to have the howitzer shipped here. The county will pay $167.50 freight charges and $35 for packing and de-militarizing the gun.

Miss Wella Cook, secretary of the Allegany County War Memorial Committee, sent a letter of appreciation to the board for the $50 donation toward the fund being raised to complete the honor roll board in city hall rotunda.

Harry Poland, Mt. Savage, asked that county equipment be used, when available, to grade the Mt. Savage baseball field. The request was referred to John H. Carscaden, county engineer.

Ask Road Improvements

Signed by fifty residents of the area, a petition was presented by George Henderson, counsel for the group, to have improvements made to the Wagner road, which leads from the Uhl highway below Oldtown. The petition was referred to Carscaden for investigation.

The McCoole Volunteer Fire Department invited members of the board to attend a turkey dinner at 6 p. m. today at the McCoole school, in honor of members of the department who served in World War II.

The board approved an order to pay $5 annual dues in the Western Shore County Commissioners Association.

Frank W. Fishel, Celanese Worker, Dies Suddenly

FRANK W. Fishel, 38, Route 5, Braddock road, a machinist at the Celanese plant for fifteen years, died suddenly yesterday afternoon as he was tearing down the store building of the old N. and G. Taylor Tin Plate building in South Cumberland.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy county medical examiner, who investigated with Detective Lt. B. Frank Gaffney and Detective E. R. Lilya, said Fishel died as a result of a heart attack and set the time of death as about 2:45 p. m.

Dr. Corson said Fishel's father-in-law, Joseph M. Holt, who was aiding in salvaging lumber from the building, explained that Fishel sat down on a box to rest after the terrific exertion, threw up his hands and toppled over, and was dead before he could reach him.

He was a native of West Virginia and a son of Jacob D. Fishel.

Besides his father, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Holt Fishel; two sons, David and Donald, and one daughter, Elaine, at home; five brothers, Jesse M. Fishel, Green Spring, W. Va.; John W. Boy Scout Council Buys Camp Site Near Oldtown

Over Hundred Acre Tract Will Be Developed for Outdoor Activity

A new camp site has been purchased for Boy Scouts of this region, Kenneth E. Jackson, executive of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America announced yesterday.

The site, a tract containing 113½ acres of open and wooded land is located near Oldtown, this county, just off the Cresap road. Two streams Seven Springs Run and Tar Kiln Run, flow together on the property, assuring an ample supply of fresh and pure water.

Jackson said the tract was purchased from Roy H. Yeager and was deeded to Dr. Frank U. Davis, Miles G. Thompson and Victor D. Heisey, trustees for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America. Estel C. Kelley, local attorney cleared the title and prepared the land record.

The tract is one of several which were examined in recent months by local scout officials. About fifty leading business and professional men of the Tri State area have gone over it and approval has been almost unanimous.

Men with engineering experience say it will be possible to construct a small dam near the junction of the two streams on the property, and a miniature lake can be developed. There are numerous splendid sites for cabins and other camping facilities, Jackson declared. The place is believed by most scout leaders to have year-round possibilities, once it is developed.

For fifteen years, one scout official said, men and boys here who are interested in scouting have dreamed of a permanent local Boy Scout camp. This site, he exclaimed, seems to be the answer to what is wanted and needed.

Members of the Council's camp committee include, Floyd Davis, of Luke; George Schwarzenbach and W. Donald Smith, this city; Lawrence Lewis, Keyser, W. Va.; Harley Dixson, Piedmont, W. Va., and Howard F. Ward, Frostburg.

The camp will not be utilized this summer, as some time will be required to develop and improve the place for occupancy.

This summer members of troops in the council will camp at Minco Park, in Mineral county, near Hedgeville, W. Va., from June 29 to July 27. The camp was used by Tri Towns District Scouts last year and is also used by Mineral county 4-H clubs, Jackson said.

Rawlings Man Is Slugged, Robbed

Police said last night they are still investigating the slugging and robbing of Robert T. Thrasher, 65, at his Rawlings home Thursday night by an armed and masked man.

Officers said Thrasher, a B. and O. railroad trackman, told them he was hit on the back of the head with either a blackjack or a gun barrel and that his pocketbook containing about $300 in cash was taken.

Thrasher, who had retired, was awakened about 9:30 p. m. by a knock at the back door, police said he told them, adding that he pulled on his trousers and answered the call.

Trooper Glen D. Folk said the man, wearing a mask or bandage on his face, stood on the porch, which was dark, and told Thrasher his (Thrasher's sister, Mrs. Agnes Dawson, had been hurt in an accident on the highway. Thrasher then half turned to get more clothing when the man pulled a gun, the officer added. Then, he said, he was hit on the head with a blackjack or the gun barrel.

State police say they believe the robbery was the work of someone who lived in the area and knew Thrasher as he used his sister's name in a familiar way.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES ARRIVAL OF NEW INHALATOR

Virtually all the parts of the new inhalator and resuscitator purchased recently by the Cumberland Police Department have been delivered at the Public Safety building and will be set up for operation soon, police reported yesterday.

Sgt. John H. Newhouse, officer in charge of equipment for the department, described the new device as the latest model available and pointed out that the machine is equipped to handle two patients at one time if necessary.

The new equipment, being fifty per cent lighter in weight than the present device, will enable police to carry along on their missions of mercy a greater supply of oxygen, Sgt. Newhouse explained.

Since oxygen tanks supplied with the new resuscitator are made of aluminum, they will be easier to handle than former models. Sgt. Newhouse said that each tank will supply oxygen for about fifteen minutes and estimated that a tank and a half is needed for the average carbon monoxide victim.

He stressed the importance of an oxygen storage tank that has been purchased to enable police to refill service tanks quickly.

Police here have been told by the E. and J. Manufacturing Company, which builds the device, that the local record in the use of the resuscitator has been especially good.

Celanese Offers Union Equivalent To 8-cent Raise

Company Proposes Arbitration To Settle Method of Distribution

Fred T. Small, plant manager, in a statement last evening, disclosed that the Celanese Corporation of America has offered to give the equivalent of an eight cent hourly increase to employes of the Amcelle plant with the proviso that the increase be distributed on the percentage basis.

Small added that the only disagreement between the company and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, is one of interpretation of the clause involving the method of distributing the increase, and that the company is willing to submit the issue to arbitration.

Will Meet Tuesday

The statement follows:

A meeting was held Friday afternoon between the company and the union with United States Conciliator James A. Holden present and the company was officially advised of the union's rejection of its proposal as already reported in the press. The meeting adjourned until Tuesday afternoon with one issue to be resolved.

The union has demanded an eight cent increase for all employes. The company has agreed to give the equivalent of an eight cent increase with the proviso that it be distributed as a percentage over the present wage scale with no further wage adjustment for the period of one year.

This represents an increase of approximately six, seven, eight, nine and ten cents, according to the rate earned, the largest increase going to more skilled jobs.

It is pointed out that the present increase equivalent to eight cents per hour, with the ten cent increase of September last, make a total of eighteen cents per hour which is comparable to the present national wage policy.

The company's proposal is intended to insure the present wage relationships as agreed to in the negotiations of September, 1945, which provides that any further increase during the life of the present contract would be on a percentage basis. This condition was made a part of the present contract in the following clause:

"In accepting an increase in wages of ten cents per hour to all hourly paid employes, the union recognizes the fact that lower rates for less skilled jobs will receive a higher percentage increase than higher rates established for more skilled jobs and thus change by several per cent the spread now in effect between the higher and the lower rates.

Other Provisions Cited

"This will largely modify the relationship in rates of pay which have been established by negotiations through past years.

"The union agrees that no wage demands will be made during the life of the contract which would seek to readjust the relationships between the rates now fixed by the application of this ten cents per hour general increase."

CONFERENCE FAILS TO END DISPUTE AT PESKIN'S STORE

Officials of Local 664, Retail Clerks Protective Association, said yesterday that the union will continue to picket Peskin's Shoe Store, 145 Baltimore street, until the management of the store agrees to an election for union representation and the reinstatement of four employes of the store.

Picketing of the store began yesterday morning after members of the union in the store struck in protest of the discharge of four workers.

One of the clerks, according to Morton W. Peskin, store manager, was discharged for insulting a customer and the other three were clerks hired for the Easter season and no longer needed.

The store manager said last evening that the store was operated yesterday by department heads and added that a conference held yesterday afternoon between union representatives and the company attorney failed to bring an agreement.

William R. McGinnis, international representative, said the union is also demanding a union shop and an approximate weekly increase of $5 in wages.

Disabled Veterans Open Second State Convention Here

Delegates Register Today; Executive Cites Work Policy at Celanese

The Disabled American Veterans second annual Maryland Department convention opened here last night with a meeting of the executive committee at the Fort Cumberland hotel and a large number of delegates arriving for the first registration this morning.

Department Commander Adolph C. Winkler, Sr., of Baltimore, presided at the executive session and said last night that routine business and several matters to come before the convention were discussed.

The executive committee decided to make an award to the Celanese Corporation of America, in the form of a citation and a banner, for the excellent manner the company has co-operated in placing veterans and especially disabled veterans in permanent employment.

Commander Winkler declared "the Celanese here has done a noble job in giving consideration to men with disability caused by their military service, and the company has done everything possible to make it easier for these disabled veterans to become self-sufficient and be gainfully and productively employed."

Resolutions Discussed

The award will be a large banner to be displayed from the flag mast at the plant, under the national emblem, Winkler explained.

The executive committee discussed resolutions designed to bring about immediate action in Congress on measures of benefit to disabled veterans. One of the major issues at present, Winkler declared, is the government's policy of reducing or cutting off disability allowances to veterans when they are hospitalized. The DAV intends to have this practice changed by encouraging the necessary legislation, Winkler said, and views the practice as "unfair, inhuman and decidely a burden upon the veteran and his family."

Among those already here for the conclave are David R. Wolverton, of Chevy Chase, senior vice-commander; John J. Vodak, of Annapolis, chaplain; Frederick H. Strohecker, of Baltimore, treasurer; Jacob Bondi, of Baltimore, officer of the day; Fraser S. Gardner, of Silver Springs, historian; Balster Herman, of Baltimore, adjutant and George A. Keyser, of Chevy Chase, judge advocate.

Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, is the host unit for the convention, and David S. McMillan, local commander, was on hand at the Fort Cumberland and the chapter dugout, South Centre street, to greet visiting officers and delegates.

McMillan said last night a program has been arranged to keep delegates busy, and there is considerable business to come before the convention. The parade, he said, is expected to attract quite a lot of attention, and numerous organizations of this area will participate. The parade is scheduled for 6:45 p. m. today in downtown Cumberland.

Registrations Open Today

Registrations will be open today from 9 a. m. until 10 a. m. The opening meeting will be held in the ballroom of Fort Cumberland hotel at 10 a. m. Recess will be called at 12:30 p. m. and the convention will reconvene at 1:30 p. m. when a number of distinguished guests will be presented.

Among the invited convention speakers are Dow V. Walker, national commander; Vivian D. Corbly, national adjutant; William E. Tate, past national commander and national director of claims; Millard

Smith Takes Steps Toward Cleaning Downtown Streets

The first step toward cleaning up the streets in downtown Cumberland was taken Thursday by Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to all downtown merchants.

Smith discussed the problem of refuse, dirt and dust on the city streets with Street Commissioner Myers G. Light, and the two are co-operating to improve the condition.

In his letter, Smith calls attention to the fact that streets in the business section are swept each night by the city, and at 8 a. m. are usually free of refuse. But by 9 a. m., after merchants or their porters, janitors or other employes sweep the stores and sidewalks, they are again cluttered with dirt, paper and refuse.

Smith says in his letter, "Let's be frank about it." "A little care in individual sweeping and disposal of refuse will serve to eliminate a fair degree of this obvious nuisance," his letter states.

The chamber of commerce secretary reminds the merchants that dust and dirt is not only a nuisance, but when it blows into stores damages merchandise and accumulates, only to be swept out again.

Smith also calls attention to the fact that there is a stiff penalty under an exising city ordinance for the sweeping procedure now being followed by local business pe-

Beall Wants VA To Take Over Baker Hospital

Representative J. Glenn Beall is much interested in the Veterans administration maintaining Newton D. Baker General hospital at Martinsburg, W. Va., and has petitioned Gen. Omar Bradley, administrator of the VA to take over the hospital when the War department releases it.

Other official business in which Beall participated this week includes attending a District of Columbia committee meeting at which time his bill to amend the adoption law of the District of Columbia was approved. He also attended hearings of that committee relative to rent control on commercial buildings.

Beall has also been in touch with the Navy department and the Veterans Administration in trying to have the Navy department inaugurate "on the job training" for veterans in some of their agencies. The Sixth Maryland district representative has protested to the commandant at the Navy yard the method of dismissing men with long service records and excellent efficiency ratings. He feels that the method being used is most unfair and very discriminatory.

The representative has been advised by the Federal Works Agency that $1,600 has been allocated to the mayor and commissioners of Barton to prepare plans for a combined firehouse meeting place.

Kiwanians Hear Address In Washington, D. C., By International Head

A delegation of Cumberland Kiwanians, who attended a meeting of the Washington, D. C. Club in the Mayflower hotel Thursday heard Hamilton Holt, president of Kiwanis International of Macon, Ga., tell representatives of Kiwanis clubs from Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia that the nation needs a "new set of rules of conduct" to bring about unity between labor and capital.

Holt declared that because of the lack of such rules, there now is "nothing to stop that shaggy brow of collossal conceit" from paralyzing industry.

Twenty-two members of the Cumberland club made the trip to Washington in a chartered bus. This was the largest delegation of any club at the meeting, with the exception, of course, of the host club, Washington. Following the Kiwanis meeting, the Cumberlanders attended the Washington-Detroit baseball game and then returned home.

His brother, Pvt. Gene T. Files, is serving in the European Theater ... tank corps.

Red Cross Chairmen Submit Annual Reports to Board of Directors

The Junior Red Cross program is now in operation in all public schools and all parochial schools in the county except one, according to the annual report of Miss Lillian C. Compton, chairman, to the board of directors of Allegany county chapter, American Red Cross.

Miss Compton said that approximately 12,000 pupils in forty-three elementary county schools participated in the program during the year, and that $238.50 in dues and $392.04 in contributions to the Red Cross service fund were raised last year.

The service fund is used to buy necessary articles for children in Europe as the articles are requested by the International Red Cross. Children taking part in the county program also sent gift boxes overseas as well as letters and scrapbooks to children in foreign lands.

Miss Jane Botsford, supervisor for the county board of education and co-chairman with Miss Compton, read the report at the recent board of directors' meeting.

Conference Planned

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the chapter, said yesterday that George F. Carrington, Junior Red Cross representative for this area, will come to Cumberland Monday from eastern area headquarters, Alexandria, Va.

Carrington will hold conferences with staff members of the local chapter regarding the postwar Junior Red Cross program in county schools next week.

In her annual report on production activities of Red Cross sewing groups, Mrs. Jim McQuown, chairman, said that articles made from July, 1945, to the present include 402 women's cotton dresses, sixty women's woolen dresses, 227 boys' cotton shirts, thirty-three boys' woolen tweed coats, 307 pairs of boys' shorts, 201 girls' woolen capes, sixteen pairs of overalls and five woolen snowsuits. In addition, 1,467 shirts for babies and 131 layettes were made.

Mrs. L. R. Meyers, surgical dressings chairman, read the report of Mrs. Peter Collins, chairman of nurses' aides. Although that group is now inactive, Mrs. Collins said that between August, 1942, and August, 1945, the nurses' aides worked a total of 21,909 hours in local hospitals and at the Red Cross blood donor center. Total hours worked until April 1 of this year amount to 23,753, she added.

In her own report on the activities of the surgical dressings group, Mrs. Meyers said that 563,700 surgical dressings were made by 450 county women in the period between August, 1942, and December, 1944. In April, 1945, Newton D. Baker General hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., requested further supplies of the dressings until the following October. In that time approximately 35,541 dressings were made by 204 women and sent to the hospital.

H. Lee Silcox, first aid chairman, reported that sixteen persons between 12 and 14 were certified in junior first aid courses last year; 189 persons completed the standard first aid course for persons 15 and older; twelve completed the advanced course; twenty-nine finished the junior lifesaving course, and fifteen completed the senior lifesaving course.

Silcox also reported that there are nineteen first aid instructors and two water safety instructors in the county at the present time.

Mrs. Hammond Amick, camp and hospital council chairman, recommended that the group be continued despite the imminent closing of Newton D. Baker General hospital. The last meeting of the group at the hospital will be held May 28.

Mrs. Amick reported that articles such as books, records, comic books, T-shirts, playing cards and harmonicas have been sent to patients at the hospital, and added that Oscar Parrish, local magician, who entertained the patients in April, will make a return visit May 18 to the hospital.

Miss Eleanor Sloan, Lonaconing branch chairman, reported that twenty-seven home service cases were handled in her area in April, and that four English war brides have arrived, with another war bride from Wales expected soon. Eleven persons completed a class in Red Cross home nursing last week, she added.

Blind Baltimore Stand Operators To Support O'Neal

Two blind men who operate news vending stands in federal buildings in Baltimore, made a surprise visit yesterday to James O'Neal operator of the news stand in the post office lobby, and pledged their support and co-operation in his fight to keep his stand without signing a contract with the Maryland Workshop for the Blind.

Paul E. Meeks, who operates a stand in the Social Security building in Baltimore, and has been there since 1937, told O'Neal his fight against the workshop has aroused great interest in Baltimore.

Ben L. Bond, who runs the stand in the main post office building in Baltimore, where he has operated since 1933, said each time anything appears in the newspapers about the efforts of the workshop to have the stands "operated as chain stores under agency jurisdiction and control, people ask so many questions and offer us so much encouragement, I feel like hiring an assistant just to talk with them."

Meeks and Bond both say they have refused to sign a contract which the Maryland Workshop has tried to get O'Neal to sign and that they "do not intend to come under the control of any agency, or of any representative of any agency, which would arbitrarily require them to pay a percentage of receipts to provide a salary or a job for some individual."

The two men are quite vehement in their comments and maintain that numerous Baltimore lawyers, business and professional people, and hundreds of their customers are aroused over the situation and have urged them to assist O'Neal in his campaign, or "face the same thing."

Upon coming here, the pair visited awhile with O'Neal and conferred with a couple of local lawyers.

Meeks said yesterday he is writing the speech in Braille and will read it himself over the air, at 6:15 o'clock this evening.

Coal Truce Causes No Change in Plans For B. & O. Furloughs

H. F. Wyatt, superintendent of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said last night that the two-week truce in the coal mine strike has caused no change in the railroad's plan to furlough more than 1,500 workers on Monday.

Wyatt said the furloughs will begin as scheduled unless he receives orders to the contrary.

Catholics Back Appeal for Food To Aid Children

A nationwide appeal for canned foods for the children of Europe and the Far East will be sponsored by all Catholic archdioceses and dioceses of the United States, in cooperation with the War Relief Services, National Catholic Welfare Conference, during the week of May 12 to May 14.

The Rev. Francis McKeown, of St. Patrick's church, is chairman of the drive for the district including Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, and is an assistant to the Rev. E. Jerome Winters, St. Stephens church, Washington, D. C., who is chairman for the Archdiocese of Baltimore and Washington.

The Food for the Children campaign is a direct response to urgent appeals on the world food crisis recently made by Pope Pius XII, President Truman, Herbert Hoover, head of President Truman's Famine Emergency committee, and Fiorello LaGuardia, director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Goal Is 20,000,000 Cans

Catholics of America will be asked to contribute at least 20,000,000 cans of food. During a similar campaign in 1945, the parishes collected 24,600,000 cans of food. The appeal will be made in 15,000 parishes throughout the United States and the food will be brought to the parish churches by those who wish to contribute. Contributions will be sent to the warehouses of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in New York, Chicago, or San Francisco for processing, packing and shipping.

Canned goods of all kinds and food packed in jars will be accepted in the campaign. In the last drive the majority of the items consisted of evaporated, condensed and powdered milk, milk formula for infants, chocolate milk powders, cocoa, strained or chopped fruits and canned vegetables. The list suggested for the present campaign also includes canned meat, fish, peanut butter, soups and baby foods of all types.

The campaign will be conducted in all Catholic churches in the area, including the three local Catholic parishes. Father McKeown stated that Protestant ministers had contacted him, asking that their congregations be allowed to participate in the collection. Father McKeown said that the Catholic church will welcome contributions from anyone desiring to participate, and, that where Protestant churches want to take part in the collection, the minister of the church should contact the priest at the Catholic parish in his community for further details.

All foods received in the campaign will be distributed solely on the basis of need, without regard to race, color or creed. The slogan of the drive is "Spare — Share — and Save a Life."

Retiring Pastor, Wife Are Honored By Congregation

The Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Wittig were honored by members and friends of Emmanuel Methodist church with a Fellowship supper in recognition of the former's retirement, which will become effective at the conference in Westminster, May 29.

A native of Galvaston, Texas, the Rev. Mr. Wittig first came to Cumberland thirty-five years ago as physical director of Central YMCA, from which he went into the ministry, at the Southern church of the Baltimore Conference and received his license in 1911 at Central Methodist church, South George street, this city. He was ordained in the ministry by Bishop Kilgo in Alexandria, Va.

His pastorates were in Virginia, Eastern Shore of Maryland and Baltimore city. He came to Cumberland in 1939 from a charge in Laurel. A graduate of Springfield college, Mass., Mr. Wittig married Mrs. Ella Kauffman, Baltimore, in May 1940.

While the Rev. Mr. Wittig was pastor of Emmanuel church the past seven years he liquidated the church debt of several thousand dollars; made about $3,000 worth of improvements; had the parsonage redecorated and remodeled, and increased the membership of the church approximately 100, according to the report he made at his last quarterly conference held following the supper.

The Rev. Dr. William F. Wright, superintendent of the Hagerstown district of the Baltimore Conference, was the principal speaker at the supper, paying special recognition to the fact that the Rev. Mr Wittig began and completed his ministerial work in Cumberland, he also congratulated him on the success of his work.

Mrs. Walter Trout, in behalf of the Dorcas Bible class and Mrs. Regina Sulser, for the WSCS, presented the Rev. and Mrs. Wittig with gifts, in recognition of their work here. Approximately sixty-five guests attended the party honoring the pastor and his wife.

Four Miners Will Face Arraignment On Attack Charges

Burnwell Coal Mine Will Remain Closed, Graves Says in Statement

Two miners from Garrett county and two from nearby West Virginia will be arraigned in trial magistrates court at Oakland this morning on charges of assault with intent to kill John C. Keister, president and general manager of the Burnwell Coal Company, New Germany road, as a result of an alleged attack on Keister Wednesday by members of a band of 150 striking miners, Sheriff George E. Coddington, of Garrett county, said last night.

In the meantime, J. Fred Graves, vice president of the company, issued a statement in which he said the mine will not operate as long as union mines of the country are closed.

Graves said this decision was reached because the company realized the location of its mining operation makes it extremely difficult for the county or state to furnish adequate protection to the employes.

Warrants Obtained by Keister

Sheriff Coddington said the warrants charging assault and battery with intent to kill were obtained Wednesday by Keister from Magistrate J. U. Stanton, Grantsville, following the alleged assault on him and Ray G. Jenkins, 28, farmer and war veteran, who lives along the New Germany road.

Named as the attackers in the warrants, Coddington said, are Woodrow Wilson, Kitzmiller; "Ed" Helmick, who lives in West Virginia but near Shallmar, Md.; "Hip" Whitefield, who lives between Oakland and Kitzmiller, and Robert Smith, Blaine, W. Va.

The sheriff said the four men have been notified to appear before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch at Oakland at 10 o'clock this morning that bond will be set by the magistrate.

Graves, in his statement made yesterday afternoon, declared that the Burnwell Coal Company "believes that every American citizen has a right to work if he can find an employer who is willing to hire him, and it also believes that every American citizen has a right to join or not to join a union.

"Where the employes of a company are not unionized, it would seem clear that no one has a right to prevent their working, and certainly no one has any right to assault and injure them because they try to work. It is also clear that the president and general manager of a company should not be subjected to a brutal assault because he agreed to give employment to men who asked him for work, and obviously a man who has never been employed by a company should not be assaulted on the highways.

Protection Difficult

"Despite the unquestioned soundness of these views, the Burnwell Coal Company realizes that the location of its mining operation, which is in the woods of Garrett county about three and one-half miles from the National pike, renders it extremely difficult for the county or the state to have its employes assume the risk of bodily harm because they want to work, and perhaps have some of them actually killed, it has decided not to operate the mine while the union mines of the country are closed."

Prior to making that statement, Graves declared, "Our employes are residents of Garrett county, and they have never joined the union, though the company has never made any effort to prevent their doing so. As a matter of fact, Mr. John C. Keister, who is president of the company, and general manager of its mining operations, was at one time a union official in District 16, United Mine Workers of America, and I understand that he only left the union when he went into business for himself.

"When the coal strike started on April 1 we closed down our operations, and remained closed for two or three weeks. Then a few of our employes asked us to give them some work and we did so. However, within a few days Mr. John T. Jones, president of District 16, United Mine Workers of America, and some other union officials, called at the mine and suggested that we close down again, and we did so. Last Monday a number of the men again asked Mr. Keister to give them work, stating that their families were suffering and they needed employment, and as the men were not members of the union, and the company had no contract with the union, we decided to comply with our employes' request and to give them some work.

Employes Went Home

"On Wednesday morning, a large number of men, traveling in cars and a truck, visited the mine and asked to talk to the men who were working, and Mr. (Robert) Ewing,

Order Howitzer

In another act by the commissioners yesterday, an order was passed unanimously to order an artillery field piece to be placed on the court house lawn as a World War II memorial.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, in response to a request of the commissioners several weeks ago asking that a trophy be obtained to replace the World War I German field piece, informed the board that a 155 mm. howitzer was available at the Anniston, Ala., ordnance depot, according to Maj. Gen. E. S. Hughes.

Board Chairman Simeon W. Green yesterday signed the necessary papers to have the howitzer shipped here. The county will pay $167.50 freight charges and $35 for packing and de-militarizing the gun.

Miss Wella Cook, secretary of the Allegany County War Memorial Committee, sent a letter of appreciation to the board for the $50 donation toward the fund being raised to complete the honor roll board in city hall rotunda.

Harry Poland, Mt. Savage, asked that county equipment be used, when available, to grade the Mt. Savage baseball field. The request was referred to John H. Carscaden, county engineer.

Ask Road Improvements

Signed by fifty residents of the area, a petition was presented by George Henderson, counsel for the group, to have improvements made to the Wagner road, which leads from the Uhl highway below Oldtown. The petition was referred to Carscaden for investigation.

The McCoole Volunteer Fire Department invited members of the board to attend a turkey dinner at 6 p. m. today at the McCoole school, in honor of members of the department who served in World War II.

The board approved an order to pay $5 annual dues in the Western Shore County Commissioners Association.

Boy Scout Council Buys Camp Site Near Oldtown

Over Hundred Acre Tract Will Be Developed for Outdoor Activity

A new camp site has been purchased for Boy Scouts of this region, Kenneth E. Jackson, executive of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America announced yesterday.

The site, a tract containing 113½ acres of open and wooded land is located near Oldtown, this county, just off the Cresap road. Two streams Seven Springs Run and Tar Kiln Run, flow together on the property, assuring an ample supply of fresh and pure water.

Jackson said the tract was purchased from Roy H. Yeager and was deeded to Dr. Frank U. Davis, Miles G. Thompson and Victor D. Heisey, trustees for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America. Estel C. Kelley, local attorney cleared the title and prepared the land record.

The tract is one of several which were examined in recent months by local scout officials. About fifty leading business and professional men of the Tri State area have gone over it and approval has been almost unanimous.

Men with engineering experience say it will be possible to construct a small dam near the junction of the two streams on the property, and a miniature lake can be developed. There are numerous splendid sites for cabins and other camping facilities, Jackson declared. The place is believed by most scout leaders to have year-round possibilities, once it is developed.

For fifteen years, one scout official said, men and boys here who are interested in scouting have dreamed of a permanent local Boy Scout camp. This site, he exclaimed, seems to be the answer to what is wanted and needed.

Members of the Council's camp committee include, Floyd Davis, of Luke; George Schwarzenbach and W. Donald Smith, this city; Lawrence Lewis, Keyser, W. Va.; Harley Dixson, Piedmont, W. Va., and Howard F. Ward, Frostburg.

The camp will not be utilized this summer, as some time will be required to develop and improve the place for occupancy.

This summer members of troops in the council will camp at Minco Park, in Mineral county, near Hedgeville, W. Va., from June 29 to July 27. The camp was used by Tri Towns District Scouts last year and is also used by Mineral county 4-H clubs, Jackson said.

Rawlings Man Is Slugged, Robbed

Police said last night they are still investigating the slugging and robbing of Robert T. Thrasher, 65, at his Rawlings home Thursday night by an armed and masked man.

Officers said Thrasher, a B. and O. railroad trackman, told them he was hit on the back of the head with either a blackjack or a gun barrel and that his pocketbook containing about $300 in cash was taken.

Thrasher, who had retired, was awakened about 9:30 p. m. by a knock at the back door, police said he told them, adding that he pulled on his trousers and answered the call.

Trooper Glen D. Folk said the man, wearing a mask or bandage on his face, stood on the porch, which was dark, and told Thrasher his (Thrasher's sister, Mrs. Agnes Dawson, had been hurt in an accident on the highway. Thrasher then half turned to get more clothing when the man pulled a gun, the officer added. Then, he said, he was hit on the head with a blackjack or the gun barrel.

State police say they believe the robbery was the work of someone who lived in the area and knew Thrasher as he used his sister's name in a familiar way.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES ARRIVAL OF NEW INHALATOR

Virtually all the parts of the new inhalator and resuscitator purchased recently by the Cumberland Police Department have been delivered at the Public Safety building and will be set up for operation soon, police reported yesterday.

Sgt. John H. Newhouse, officer in charge of equipment for the department, described the new device as the latest model available and pointed out that the machine is equipped to handle two patients at one time if necessary.

The new equipment, being fifty per cent lighter in weight than the present device, will enable police to carry along on their missions of mercy a greater supply of oxygen, Sgt. Newhouse explained.

Since oxygen tanks supplied with the new resuscitator are made of aluminum, they will be easier to handle than former models, Sgt. Newhouse said that each tank will supply oxygen for about fifteen minutes and estimated that a tank and a half is needed for the average carbon monoxide victim.

He stressed the importance of an oxygen storage tank that has been purchased to enable police to refill service tanks quickly.

Police here have been told by the E. and J. Manufacturing Company, which builds the device, that the local record in the use of the resusciator has been especially good.
